U. S. Catholic College Head Honored by Italy

Gettysburg, Pa.—(NC) Italy has conferred the Cross of a Chevalier of the Crown of Italy upon the Rev. Dr. James A. W. Reeves president of Seton Hill College here. The honor was officially presented to Dr. Reeves at a ceremony at the college.

The honor is bestowed upon the president according to the decoration, because of his interest in the cultural history of Italy and in its fine arts and music.

The decoration was conveyed by Andrea Fettero, Vice-Consul in Pittsburgh.

ADVANCE YOUTH MOVE

San Francisco—(NC) Organization of the Catholic Youth movement in the Archdiocese of Portland, Ore., was effected by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis P. McElroy and the Rev. Leo A. Powleson, who recently addressed a mass meeting of Portland Catholics in an endeavor to stimulate interest in athletics among Catholic youth.

PEN PALS
INTIMATE CHATS WITH THE CATHOLIC GIRL

by Susan Russell

SILLY LAMENTATIONS

My dear Girls: I am going to give you a peep into our mail bag this week, a peep at one kind of letters, telling of dissatisfaction with life in the very midst of having everything to make life very acceptable. I also want you to know the answers to see if you agree with me. I want to say the queer thing about these letters is that the writers do not live in poor homes, or poor sections. It really seems to me the dissatisfied ones are not even pinch hitting with poverty or illness or anything more than a too vivid imagination of too much leisure time for which the devil finds use. Now for the first one.

"I am so dissatisfied because I cannot make a record as a writer. I do not think it is necessary to me to learn this sort of thing. I think I can write and anyway I do not see how any editor would dare to turn down a story signed by a name as rich and influential as mine."

In her very first paragraph she shows she is not willing to make the necessary sacrifices. Secondly, editors are "one class of men," as she calls them, who do not care the snap of their finger for any such stuff as influential or wealthy names. When it comes to judging the worth of a story. If it is a poor story that's that, and the matter is ended.—No wonder she is dissatisfied with herself.

Don't Be Selfish

Here's another from a girl with a lovely home and everything to make her happy, yet she says: "I am so dissatisfied with life for the man I love, and he the only one in the world for me, cares for someone else. I can't make him love me, though I have tried in every way. I just can't go on with life."

Isn't that the height of nonsense caring for a man who does not want you? Hasn't he the right of his own choice, and besides to tell you the truth if you fairly threw yourself in his way I do not know but that if I had been in his place, I've have bolted, too. A man likes to be the hunter, not the hunted. He has never given you the slightest encouragement. It's your own silly idea. Forget it and him and wake up to the fact that you have been greatly blessed in this life. If love comes, and it probably will, then all right, but if it never comes in that way, you have no reason to be dissatisfied.

Now let's read this one: "I am just about sick of life. I have no claims to beauty, but I am not marked nor deformed in any way. I dance well, talk well, and dress in the most modish way yet I am never invited out by any man. I come of a good family and I do not know what it is that makes life so hard for me. I am just 20 years old."

Now this would have been hard to answer except that I happen to know that my friend in this case is as solemn as an owl and even when she is dancing she looks as if it is all part of the day's work. She continually talks "high-brow," never descending to any topic of the day. No wonder she is dissatisfied with life but isn't it her own fault? Life hasn't committed any crime against her.

The Old Story

Here's another: "I am disgusted with life these days, Mrs. Russell, and do not think there is truth in any one. I have been keeping company with just one boy for three years, dating no one else. Lately he is so different. He used to talk about our getting married. Now he never even mentions it, and he is going with someone else."

Also the same old story, the conquest was too easy. You should not date one man exclusively, unless you are engaged to him and engaged to be married soon. This boy, from your letter is too near your own age. He might interest you now, but a few years from now you'd be bored to death if you had to talk to him for one hour. Do not take any of them seriously when they say something about getting married. When men are serious they do not propose in that way. Snap out of it.

