A Story for June

Concluded.

Mimi's words rang in her ears one fervent prayer and Helen turned back her angel rejoiced at her victory. She passed into the drawing room...

A quick appeal to Jesus and Mary, and in a quiet tone Helen said: 'Mimi, pet, don't stir for a moment till I go to you.' Helen often wondered afterward at her own calmness...

Dear little readers, will you try to correct some fault this month? You may not, like Helen, see your efforts visibly rewarded...

Information concerning the National Union will be given by the National Secretary, Mr. J. P. Leahy, 18 School street, Boston, Mass., or the National President, Rev. M. J. Lavelle, 460 Madison avenue, New York.

Branch 138, C. M. B. A., of Lima, held a pleasant social party Friday evening.

We welcome to the ranks of Catholic journalism the C. M. B. A. Journal published at Montreal, Canada. Its scope is to be a chronicle of events of interest to C. M. B. A. members...

Branch 29, C. M. B. A., of Auburn, has accepted an invitation to participate in the Memorial Day parade, and has been assigned a place in the line.

There will be a public entertainment under the auspices of the C. M. B. A. Branches of Allegany county on Thursday, May 29, the proceeds to be set aside for the entertainment of the delegates to the biennial convention...

Just a little. 'Only just a little, a very, very little,' said the brook to the bank. And the bank was silent, and the brook wore its sides till the earth melted away...

And the widening stream advanced with fresh force till, one by one, the willows fell and were borne away in the torrent.

Alas! cried the meadow, as the waters closed in on it. 'If I had not neglected the first attack on my bank my fence would never have been destroyed; but now my protection is gone, and I am tightly served in being turned from a fruitful field into a water waste.'

It is always so with the beginning of evil. Yielded to just a little, by and by it claims the whole. Pillsbury Catholic.

The best remedy for evil thoughts is to have the mind filled with pure and unobscuring thoughts. The mind cannot be a vacuum. It must be filled, if not with the good, with that which is evil.

It is the brave man who declares as fight; the coward conceals his fear under the cover of bluster.

Catholic Society Notes.

We have received from Rev. Michael Lavelle of New York, president of the Catholic Young Men's Union, a circular stating that the 16th annual convention of that organization will be held in Washington, D. C., in October next.

First to strengthen every society that enjoys its membership. Secondly, to foster the spirit of fraternity among our young men throughout the length and breadth of the land...

Forthly, to put the movement for the benefit of the young men so clearly and favorably before the public that he who runs may read the necessity and practicability of caring for our golden youth.

This is a great cause. It began in humility. It has thriven in difficulty. Its complete success will be brought about only with great industry, self-sacrifice and enthusiasm.
