Novena Inaugurated In Army Camps

CHICAGO.—The Novena to Our Sorrowful Mother was introduced into nine more Catholic churches and army camps in this country on Friday, Mar. 12, according to an announcement from the Rev. Terence A. Seery, O.S.M., Novena national director.

These openings of the impressive Novena services constitute the largest number of new installations on one Friday in more than a year, Father Seery announced. The war has given fresh impetus to the famous world-wide Novena, the Novena director pointed out.

The Novena, sponsored by the Servite Fathers, originated the Hemispheric Crusade of prayer dedicated to the winning of the war in 1943. Before the Crusade was started Friday, Mar. 12, statistics showed the Novena is attended by 1,006,000 each week in 1,130 churches in this country. The Novena is also in 186 churches in 23 foreign countries.

The churches in which the Novena will be introduced Friday are: St. Francis de Paula, San Diego, Texas; St. Joseph's, Alice, Texas; St. Rose of Lima, Benavides, Texas, and the Mother of Sorrows Church, Rochester, N. Y.

The new camp openings are: Fort Douglas, Army Air Force Flying School, Phoenix, Ariz.; Army Air Force School, Smyrna, Tenn.; Williams Field, Chandler, Ariz., and Elgin Field, Fla.

The Novena is now conducted in 27 army camps and Navy stations, according to the National director.

During the six years of the Novena's existence, it has been attended by 180,725,857 persons.

Poet Thrills In Culture Lecture On Jesuit Martyrs

DETROIT.—Dr. E. J. Pratt, Canadian called "North America's greatest narrative" poet, winner three times of the "Governor-General's Award For Poetry," whose Gov.-Gen. Prize narrative poem of 50 pages "Brebeuf and His Brethren" has already sustained eight Canadian editions and is beginning to galvanize the first "American edition of a few weeks ago," gave one of the most thrilling lectures in the whole nine years of the "Christian Culture Series" in Detroit, in Catholic Central Auditorium, Sunday night, March 14, speaking on "The North American Martyrs."

"St. John Brebeuf is my favorite saint, and I want the whole world to know him and his companions," said Dr. Pratt, who is professor at Victoria College, Toronto, and a non-Catholic.

"Nothing in North American early history parallels the sublime courage and heroism of these cultured and holy martyrs." "Brebeuf's letter to France asking for more missionaries and graphically delineating the conditions in America looms as one of the greatest letters in all history."

"The martyrs surpassed the Indians at their own game, refusing to whimper . . . Brebeuf astounded them . . . they could not discover the supernatural source of his courage . . ." "Cruelty hardly exists amongst the animals; it is an almost purely human degradation and achievement."

Scrupulously accurate, perfect in doctrine, "Brebeuf and His Brethren" has been called the "most complete poem of the age in any land."

Dr. Pratt concluded his address by calling on all people of goodwill to realize some of the spiritual [illegible]
