Easter Week Will See Auburn Active In Social Events

Committees for the annual Easter social to be held under the auspices of the Auburn Club of Notre Dame April 2, at Club Dickman, have been announced by Paul D. Halbert of Westsport, general chairman. Chairman Halbert has appointed John M Van Etten of Seneca Falls and Charles Morris as chairmen of the patron committee; music, James Clark; tickets, Joseph Welch; floor, John J. Cashin, publicity, Jerome O'Kane and John Putname of Syracuse, decorations, Gerald MacPeak of Cortland. These committee members will be assisted by Kenneth R. Whipps of this city, president of the organization, John Van Etten, secretary; and Charles Litty, treasurer.

N. C. C. W. PLAN PARTY

Various committees in charge of the games and other details have completed arrangements for the big Easter card party to be held Friday evening, April 6, in Holy Family Auditorium, North Street, under the auspices of Auburn Deanery, National Council of Catholic Women. Reports received by Miss Irene Cooper, president of the Auburn Council, augur success for the affair, which is being participated in by women of the local Catholic churches.

Chairmen for the games are as follows: 45, Mrs. Mortimer Hyland, St. Alphonsus parish; 500, Miss Alice Kirwin, St. Aloysius; euchre, Mrs John Ganey, St. Mary's; bridge, Mrs. Anne Stevens, Holy Family. The party is open to the general public and will also attract delegations from the various parishes throughout Cayuga County.

K. C. TO HOLD PARTY

A gala Easter social will be held Monday evening, April 2, at the Auburn Knights of Columbus House in Genesee Street. Lecturer Avery E Neagle today announced. Luncheon, under the direction of George Otis, will be served in the dining rooms.

GENEVA

JOHN TOOLE

Rehearsals are going full speed ahead in preparation for the annual Senior play of De Sales High School to be given Tuesday, April 10, in the Geneva High School Auditorium. This year's presentation, which is under the direction of the Rev. Edward K Ball, is a farce-comedy in three acts entitled "Where's My Money?" and has been proclaimed the best to be produced in recent years. A musical interlude will be presented between acts.

Members of the Eucharistic and Our Lady's Units are holding their regular monthly Vigil before the Blessed Sacrament last Monday. At a recent meeting of the unit an explanation of Lacture Sunday was given by Anna Tolan. Esther Lahr explained the origin of the Forty Hours and Fred Ferris talked on Passion Sunday. The members are cooperating with the Mission Unit in collecting stamps, tin-foil, papers, magazines, etc., and by maintaining a mite box.

The Rev. John Guy conducted a Retreat Monday, Tuedsay and Wednesday during which time a fine spirit of religious fervor and enthusiasm was well in evidence throughout the student body.

Redemptorist Priest Home From Brazil Describes Conditions In Matto Grasso

Their Catholic heritage for years sadly neglected by the lack of priests to minister to their spiritual needs, the people of the State of Matto Grosso in Brazil are now gradually being reached with the consolation of their Holy Faith, the Rev. Joseph Reiter, C. SS. R., a native of Rochester, home on leave from missionary work in that part of South America told the Catholic Courier, this week in an interview in the diocesan offices, Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

Father Reiter who received als early education in St. Joseph's School, this city has been visiting relatives and friends here and will sail again for his post in Brazil on April 21.

People in the cities of North America who have every advantage of practising their Catholic religion, little realize the difficulties encountered in the South American continent, Father Reiter said. Transportation is most difficult and he knows what it is to go ten days on horseback, ten hours a day, bringing the Sacraments to the people of Miranda, one of the three towns in which the Redemptorist missionaries are working. Despite the difficulties encountered in getting about, he has in the past year alone baptized over 1,200 and married 100. Although the people of that section of Brazil are 97 per cent Catholic, they have never been instructd, he stated.

Father Reiter said that his people are kind to the priests and do all they can to assist. There are many Indian missions with chapels there, and at the first chapel erected on the reservation at Cachoeirinha, devotions are held in honor of Our Mother of Perpetual Help which the Indians attend faithfully every Saturday night. On the Feast of Our Mother of Perpetual Help the Indians join in the celebration with a procession and the singing of hymns.

