De Sales Sodalists Told Mission Day Plans

GENEVA—Tentative plans for an inter-high-school diocesan Mission day to be held in Rochester, Thursday, May 26, were announced here by the Rev. John A. Randall, diocesan director, Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

Father Randall was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Senior Sodality held jointly with the regular Thursday meeting of the Junior Sodality in the DeSales High School Study Hall, April 7.

Plans for the Mission Day, Father Randall announced, call for opening with a field Mass on Aquinas Institute campus at 10:00 A. M. with the Most Rev. James E. Walsh, M.M., Maryknoll Superior General, as celebrant.

Following the Mass, luncheon will be served in the cafeteria. At 2:00 panel discussions on major topics of Mission Interest will be held, followed by an address by the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester. The program will close with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

In his talk to the Sodalists, Father Randall based his remarks on the program of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade of Prayer, Study, Sacrifice.

He urged the students to become thoroughly acquainted with the missions which they are particularly interested. Knowing this, he suggested the students to "make real sacrifices for the Mission, and by sacrifice, I mean sacrifice, not donating something you don't want, such as cancelled stamps, not your old newspapers, but the giving when it hurts."

SAFEGUARDING LIBERTY

"The law ought to protect the liberty of the person, not only against attacks from without, but also against the misuse of liberty itself. For every use of liberty can degenerate into license, so that it is the task of the law to define the limits and control the exercise of rights." Students Reveal 'Likes' In Niagara U. Survey

NIAGARA UNIVERSITY, N. Y.—Philosophy and accounting are their favorite class subjects, they still favor the New Deal, 2-1; the Court Plan and the Jap-Chino conflict were outstanding national and international events respectively in 1937, they turn to sports for most of their recreation, they look for character in a girl before anything else; and they average slightly more than two dollars a week spending money, claim Niagara University collegians.

Such are some of the findings gleaned from a recent questionnaire which asked about everything but how they parted their hair. About 350 collegians participated in what is believed to be the most exhaustive survey ever made of the student body.

Students in the School of Business voted overwhelmingly for accounting as their favorite subject; but those of the College of Arts and Sciences proclaimed philosophy as their pet subject. English, Chemistry, History, Mathematics and Economics also found popular favor with many of the students.

To the question "As a whole, do you approve of the New Deal?" 66% voted in the affirmative. Twenty-three students ventured no opinions on the query. Voting ran rather evenly on this question throughout the four classes, the seniors 70% juniors 67%, sophs 72.% frosh 62%.

Next to the Court Plan, which the students voted as the outstanding 1937 national event, came the burning of the Hindenburg, the appointment of Senator Black to the Supreme Court, and the disastrous school explosion in Texas. Miscellaneous votes were cast for TVA, CIO, and the disappearance of Amelia Earhart.

Thirty-three per cent of the student body thought the Jap—Chino melee to be the outstanding international event in 1937. The Spanish civil war, abdication of Edward, and Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, in that order, also polled heavy votes. One student stated that the "fact that Hitler is still alive, to me, is the most outstanding."

Sports of all description comprise the chief source of recreation for most of the students, over 35% turning to them in their idle moments, with swimming and golf the most popular. Reading was listed second, hiking third, and dancing fourth. Seven collegians jotted down sleeping as their favorite recreation.

As a whole the collegians were quite definite about the quality which they admired mostly in a girl character. Forty-eight percent of the answers listed character as the most preferred. Personality and looks came next. All told the students cited 46 qualities, including humor, sportsmanship, manners, and cooking ability.

Collegians part with $750.00 each week at college for spending money, each averaging $2.08. On the average a freshman averages $1.99 a week, a sophomore $2.21, junior and senior, $2.13. Over the span of a college year the students spend $51,410.00 on train and bus fare, dates, clothes, incidentals all exclusive of necessary expenditure for their college education.

Further results of the questionnaire revealed that about 84% of the student body is working its way through college to defray expenses, wholly or partially.

Seventy-five per cent of the student body engages in one or more sports in the interclass athletic program which is sponsored the year round by the university.

Rochester Has Only Chapel For Deaf

BY ONE OF THEM

Into the amazing spectacle of world affairs, banking problems, civil wars and threatening evils such as are gripping the minds of the thinking populace at present, we should know better than to intrude with a subject of evident insignificance.

Who cares whether we exist or not? Who cares what our problems are? Who will bother to untangle for us and to explain the conflicting theories that vitally affect both our domestic and national life today?

For us, the radio does not exist. Our opinions on important questions are formed for the most part on the limited scope of our reading. Who cares? For the answer to that we look to the One Who in time gone by made the lame to walk and the deaf to hear.

We find Christ in the person of His priest who does care and is always ready to help and assist us. We find the answer to our problems where we find Christ in our own little Chapel at 108 Franklin Street, Rochester.

The Catholic deaf of Rochester realize very well that they are fortunate beyond compare. As far as we know we are the only Catholic deaf that have our own Chapel where we receive all the spiritual care that hearing people are accustomed to have.

In our Chapel we have our Mass every Sunday and holiday, with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

We have our own Lenten services as well as other special services during the year. We hear the Word of God preached in our own sign language and we can go to Confession when we please to a priest that understands us.

We are alone by ourselves and our prayers are not disturbed by the thought that we are the object of over-curious eyes. These are blessings that mean a great deal to us. They are assets that assure us that God has given us special attention.

In other cities, that we know of the deaf receive instructions only once or twice a month in some public church or auditorium, and Mass is attended in the big churches also with a sermon preached perhaps once or twice a month.

We know of no other place where the Catholic deaf have a Chapel for their exclusive use. This places our city in the lead in that regard and proves that the Church does care for the entire flock of Christ and takes an interest in the needs of all.

Catholics In History

JOHN NEWTON

Newton was one of the most distinguished soldiers and engineers in American history. He served with great distinction throughout the Civil War, but he is chiefly remembered for his engineering work in and about the harbor of New York City.

He stood second in the class at West Point, that included Rosencrans, Pope, and Longstreet. He carried out important fortification work along the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico. He was one of the principal engineers in the work of fortifying Washington following the outbreak of the War. He distinguished himself in action at Gaines Mills, Glendale, Crampton Gap, Antietam, Marye Heights, Chancellorsville, Salem Heights and Gettysburg.

Following the war he began work on the defenses about New York, the improvements of the Hudson River, and the fortifications at Sandy Hook. He was in charge of the work of improving the harbors of Lake Champlain. The work of removing the dangerous rocks in Hell Gate, the principal water-way between Long Island Sound and the East River involved the solution of engineering problems never before attempted, and the invention of new apparatus, including a steam drilling machine.

His success in these projects won him the universal admiration of engineers and many honors were conferred upon him. He had become a convert to the Catholic Faith in early manhood and remained an earnest and devout member of the Church. He was born at Norfolk, Virginia, in 1823, and died in New York in 1895.

HURTS WHOLE SOCIAL BODY

—"General measures against the Jews, who are so defined on the basis of their descent, do not purify the public life from harmful phenomena—such as the so-called Bolshevization of culture and literature which continues to flourish—but rather do they lead to the abolition of the concepts of State and Justice based on the Natural Law. Such measures violate not only the justice due even to Jews but disturb the whole juridical and political order." The Church and the Jews (N.C.W.C., Washington, D. C.)