There are many more letters but space is up. The peep I have given you shows how utterly nonsensical are some of the reasons that make one "tired of life." Not one of them has a real trouble, not one of them has the backbone that comes with the dark battle for bread and the nightly problem of how to make two frayed ends meet. I could take them to a little home where a poor mother toils 18 hours out of the 24 just planning for eight to barely exist. I think I could make them ashamed of their dissatisfaction. At any rate I'd rather like to have the chance to try.

Some people expect nothing but happiness on this earth and if they had a thousandth of some one's share for a short while. To have everything handed to me without any effort on my part would be truly terrible. Really to get the most out of life one must be in the thickest of the fray learning to take what comes as and when it comes, and knowing the thrills that belong to victory. You cannot know life unless you learn to live upon its field of honor.

OUR PEN PALS

Greetings to our new Pals: Margaret Weichelt, Vivian Trujillo, Mary Gonder, Madeline Donovan, Eugenia Griggs.

Welcome letters have come from: E. M. R. G. E. D. McG. L. B. M. E. M. J. S. L. T. J. S. M. McD. C. U.

For those who don't know: If you want to join the Pen Pals just send me the name and address of your pastor, a 3-cent stamp and tell me something about yourself.

Dear Pals: We have been a bit dilatory the past week in answering our letters to shut-in Pals. Let's be careful of this, careful to remember what the coming of the postman means to those whose only bright spot is the letter that comes on time.

Pioneer Pals have remembered us splendidly. From this source

China Bonzesses Seek To Join Catholic Order

Ichang, China—(NC) The district of Laifeng, southern Hupeh, having recently been opened to Catholicism, some Buddhist nuns, among others, became interested and took up the study of Catholic doctrine with a view to admission into the Church, according to Lumen Service.

Meantime merchants who travel frequently to Shihnan have brought back word of the work done by the Catholic Chinese nuns in the latter city. Now the bonzesses are hoping a convent may soon be established in Laifeng also. They intend to join the sisterhood if the project eventuates.

THIRD WEEK IN MARCH, 1921

Cleveland's monument to the memory of the late Most Rev. John Patrick Farrelly will be not a marble shaft, but a new "Colony" for the care of the orphaned and the needy. The movement to dedicate the project "group plan" of Catholic institutions was inaugurated by William F. Lyon, president of the Catholic Charities Corporation, the body of 9,000 laymen and women which has undertaken the financing of diocesan charitable enterprises.

Applying to the late Cardinal Mercier universally venerated when still among us the historic words: "Il est encore plus grand couche que debout." "He is even greater dead than he was alive." M. H. Carton de Wiart, Catholic member of the Belgian Chamber and former Prime Minister, announces that an international committee is being constituted whose task it shall be to provide the mourned Prince of the Church a perennial memorial narrating the story of his wonderful career and work.

THIRD WEEK IN MARCH, 1931

Invention of the "gyroplane," a flying craft in which he believes he has solved the problem of safety in flying, has been announced at Vatican City by the Rev. Pio Maria Scatizzi, S. J., professor of cathedras in the Pontifical Academy of Sciences and a member of the Royal Italian Geographical Society. The new plane permits vertical take-offs and landings.

ASK REPRESENTATION

Jerusalem—(NC) The Catholic Community of Jerusalem, which has no representative in the Municipal Council, has petitioned the British High Commissioner for the appointment of one of its members.

news comes that Effie McNally will soon enter the St. Joseph Order and while we shall miss this well beloved Pal we are sure she is going to be happy. Another letter from a pioneer one of our very first Pals brought us the pictures of two beautiful little daughters. We appreciate those pictures, Christine and also the fact they are to be Junior Pen Pal girls.

Our farmerettes are doing great work. They are organizing in many communities, city clubs had better watch out. Our mining town president sends a beautiful letter. Other letters greatly appreciated tell us of airplane trips, ocean voyages and of employment after months of idleness. Thanks a lot for all of them. I am always delighted to hear from my girls. Now, remember those shut-in letters, and do your very best.—S. R.

A MEDAL STORY

By The Daughters of Charity — Emmitsburg, Md.

