Review Newman Club's Role In Wartime

WASHINGTON— (NC) —Newman Clubs are playing an increasingly important role in safeguarding the faith of Catholic students at secular institutions. This was revealed by reports of delegates who attended the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newman Club Federation held Sept. 21 at its national office in the Headquarters of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Newman Clubs in many institutions are providing special programs for military trainees stationed on their campuses. In the majority of cases Newman Club Chaplains now also serve as Auxiliary Chaplains for the trainees.

Election of Officers

The election of officers which normally takes place at the annual conference, was held during the meeting of the Executive Committee since conditions do not permit the holding of a National Conference.

M. Francis Gaddis, of the University of Alabama, was elected president of the Federation. He served as the national treasurer last year. Mr. Gaddis succeeds Miss M. Virginia Moroney of Boston.

The Rev. Donald M. Cleary, formerly of Cornell University, and now Chaplain in the Army Air Forces, continues to serve as National Chaplain of the Federation.

I have been driving many Cubs to the hangar by the aerodrome myself but I say we all take Cub to go to Abraham Lincoln.
