Close Austria Schools

AMSTERDAM (N. C.) — Over the formal protest of the Austrian Hierarchy against this new and flagrant violation of the Concordat with the Holy See, all private and parochial schools in former Austrian territory will be suppressed at the end of the present summer vacation.

Joseph Buerckel, Nazi Commissar in Austria, announced this step in a speech at Stuttgart. Buerckel asserted it was the State's exclusive privilege to mould the younger generation and said the Reich would not tolerate outside influences that were not in complete harmony with the basic tenets of the Nazi movement.

This sounds the death knell for hundreds of Catholic schools, particularly those under the direction of religious Orders. Many of these schools are more than a century old, such as the famous Benedictine Schottengymnasium in Vienna, where the son of the Nazi Governor of Austria, Seyss-Inquart, is a pupil. It also affects numerous Jesuit institutions.

The new ruling also includes Protestant and private schools. No Catholic priest or Religious is permitted any longer to teach in the public schools and religious instruction is to be restricted to the utmost limit, while Nazi ideologies will dominate the entire curricula.

Services In Mexico

MEXICO CITY — A Parish Eucharistic Council is being held this week in the city of Camargo, State of Chihuahua. This is the first event of its kind to take place in Chihuahua in 12 years. The Catholics of the State are most enthusiastic over the Council and are marking it with the greatest solemnity.

CARDINAL HAYES' CAREER BRILLIANT IN CHURCH ANNALS

CALLED 'CARDINAL OF CHARITY'

For Extensive Welfare Work

By N.C.W.C. News Service
(Copyright, 1938)

His Eminence Patrick Joseph Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York, known and beloved both at home and abroad as "The Cardinal of Charity" whose death occurred Sunday, compressed into a single lifetime outstanding success in a half-score of fields, any one of which would have entitled him to a brilliant place in the history of the Catholic Church in the United States.

Cardinal Hayes, whose career is pointed to as eloquent testimony to the democracy of the Catholic Church, was born of humble parents and became the first native of Manhattan to govern the See of New York. He was the eighth Bishop and fifth Archbishop of New York, and third Ordinary of the See to be elevated to the Sacred College of Cardinals.

His Eminence's more than two-score of years in the priesthood was in many ways the story of the Archdiocese which he came to govern because in that time there have transpired few, if any events of importance with which he has not had some connection.

Organized Cathedral College

"The Cardinal of Charity" once served as secretary to Cardinal Farley, his predecessor as Archbishop of New York. He organized and for a time was president of Cathedral College the archdiocesan preparatory seminary. He was Chancellor of the Archdiocese, Auxiliary Bishop and rector of one of the largest and most important parishes in the See.

Since November 29 1917, Cardinal Hayes had been Bishop Ordinary of the Armed Forces of the United States. Thus during a critical period which included America's participation in the World War His Eminence had under his spiritual care all the Catholic officers and men in the United States Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

His Eminence was chosen by His Holiness Pope Pius XI to be Papal Legate to the Seventh National Eucharistic Congress in the United States, held at Cleveland in September, 1935.

Organized Film Bureau

In November, 1935, the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States addressed a request to Cardinal Hayes, asking that the classified lists of motion pictures issued by the National Legion of Decency be prepared and issued in New York. His Eminence compiled with the request, and early in 1933 the preparation and circulation of the National Legion of Decency List was taken over by the New York Archdiocesan Council of the Legion which Cardinal Hayes had created in 1934.

Always deeply and practically interested in the problems of youth, His Eminence gave a new impetus and greater coordination to the youth work within his Archdiocese in January, 1936, when he announced the reorganization of the recreational work for youth and the incorporation of the Catholic Youth Association, under the auspices of the Division of Social Action Catholic Charities of New York.

Combining dignity of bearing with true humility of heart, Cardinal Hayes had made faith, charity, courage and action the marks of his administration of the Archdiocese of New York. Succeeding to the Archbishopric on March 10, 1919, only four months after the World War Armistice had been signed, His Eminence saw the country enter upon a period of post-war reconstruction that was soon followed by the depression of 1920 and 1921. Then came the years of great expansion, during which the Cardinal encouraged many archdiocesan and parochial building programs.

In the days of financial stress which followed His Eminence cautioned the clergy and religious to exercise the greatest prudence in the matter of understanding construction debts, and this policy proved a blessing to the Archdiocese and the parishes, particularly in view of the length of the depression that set in in 1929.

Held in Deep Affection

The Cardinal's very appearance in public invariably was the signal for an enthusiastic manifestation of the deep affection in which all the people of the great Metropolis held him. His priests held him in the highest esteem and his people steadily delighted to give expression to their great love for him. Protestants and Jews, as well as Catholics, vied with one another in their efforts to do him honor.

FIRST NATIVE TO RULE U. S. SEE

Won Acclaim As U.S. Citizen

Cardinal Hayes was born in old City Hall Place, New York, on November 20, 1867. The building in which His Eminence was born was torn down in 1932 and City Hall Place was closed on the west side of St. Andrew's Church in connection with the new Federal Court House project. The City of New York then opened a new street along the east wall of St. Andrew's Church, and named it Cardinal Place in honor of Cardinal Hayes.