JOHN PHILIP

(Beginning a new Medal Story, one of the series of famous children's stories written by Sisters at Charity whose mother-house is in Emmitsburg, Md. Most of these stories were prepared for publication at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, where the Sisters of Charity are in charge. The locale of the story starting this week had Rochester for a background.)

GREATEST CIRCUS IN THE WORLD
COMING TO SYRACUSE
SATURDAY, AUGUST 15th
SEE THE DARING RIDERS FROM THE WILD WEST
TICKETS 50c CHILDREN 25c

John Philip stuck his hands deep in his pockets. The big toe of his right foot was digging in the ground. He stared and stared at the billboard. Clowns, funny clowns in funny clothes and with painted faces. Beautiful horses! Big brown bears! Monkeys climbing ropes! And elephants! great gray animals with short tails and queer heads. Men and women swinging in the air!

For the circus was coming! The circus was coming and John Philip was going to see it. He pushed his torn straw hat back on his head. This was Wednesday. Tomorrow and the next, that made two days to wait. And the next would be circus day. John Philip was going to see the circus Saturday. He knew that he had enough money. But the time seemed to be going oh! so slowly. It was hard to have to wait until Saturday to see all those wonderful things. This was only Wednesday morning.

John Philip had been up since five. He had driven the cows out to the fields. He had chopped the wood and carried it in to the kitchen for his mother. He had piled it while mother cooked the breakfast. He had eaten a pile of hot cakes and honey. He had finished his second glass of creamy milk.

Then he had gone straight down the road to see the big pictures on the side of the red barn.

Now John Philip walked down the road. He came to a bridge over a stream. He went down the bank and under the bridge. Here John Philip kept his fishing pole and line. He picked up the line. He picked up a tin can near it. In the can were worms.

John Philip took them up on the bridge. He put a worm on his fish hook. Then he sat down on the bridge and threw the line in the water.

The sunlight came through the leaves of the branches above him. It made little golden spots on the water. The cool wind blew softly. It was a very nice place to be. John Philip watched the little cork on the line. It had not begun to bob yet. If it bobbed, then John Philip knew that a fish was trying to eat the worm on the hook.

John Philip sat there a long time. But it did not seem long to him. For he was thinking about the circus, the elephants and lions and tigers in cages, the clowns, the funny clowns, and the monkeys. He would see the cowboys from the West. John Philip moved his toes directly up and down. He was so happy. Just think, only two more days and then the next day would be Saturday, August the fifteenth!

The cork began to bob and John Philip pulled the line up quickly. A little silver fish was swinging in the air. John Philip drew in the line and took off the fish. Then he put another worm on the hook and threw the line again into the water. John Philip began to think again. Saturday would be the fifteenth of August. It would be the feast of our Lady's Assumption. John Philip knew what that meant. It meant the day our Lady went to Heaven. Our Lord had taken His Blessed Mother, body and soul, into Heaven. And all the beautiful angels had come to meet her. For she was their Queen.

John Philip expected to see our Lady there some day. Maybe she would be sitting on a beautiful golden throne. She would be dressed in blue, of course. Blue was our Lady's color. She would be wearing a golden crown—very bright. John Philip would go and kneel right in front of her. He would not be afraid. He was sure our Lady would smile at him and give him a kiss.

John Philip smiled a tiny smile and wiggled his toes again.

Saturday would be the feast of her Assumption. He would get up very early and go with his father and Aunt Hannah to early Mass at the little Chapel two miles down the road. He would go to Confession to Father Lambert before Mass.

Three Sacred Vessels

Here is something that may interest you. You can give a Chalice, a Ciborium and a Pyx to some missionary—all three for Twenty-five Dollars. The Ciborium is the Sacred Vessel containing the consecrated Hosts and is placed in the Tabernacle. The Pyx is the small vessel in which the priest carries the Blessed Sacrament to the sick and dying.

Would you give all three? Twenty-five dollars will purchase all three in the Near East.

