The Kind of a Girl to Marry

A Swiss savant believed in an intimate relation between the manner of peeling and preparing potatoes by a young woman and her fitness for marriage. Whether his advice is still of any value today, we do not know, but we will give it anyhow. It reads: "If a man wishes to learn the character of the girl he wants to marry, he should watch her peeling, cleaning and frying potatoes. If she peels the potato, cutting thick rinds, she is extravagant. If she leaves the eyes, she is lazy. If she uses a great deal of lard while frying the vegetable, she is greedy; and if she allows them to burn, she is negligent. On the other hand, if the girl avoids all these pitfalls, the young man should marry her, for she will prove a good friend and wife and bring him prosperity and happiness."

"Divine Reward" In Civic Center On October 8th

Blessed Clet Unit Will Present a Dramatic Story with Beautiful Lesson of Faith.

Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D. D., Bishop of Rochester, in commending the premiere presentation of the play, "The Divine Reward", which is to be produced again on Wednesday evening, October 8th, at the Columbus Civic Center Auditorium, by the Blessed Clet Unit of St. Mary's Hospital says:

"The story brought home to me, as I am sure to all present, a most beautiful lesson of religious faith, and particularly of devotion to our Blessed Lady. It took me back to the Middle Ages and to those glorious days when the Church, through her morality and miraculous plays, taught the great lessons of life and death, of time and eternity. Out of those Middle Age performances came the modern drama, which so often has become a curse rather than a blessing to our modern civilization. I recommend to the clergy and laity of our diocese this presentation of an historical event in the life of the Community of the Sisters of Charity through one of their members, Venerable Sister Catherine Labouré."

Much local interest has been manifested in the play, whose author is a Sister of Charity. There are about 1,500 tickets in circulation for Wednesday night's production. Tickets are in the hands of the committee and are on sale at Trant's and the Columbus Civic Center Auditorium.

Autumn Colorings in Paris Apparel

Scarlet, Rich Brown, Rusty Yellow, Are Featured in Fall Clothes.

Clothes that were made for the summer, but vitalizing the autumn, are what the best dressmakers have been showing, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the Louisville Courier-Journal. Their designers are turning their thoughts to the warmth of autumn colorings, is indicated everywhere. A steady stream of scarlet, rich brown, rusty yellow—hues of the first frost-tipped leaves of autumn—runs through dress, with white forming the bridge with summer. But even the white dress has a touch of red, or perhaps a great splash of it somewhere.

At Berthe's street coats are in cherry red or other bright colors or in a rich, warm brown. These hang straight at the back with a slight flare at the sides, for to be truly smart all skirts, whether they be of dresses or coats, must dip to one side. Fashion might be said to be on the slant; clothes are diagonally striped and many coats are cut on the bias.

As a trimming for cloth coats, printed or plain panne velvet takes the form of insertions or facings, the velvet matching the dress which completes the ensemble, rather than the coat.

Bands of fur half way up the sleeve are new and smart. Fur bracelets, they are called. Fashion is becoming very closely allied with anatomy these days, and elbows are now coming in for their share of attention.

At the moment beaver and badger are the most fashionable furs for trimming. Whether one's coat is collared with fur or not is pretty much a matter of personal choice, for flaring bias scarfs of silk or cloth are quite as smart as collars of fur. But if you decide to have your coat fur-trimmed let the beavers and badgers do it.

Raglan [illegible] full sleeves fastened with links at the cuffs, and very large outside hip pockets are newsy and important, as far as coats are concerned.

Features Three-Piece Ensembles

Three-piece ensembles are featured by Berthe, the jumper blouse being of crepe de chine to match the coat lining. All coats of the afternoon type are three-quarters or seven-eighths length.

The newest evening gowns at this house have ankle length side panels falling from beneath flat hip frills. A separate and matching scarf is considered a necessary part of every evening dress.

Nicole Groult always has featured a normal waistline and is using it at present with good effect on jumper dresses with pleated skirts. The frock of light weight woolen, tailored in appearance and belted snugly with leather of harmonizing or contrasting color, is another popular dress.