The Cardinal's parents were Daniel and Mary Gleason Hayes, the latter dying few years after his birth. For a while after his wife's passing, Daniel Hayes himself cared for his son as well as he could but later his son went to live with young Patrick's uncle and aunt, Mr and Mrs. James Egan. The future Cardinal's life with his aunt and his uncle was a happy one. Mrs. Egan, the aunt, who died on December 26, 1917, lived to see her nephew consecrated Auxiliary Bishop of New York. His uncle lived to see him a member of the Sacred College of Cardinals.

Both of Cardinal Hayes' parents came from Ireland. Once, when as Archbishop of New York he was addressing the annual dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, His Eminence said:

"My sacramental name, Patrick, and my sacred office as Bishop give me a peculiar right and title of being a spokesman at this dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. My father, as a protest against the anti-Irish sentiment prevalent at the time of my birth, determined to call his first-born 'Patrick.' My mother, in an outburst of prophetic love, saw her babe a Bishop."

Those being no Catholic school in St Andrew's parish at the time, young Patrick Hayes was first sent to the school of the neighboring parish of the Transfiguration. When he and his father went to live with his aunt and uncle, he next attended De La Salle Institute conducted by the Christian Brothers and was graduated in 1880. Continuing his studies under the Christian Brothers, he was graduated from Manhattan College as an honor student in June, 1888. The graduation exercises were held in the Metropolitan Opera House that year and marked the twenty-fifth annual

26,000 Pupils Return To Diocesan Schools; Teachers' Meeting Set Back To Sept. 16

St. Charles School Reopens Following Fire, With 450 Children

(Other School Items on Page 5)

With more than 26,000 elementary and high school pupils returning to the 85 Catholic schools in the diocese this week, the 1938-1939 school year began its sessions.

As school opened, came the announcement from the Superintendent's Office of the postponement of the annual diocesan Teachers' Institute from Friday, September 9, to Friday, September 16. This was done because of the death of Cardinal Hayes.

The program announced for the Institute earlier will be carried out at the later date.

This year finds St. Joseph's Orphanage closed after a splendid record of service, its 39 children being transferred to foster homes. 450 children of St Charles' school in Greece returned to a completely new building replacing the structure demolished by fire last spring.

Many of the elementary schools opened under the direction of new principals. St. Ambrose, St Anthony's, St. Boniface, Corpus Christi, Immaculate Conception, Sacred Heart, St. Salome's, all of Rochester. Out of town changes include, Holy Ghost, Coldwater; St. John's, Spencerport, St. Aloysius, Auburn; St. Agnes, Avon; St. Vincent de Paul's, Corning; St. Patrick's, Dansville; St. Casimir's, Elmira; St. Cecilia's, Elmira; St. Francis de Sales, Geneva; St. Patrick's, Mt. Morris; St. Patrick's, Owego, and St. Joseph's, Wayland.

While the census reports for the present year will not be available in the Superintendent's Office until October 1, early trends indicate that there is a slight decrease in elementary school registration, following the trend of the last few years, while the high school figures show a corresponding increase.

Reports from the schools are coming into the CATHOLIC COURIER office reporting registrations, additions to faculties, and other news of the schools.

Nazareth College is preparing for its formal opening with celebration of Mass of the Holy Ghost and an address by the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester at 9 a. m. in the college Chapel.

The Bishop celebrated the Mass of the Holy Ghost at St. Patrick's Church on Tuesday and addressed the seminarians of St. Andrew's Preparatory Seminary as the year's course began. A registration of 130 young men was reported.

Nazareth Academy with one change on the faculty opened with a registration of approximately 900. Our Lady of Mercy High School opened on Wednesday with the largest registration in its history. The opening was postponed because of the death of Sister Mary Agnes.

At Aquinas Institute for boys the enrollment was reported by the Basilian Fathers in charge as over 1,100 students.

Holy Family High School of Auburn reported 175 students enrolled, the largest in the school's history. A large registration was reported at Elmira Catholic High School.

Bishop's Message on School Year

TO THE SISTERS, LAY TEACHERS, AND CHILDREN OF THE SCHOOLS OF THE DIOCESE:

I regret that it is impossible for me to go to every Church to offer the Mass of the Holy Ghost for the opening of your School Year. I shall, however, offer my Mass to bring the blessing of God upon your work during the year which now opens. I want every one of you enrolled in our Schools to realize that I have asked God to give you health of body, vigor of mind, purity of heart and fervor in the love of God during the year.

If you ask of me a hint to make the year successful, I can give you only the lesson of Our Divine Lord, the Great Teacher, "Come unto me." Frequent Communion is my hint. Daily Communion for all our boys and girls is the wish of Our Lord, the counsel of our Holy Father, the Pope, and the hope of your devoted Shepherd in Christ.

Bishop Kearney Heads Delegation At Final Rites

Sorrow in Diocese Expressed Over Passing of Great Metropolitan of this Province; Friends Here Recall Four Visits of Cardinal

Rochester diocesans are joining with others in the Province of New York on Friday in person and in spirit as the solemn funeral ceremonies reserved for a distinguished Prince of the Church are carried out for His Eminence, Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Metropolitan of this province.

