200 Campion Alumni At Reunion Meeting

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Aug. 24. Many alumni of Campion Preparatory School here attended the home-coming festival during the three days ending Sunday. More than two hundred former students were on the campus for the reunion festivities. More of them had to journey long distances from different parts of twelve Middle Western States to be present. Classes which were graduated as far back as 1884, and 1887 had their representatives on hand.

The exercises of each day began with solemn High Mass in the chapel of Our Lady of the Angels. A great many priest alumni were in attendance. At the banquet on Saturday evening, the Rev. Albert C. Fox, S.J., president of Marquette University, and former president of Campion, was guest of honor. The Rev. William Reding, class of '87 and pastor at Wisconsin Rapids, addressed the gathering.

The Rev. Thomas O'Shaughnessy of Boscobel, Wis., is the new president of the Campion Alumni Association.

Bible Courses In Holy Land For Protestants

By Dr. Alexander Mombelli.
(Jerusalem Correspondent, N. C. W. C. News Service).

Jerusalem, Aug. 12.—Thirty-one theological students of Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, are spending their summer vacation term of six weeks taking a practical course in the Bible in the Holy Land. The Bishop of the Church of England in Jerusalem is their supreme director in the course.

The theologians are here as a part of the jubilee celebration of their hall. They are quartered at the English College and St. George's Hostel, and use the Anglican Cathedral for their daily services. Visits are made daily to the important places in the Holy City. The students will go into Galilee for a week-end, or longer, and will make a motor tour of Transjordania.

A staff of lecturers instruct the visiting students as a regular part of their course. The staff lectures are supplemented with addresses by the Anglican Bishop, the Greek Orthodox Archbishop of Jordan, and the Principal of the Hebrew University.

The visitation of the English students is taken as a further indication of the growing international attraction of the Holy Places. For centuries the country of Christ has been the Mecca of pilgrims who sought to trace the steps of Our Lord. Later it became the goal of archaeologists. Now it is the Biblical sciences. These now manifest a strong preference for the panorama of the Holy Places as a background for an intensive study of the Bible.

As a consequence the pioneers of Catholic culture in Palestine, who have shed glory upon the Church, even in the Biblical field, are being followed, more or less systematically, by the various schools of Protestant theology. The visit of these English students was preceded by the announcement of plans for the erection of a new hospice in Jerusalem where the Scotch clergy will be helped to increase their knowledge of the Bible, with the Holy Places for the background.

Sheik Proclaiming Himself God Finds Converts in Syria

By Dr. Alexander Mombelli.
(Jerusalem Correspondent, N. C. W. News Service).

Jerusalem, August 12.—Trouble is feared in the vicinity of Homs, Syria, where Soliman Ide, an Alawit sheik, has proclaimed himself to be a god, and his wife, a goddess. The case parallels the rising of "a prophet" in the same vicinity two years ago, when much blood was shed.

Soliman Ide, it is said, is not content with the usual rank of Moslem prophet and has set himself up to be a real god and invited his fellow countrymen to embrace his new religion. His wife participates in his "divine nature", he told his people. Many have embraced the sheik's new creed and several services are held daily in accordance with a new liturgy.

Trouble was expected to result from the establishment of this new religion, because there are those who have not displayed the slightest intention of accepting Soliman Ide's teachings. This was the case two years ago. Then, a Moslem, who claimed to be favored with heavenly visions, predicted that the following day would see the end of the world. Many of his fellow countrymen, believing his prognostications, brought him their goods, that he might remember them before the Eternal Judge.

Some 40 persons dared to mock at this "new prophet" of Allah and these were put to death without hesitation. Had not the police intervened it is certain that the bloodshed would have been even greater.

Passing of Home Life Mourned by Irish Archbishop

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)

Dublin, August 22.—"One of the greatest of present-day evils is the tendency being manifested in many ways to disrupt the home life," declared Archbishop Gilmartin at the opening of the Mayo Feis.

The Archbishop spoke of the passing of the old domestic pleasures that made the home a little paradise; the butter-making, the baking of cakes, the carding of wool, the spinning of varn, the knitting of stockings and all the other little occupations that kept the happy circle together.

"Gone almost, also", said he, "are the goings to the fro between neighbors' houses, the story-tellings and the old Irish dances that brought hard-worked days to a gentle close". Tinsel and gim-crack work had taken the place of the solid and lasting products of Irish hands.

Vanity and Illusions of the Girls.

"Instead of milk and porridge, spinning and knitting", he continued, "we have foreign importations of imitation silk and stuffs to minister to the vanity of our girls; instead of neighborly visitings and story-telling, we have the cinemas and night-walking and the disasters to virtue that often follow them."

Hard work was a thing of the past. The present tendency was to do as little as possible for the biggest wages they could get. "How", His Grace asked, "could they hope to build up a country on foundations such as that?"

The program of the Feis was just what they wanted to counteract this degeneracy. It brought them back to the clean spacious days of old. It tended towards making Irish the language of the home. It encouraged their domestic industries and brought forth the grace and beauty of the Irish dances, and, not least, it stimulated the home production of the necessaries of life.

To Appeal To Clergy

His Grace appealed to the clergy to exercise their great influence in restoring the language, the industries, the games and recreations of their land.

Mr. C. J. W. Waters, National Schools Inspector, speaking in Irish, said that there were even amongst their very own some who were lukewarm about the language, as if they thought its revival impracticable; but he could tell them that they were making a very big mistake.

Catholic Veteran Dead In England

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)

London, Aug. 22.—Through an illness aggravated by wounds he received in the world war, Capt. Muir Dudley Coats, second son of Sir Stuart Coats, has deid in an Edinburgh nursing home. He was only 30.

Coat. Coats served in France with the Scots Guards. He was awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery.

About five years ago he married Miss Audrey West. The wedding was one of the most prominent of that year, for the bride's parents were close friends of the late King Edward VII and the Royal Family took a personal interest in the ceremony, sending presents to the bride and bridegroom.

Sir Stuart Coats is one of the richest men in the country and is a baronet. For his services to the Church he has been created a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great and a Knight Commander of the Order of Pius. He is also a Privy Chamberlain to the Holy Father.

Priest, 28, Believed Youngest Diocesan Treasurer in World

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)

London, Aug. 22.—Before he has completed his twenty-eighth year Father Edmund J. Kelley, D. D., Ph. D., has been appointed treasurer of the Menevia diocese and is thought to be the youngest diocesan treasurer in the world.

On leaving school in 1916 he entered the Inland Revenue department of the civil service, securing the post by competitive examination. Then he served in the navy as a signalman on North Atlantic convoy duties. He travelled more than 15,000 miles during his naval war service and made journeys to America, Canada and elsewhere.

After the war he was appointed to a London office under the civil service and became general secretary of the Association of Officers of Texas, an organization embracing the British Isles. He was also elected a member of the Board of Inland Revenue Whitley council.

All this was before he had reached the age of 21. In 1920 he resigned from the civil service and went to Rome tostudy for the priesthood. He obtained his Ph. D. in 1923 and was ordained in September 1926, after which he returned to Rome for the final year of theology. He took his D. D. degree last month.

Pittsburgh Priest In Glasgow

London, Aug. 22.—Glasgow has at present as a visitor Father Patrick Kiernan, a member of the staff of Pittsburgh cathedral. He is spending a vacation at his home in Parkhead, where he was born.