A novelty is seen in a boutonniere of gay feathers worn on a tailored revers. Another method of adding color is by silk stitching which carries out the principal shades of the yarns used in the mixed tweeds.

Tweed Sport Coat, Featuring Nutria Collar; Odd Half-Cape.

Wash silk shirt waists or figured wool jersey jumpers complete three-piece ensembles. Many of these are trimmed in unusual ways. The wool jerseys, for instance, are finished by contrasting crepe de chine scarfs, tied at the front, and silk cuffs to match. Jumpers of white or colored satin have fitted cuffs, ties, belts and applikes of darker colored of black satin. These touches of distinction tend to bring blouses very much to the foreground.

Every woman these days has cardigan jackets galore. There are so many of them in every color and kind of cloth that one needs must do something original to make a cardigan that will cause even a flutter of excitement.

Reporter's Troubles

A young reporter had just submitted his first write-up to the editor. Immediately upon leaving the room, he bethought himself and decided to make a few changes. "May I make a few corrections in my write-up?" he addressed the editor.

"Sure", answered the editor, reaching into the waste-basket, "but be snappy about it. The waste-basket will be emptied in five minutes.

F. X. Cullinan, Jesuit Student, Was Drowned

Graduate of Aquinas, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Cullinan, Buried Sunday in Cemetery at Woodstock Md.

Francis X. Cullinan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Cullinan of 733 Genesee Street, Rochester, a student in the Jesuit novitiate at Woodstock, Md., was drowned at Woodstock last Thursday while swimming in the Patapsco River. His body was recovered shortly afterwards, his funeral was held at Woodstock Sunday morning, and interment made at that place. His parents and brother William, who is a student at Niagara University, were at the funeral, together with other relatives and friends.

Francis was born in Rochester, November 27, 1906. He was a graduate of Aquinas Institute, class of 1924. He is the third member of his class to die since graduation, the other being Harold Murphy and Roy McMahon. Following his graduation, he attended Holy Cross College for one year, after which he entered the Jesuit novitiate of St. Andrew's on the Huson, where he remained as a student during 1926, 1927 and 1928. He was then transferred to the Jesuit novitiate at Woodstock, Md., where he had been a student since. He was an exceptionally gifted young man, a fine orator, excellent writer and splendid student. It was said of him that he was one of the most promising student at Woodstock.

With a group of fellow students, Francis went swimming in the river about 6 30 o'clock Thursday. He sank suddenly, and all efforts to rescue him were unavailing. His body was recovered later, and Dr. F. H. Shipley, who made an examination, said Francis had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage while in the water, and that this was what caused him to drown. The authorities at Woodstock sent word of his death to Canisius College, the nearest Jesuit institution to Rochester, and Father Gleason of that college came at once to Rochester and broke the sad news to his parents. Word was sent to his brother, William, at Niagara University, and he came home immediately.

Great sorrow is felt over the death of this promising young man. Francis was intensely devoted to his studies, and was filled with a strong desire to become a worthy Jesuit priest. He had confided to his chums that he was hoping to be sent to China, there to give his life to missionary work. He was popular with all who knew him, and was greatly beloved. The sincere sympathy of many people will be extended to his parents and brother.

The classmates of Francis, Aquinas 1924, are having a Mass said for him at his parish Church, St. Monica's, at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, this week. Following are the members of his class:

Francis Buechel, Frank Burd, Leo Brons, Roy Clifford, Bernard Clinton, Gerald Burns, John Connelly, Bernard Connelly, Bertrand Ehmann, Leon Ehrmantrout, John Delaney, William Frank, Henry Gillette, Vincent Fess, Herbert Growney, Russell Hayes, George Green, Louis Hupp, Earl Howard, Edward Kannan, James Kannan, Chester, Klee, John Lawlor.

