Weekly Calendar Of Feast Days

Sunday, October 17.—St. Hedwige—Saint Margaret Mary Alacoque. St. Hedwige, wife of Henry, Duke of Silesia, and the mother of six children, led a humble, austere and holy life, amidst all the pomp of royal state. Devotion to the Blessed Sacrament marked her life. At her husband's death she retired to the Cistercian convent of Trebnitz. She died 1242.

Saint Margaret Mary was born in Burgundy in 1647. The very thought of sin filled her with horror. She entered the Order of the Visitation and was honored by God with many visions. She was allowed to see, through revelation in 1675, that she with Father de la Colombiere, the Jesuit, would be the chief instrument in instituting the Feast of the Sacred Heart and spreading that devotion. She died October 17, 1690.

Monday, October 18.—St. Luke, was a physician and painter at Antioch before his conversion by St. Paul, whose fellow laborer he became. He wrote the Acts of the Apostles as a sequel to his Gospel. He died a martyr's death in Achaia.

Tuesday, October 19.—St. Peter of Alcantara, when a youth, left home in Spain and entered a convent of Discalced Franciscans. In 1539 he founded the first convent for "Strict Observance". The cells resembled graves rather than dwelling places and St. Peter's was so small that he could never lie down. He died at the age of 63, on October 18, 1562.

Wednesday, October 20.—St. John Cantius was born at Kenty, Poland, 1403. His great ability, industry, modesty and virtue, coupled with success, attracted great notice. His devotion to the Passion drew him to Jerusalem where he hoped to win the martyr's crown at the hands of the Turks. He died in 1473 at the age of 70 years.

Thursday, October 21. — St. Ursula, virgin and martyr. The name of St. Ursula has from remote ages been held in great honor throughout the Church. She has always been regarded as the patroness of young persons and the model of teachers. Rather than suffer shame she and her companions died at the hands of the Huns in 453.

Friday, October 22.—St. Mello, Bishop. — St. Hilarion, Abbot. — St. Mello is said to have been a native of Great Britain. He was first Bishop of Rouen in Normandy, which See he governed for 40 years. He died early in the Fourth Century.

St. Hilarion was born of heathen parents, near Gaza. He was converted while studying grammar near Alexandria. Shortly after, he visited St. Anthony, and, still only in his fifteenth year, he became a solitary in the Arabian desert.

Saturday, October 23.—St. Theodoret, martyr, was most inhumanly tortured because when Julian, uncle to the emperor of that name, as Count of the East, closed the Christian Churches, he assembled the Christians in private. He was later dispatched with the sword.

The Old Barm Loaf.

I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
With its golden brown crust,
And its heart's creamy whiteness.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
With even kneaded texture,
And epicurean tastefulness.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
Diffusing an appetizing aroma,
That made my life endless.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
For savory buttered toast,
To the palate deliciousness.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
With life's battle staff,
And bodily nutritiousness.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
While laying light and fleecy,
It made my sleep dreamless.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
The last word in baking,
And crowned with exquisiteness.
I loved the old barm loaf,
Because it was supremeness.
With all that life required,
For generating Mankind's Friendliness.

EASTMAN

Accorded a high place among the really fine motion picture productions of the year by virtually unanimous consent of photoplay critics, "La Boheme" will be given a fitting musical setting at the Eastman all next week. The story is based on the famous opera by Puccini, which has long been rated a dramatic, as well as a musical masterpiece and with John Gilbert and Lillian Gish to enact the leading role it is not hard to understand the enthusiasm of New York critics, one of whom said "It is a photoplay of exquisite beauty, an effort that constantly stirs the emotions and the performances of the principals are unrivaled in a romance of this type."

Under the direction of Victor Wagner and Guy Fraser Harrison the Eastman Orchestra will accompany the entire feature without relief by the organ and an elaborate score is expected to give the picture a musical as well as a pictorial charm.
