LISTS THREE FIRE CAUSES FOR CHECKING

Most fires are caused by overheated or improperly built flues, defective electric wiring, carelessness in the use of matches and cigarettes, or spontaneous combustion.

The owner or tenant can control the first cause by not allowing the furnace fire to stay too hot for a long period. He can also have the flue cleaned and examined.

The second cause is beyond his control, except insofar as the wiring of lamps and other accessories are concerned. He should watch the cords and see that they are in good condition.

The third cause is distinctly controllable, and ordinary care in keeping fire away from filmsy curtains, in not throwing matches into waste baskets, insuring that cigarettes are put out, in keeping matches even safety matches—in a proper place, will prevent such fires as are caused by the usual carelessness.

The only safe rule is to allow no combustible materials to accumulate and to keep all household cleaning utensils and materials in a well-ventilated place.