DELICIOUS RECIPES

By BETTY BARCLAY

Orange Pumpkin Candy

1 cup cooked and sifted pumpkin
1 cup corn syrup
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 orange, grated rind and juice
1 lemon, grated rind and juice
½ teaspoon powdered cinnamon
1 cup nut meats, finely broken

Put pumpkin, syrup, sugar, butter, grated rinds and strained juices of orange and lemon in a saucepan. Stir over a gentle heat until mixture forms a hard ball when tested in cold water, or until it reaches 254 degrees F. Add cinnamon and nut meats and pour into greased tins. When cool mark into squares.

Asparagus Italienne
(Serves six)

2 pounds asparagus
boiling water
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
juice 1 orange
fried croutons of bread or buttered toast slices

Trim asparagus stalks to uniform length, wash and tie in six bundles. Cook in boiling water until tender, keeping tips above water for the first ten minutes. Just before cooking is completed salt the water. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk and seasonings and add strained juice of 1 orange. Serve on fried croutons of bread or a slice of buttered toast with sauce poured over the tip.

Baked Fish

1 average helping filleted flounder, fresh haddock or whiting
2 tablespoons butter
salt and pepper
1 lemon

Grease a plate and lay the fish on it with the skin side upwards. Put in the oven five minutes and the skin can be easily removed. Melt butter in a flat pan, lay fish on it and place in hot oven 400 degrees F., eight to ten minutes. Baste twice while baking. Remove, season and squeeze lemon juice over. Serve hot.

Banana Custard Whip

1 package lemon junket
1 pint milk
3 bananas
1 egg white
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Warm the milk until lukewarm—not hot—and dissolve the lemon junket in it. Have two of the bananas sliced into the dessert glasses; pour junket over them. Let stand in warm place until set; then chill. Mash the remaining banana, add egg white, sugar and lemon juice, beating until thick. Add as topping when ready to serve.

Washington Salad
(Serves six)

Cheese straws
¾ cup chopped celery
¾ cup artichoke hearts, chopped
¾ cup orange pulp
¾ cup diced grapefruit pulp
French dressing
Mayonnaise

Pile cheese straws in log cabin fashion, on a large plate, leaving a center space sufficient to hold the salad. Mix celery, artichokes, orange and grapefruit pulp with French dressing. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serve two cheese straws with each portion of salad.

Mocha Walnut Cake

1¾ cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup strong decaffeinated coffee infusion
¾ cup walnut meats, broken
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with coffee, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add nuts, mixing well. Fold in egg whites. Bake in greased pan, 8x8x2 inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Cover with mocha frosting.

Aged Woman Gets An Autographed Photo of Bishop

Mrs. Mary A. Driscoll Receives Visit and Gift from Bishop O'Hern on Her Ninetieth Birthday.

Mrs. Mary A. Driscoll of 41 Lozier Street celebrated her 90th birthday on Wednesday, Sept. 24. She attended a Mass said in her honor in St. Augustine's Church that morning by the pastor of the church, the Rev. John H. O'Brien. She was proud and happy to be able to be present at this Mass, and was most appreciative of Father O'Brien's thoughtfulness and kindness to her.

Many friends called during the day to congratulate her, but the biggest and best surprise of all came when the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, came to her home and presented her with a beautiful autographed photo of himself. Bishop O'Hern remained and enjoyed a birthday breakfast with Mrs. Driscoll. With Bishop O'Hern was Father O'Brien, her pastor. Both the honored guests gave great joy to her on this occasion. Fathers McKay and Brennan, assistant priests at St. Augustine's Church, called to congratulate her during the day, and a number of Sisters and other friends.

Mrs. Driscoll has lived in St. Augustine's parish since it was organized. She was born in Canada and has been in Rochester about 40 years. She makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Gordon. Other children are two daughters, Mrs. Edward Costello of Buffalo, Mrs. John E. Rice of Rochester, and two sons, William Driscoll of St. Paul, Minn., and James of Detroit. Mrs. Driscoll is remarkably well for a woman of her age, and she is well beloved by a large number of friends.

The soul that gives is the soul that lives
And bearing another's load
Doth lighten your own and shorten the way,
And brighten the homeward road.