TWO GREAT SAINTS

The Feasts of two great Saints will be celebrated during the coming week. On March 17 St. Patrick, on March 19, St. Joseph. Each of these Saints of God have left an indelible impression upon the world.

St. Patrick was a great missionary. In spite of hardships and seemingly difficulties he became a priest and burned with zeal for souls. With the profession of the Vicar of Christ he spread to the people whom he loved and brought them the good tidings of the Gospel. St. Patrick converted the Irish people to Christianity and showed them the road to eternal happiness. Though St. Patrick died nearly fifteen hundred years ago, his work lives on in his spiritual children. They are found in every land faithful to Christ and His Church.

St. Joseph was the Guardian of Mary and the Foster Father of Our Blessed Lord. Joseph was a laboring man—a carpenter. He was considered in days to come people of his time. He was gentle, humble and God-fearing. When the Lord God of Hosts sent a companion and guardian for the Blessed Mother, he chose Joseph out of all men. St. Joseph did his work well. He held in his arms of Jesus and Mary. He is the patron of the dying, patron of the Priesthood and Patron of the Universal Church.

Surely those of us who are interested in the Missions pray on both these days. St. Patrick, the teacher, and St. Joseph, patron of the Near East, must be interested in our work.

SACRED PRIESTHOOD

We Catholics appreciate gifts our Blessed Lord has given us. We have the Sacraments—the great channels through which we receive the Grace of God. We receive the Sacraments through the ministry of the Sacred Priesthood. Love and respect for the Priesthood.

Will you help us to give to others the benefits you enjoy? Help educate the native young men of the Near East who wish to be priests. We need One Hundred Dollars a year for each student for the time in the major seminary, six years. Can you take care of a young man—$600? Can you do it for one year—$100? Or one month—Fifteen Dollars? Remember, St. Joseph was born and worked and lived in the Near East. Some missionary would appreciate such a gift.

ONE YEAR'S SUPPLY

We notice more people lighting Candles during Lent than at other times. Here is an item for them. For a year all the Candles burned during the year at all the Masses and devotions in a mission chapel for Eight Dollars. This is a nice way of adding splendor and beauty to the Sacred Liturgy.

THOUGHT FOR LENT

Lent is a time for prayer and penance. It is the season when we try to remove from our lives all things and persons that are keeping us from God. One of the greatest helps to an active spiritual life is interest in the affairs of the Universal Church. We should think of the problems and trials of the Church. We ought to pray for her welfare and do what we can to further her influence among men.

A FREQUENT QUESTION

Sometimes people ask: what is the Catholic Near East Welfare Association? We answer: It is a missionary association founded by Pope Pius XI. Our work is to take care of the priests who are working in the Near East. The Near East problem is the conversion of over 162,000,000 Christians who have real priests and real Bishops, but who are outside the Catholic Church.

Write for our pamphlet describing this problem.

STATIONS OF THE CROSS

Most people make the Stations of the Cross at least once a week during Lent. Others make the Stations every day in the year. It is a very popular and efficacious devotion. Will you help us spread this devotion? In some parts of the Near East Sets of Stations are needed. The mission pastors can purchase a set for Ten Dollars. Send us Ten Dollars to buy a set for a Chapel.

MASS OF REPARATION

During Lent have one Mass offered in reparation for all the sins and indifferences of your own life. Our priests will be glad to do this for you.

FREE PAMPHLET

Lent compels us to think of death and eternity. When we think of death, the memory of our beloved relatives and friends comes to mind. In this connection, you will find our pamphlet on Gregorian Masses very interesting. It explains the old custom of offering a Mass every day for thirty days for one who is deceased.

Write for a copy of this pamphlet. It is free.

STATUE OF ST. JOSEPH

You can supply a mission chapel with a large statue of St. Joseph for Twenty Dollars. Remember, St. Joseph was born and worked and lived in the Near East. Some missionary would appreciate such a gift.

SOME HAVE FORGOTTEN

Some of our members have not renewed their membership this year. In most cases, it is a case of forgetting. We hope they will send in to us soon. All we ask of our members is One Dollar a year.