Father Reiter has been at his station for three years. The Redemptorist Fathers went to the South American mission about four years ago taking over the work of two Salesian priests. There are now 24 Redemptorist Fathers doing the work, he said, but with a territory of 50,000 square miles and the people living often, five and ten miles apart, there is still much to be done to bring all of these people back to the practice of their religion.

In the larger towns, schools, churches and convents have been built. A Belgian mission branch of the Sisters of Charity conduct the schools. The progress is slow, he said, but steady and with the aid of friends of the Redemptorists in the United States, the increase of practical Catholics will be noticeable.

Conditions are not the best for the people in his mission, Father Reiter declared, and he has found times, himself, when a dish of rice was his only meat. Rice and dried meat is the fare of the Brazilians.

Friends of Father Reiter have been conducting various affairs to raise funds for his mission. Donations may be sent through the diocesan office, Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 50 Chestnut Street, or the Redemptorist Fathers, 108 Franklin Street.

Mrs. H. M. Peters was chosen president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Immaculate Conception School at its recent annual meeting at the school. Other members named to office are: Mrs. John Furey, vicepresident; Mrs. J. J. Clynes, secretary, Mrs Patrick Howley, treasurer, and Mrs. B. L. Mellberg, auditor

The PTA held its first discussion group recently under the leadership of Dr. Ethel B. Waring, professor of Child Psychology and Parental Education at Cornell. The subject was obedience of the child.

The Nocturnal Adoration Society held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

More than 1,000 persons witnessed the performances of "The Upper Room," March 25, 26 and 27, in Parish Hall, sponsored by the Ithaca District of the Rochester Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women, the cast handled effectively this three-act drama of Christ's Passion and Death.

Priests Attend Funeral Of Mrs. Anna E. Cusick Auburn Hospital Nurse

Auburn. — Many priests of the Rochester Diocese attended the funeral of Mrs. Anna E. Cusick, night superintendent of nurses at Auburn City Hospital for the past seven years, which was held at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning from her home, 107 Lansing Street, with services at 9 o'clock in Holy Family Church.

A solemn high Mass of requiem was read with Rev. Paul Gaffney of Industry, and a cousin of the deceased, as celebrant, Very Rev Dean John A. Conway as deacon and Rev. Donald M. Cleary, subdeacon. Present in the sanctuary were: Revs. Michael Groden and Arthurr Smith of Elmira and Revs. Frederick G. Straub, pastor, John Bohmwetch and John Masseth of St. Alphonsus parish. The funeral was one of the largest held in the North Street edifice in many years.

The remains were taken by Funeral Director William F. Mullen to Geneva, her native city, where interment was made in St. Patrick's Cemetery. Bearers were Michael O'Brien, William Mackin, Bernard Dee and Dr. Adolph Letellier of Seneca Falls, Michael W. Curtis and Thomas B. Long of this city.

Auburn Lyceum Players Stage "The Upper Room" Twice During Holy Week

Auburn. — Two performances of "The Upper Room" were given Sunday afternoon and Monday evening in Lyceum Hall, corner of Clark and Green Streets, under the auspices of the Lyceum Players of St. Mary's Church with Rev. Arman Benoit as director. Members of the cast included: Anthony Conroy, Adrian Dunn; Gibson Brown, Howard Edwards, Philip Conboy, William Rolling, Charles Cora, Frederick Armstrong, Donald Yorkey, Harold Bellner, Elizabeth Scollan, Anne Kenney and Catherine Coffey.

Webster Parish Players To Give 3 Act Comedy

Holy Trinity Dramatic Club will present "Oh, Aunt Jerusha" a three-act comedy, at Holy Trinity Hall, Webster, on Sunday and Monday evenings, April 8 and 9. The presentation is under the direction of Joseph C. Durbin, ably assisted by Miss Ruth Scharett.

The main cast includes: Genevieve Bauman, Dorothy Klom, Alice Schreiber, Helen Lotze, Margaret Winslow, Eleanor Hutteman, Gerald Barrett, Oscar Rieflin, Aloysius Kellman, James Ruffle, Arthur Beh. Almost every member of the Club is cast in the parts of club women and business men of Tinkertown, who stage a clever kitchen band drill and baby show.