Heading a delegation from here to attend the funeral is the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester, long a personal friend of his superior.

Bishop Kearney preached the sermon at a Requiem Mass for all school children of the Archdiocese, Wednesday in St. Patrick's Cathedral. The Most Rev. Edmund F. Gibbons, Bishop of Albany celebrated the Mass. The school children were particularly close to the Cardinal's heart and the Bishop brought that out in asking the children's prayers for their beloved leader. (Text on Page 7.)

Archbishop Hickey Attending

At the impressive funeral rites on Friday in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, will be another close friend of the Cardinal, His Excellency, the Most Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, titular Archbishop of Vinnianum.

Diocesan officials in New York for the funeral are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William M. Hart, V.G., the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William F. Bergan, Chancellor of the diocese, and the Rev. Gerald O. Lambert, diocesan director, Rochester Catholic Charities with many other prelates and priests known personally to the Cardinal.

On the invitation of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. George J. Waring, in charge of Catholic chaplains in U. S. forces, former war chaplains of this diocese in uniform, will attend the funeral services for Cardinal Hayes. Those going from this diocese are: the Rev. Charles J. Bruton, the Rev. John B. Crowley, the Rev. John J. Garvey, the Rev. Dr. George F. Ketzell, the Rev. Arthur A. LeMay, the Rev. Frank W. Mason and the Rev. John J. Sellinger.

It was in the kindly environs of mercy that the angel of death called New York's great "Cardinal of Charity," to his reward. The call was gentle, as befitted the tranquil soul to which it was addressed. Cardinal Hayes was ill.

Died In Sleep

His Eminence, Archbishop of New York for almost two decades, a Cardinal Priest of the Church for almost fifteen years, and one of the most revered churchmen in America, died of a heart attack in his sleep Saturday night at his summer cottage at St. Joseph's, N. Y., 100 miles from his See city.

The cottage stands on the grounds of St. Joseph's Sanitarium, and nearby are two summer camps for city children — surroundings betokening the Catholic charities so near the Cardinal's heart.

New York, non-Catholic as well as Catholic, was shocked, for his Eminence was universally loved and esteemed as few have been in America.

In this diocese word of the Cardinal's death came as a distinct shock. His Excellency, Bishop Kearney at the consecration of bells for St. Augustine's Church announced the passing of the beloved Cardinal and the congregation showed the emotion the announcement received.

Bishop Issues Statement

The Bishop issued a statement on the Cardinal's death which appears in column eight on page one.

Among messages sent to New York was the following from Archbishop Hickey:

"I am expressing to you a word of sympathy on the great sorrow that has come to the Archdiocese of New York on the death of Cardinal Hayes."

Monsignor Hart, Vicar General, issued the following statement:

"The Cardinal's death is a great and irreparable loss to the Church of New York and to the country. He was looked upon as a national leader, but despite his position was gentle and affable always. He was revered by Catholics and Protestants alike."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles F. Shay commented as follows:

"I was quite shocked to hear of Cardinal Hayes' sudden death. His death is a distinct loss to the Church and to the nation.

"I had occasion, as pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral here, to meet the Cardinal personally on his visits to our city. What I had admired most in him was his simple, kindly manner, and easy approach despite

Bishop Kearney Mourns Death of Cardinal Hayes

His Excellency, Bishop Kearney before leaving for New York City to pay tribute to His Eminence, the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes issued the following statement on the death of the distinguished prelate:

The death of Cardinal Hayes takes from our midst the most beloved figure in the American hierarchy. The "Cardinal of Charities," throughout his long and effective career had but one light to guide his every action, the imitation of Christ.

Living in the world, as Christ's representative, and Metropolitan of this outstanding province in the United States, his faith and love of God retained the simplicity and fervor of his school days.

Like the Master, whom he served and imitated he tried to be ever at the service of his fellowmen.

The great organization of the Charities of his diocese, which gained for him the title of "Cardinal of Charities" was an insignificant part of the generous program of assistance to others which was his delight. Foreign missions, home missions or projects of any kind that concerned the glory of God or the welfare of man, never found Cardinal Hayes too busy to lend a sympathetic ear and a generous hand.

Men may have differed from him in religious belief, they may have disagreed with his position on prominent questions of the day but irrespective of belief or creed all respected and honored him for the gentleman that he was and for the courage and sincerity of his convictions. His kindly personality recalls the words of Moore to his deceased friend:

"As streams that run o'er golden sands
Nor seem to know the wealth that shines,
Within their gentle tide
So veiled beneath the simplest guise,
Thy radiant genius shone,
And that which charmed all other eyes
Seemed worthless in the own."

The United States can ill afford to lose a leader like Patrick Cardinal Hayes at this crucial period of our history. We feel sure that he will not forget us before the throne of God. He was a great leader, he was a great American and God rest his soul—he was a great priest.

CARDINAL LAURENTI DIES IN VATICAN CITY

VATICAN CITY (N. C. Radio) — His Eminence Camillo Cardinal Laurenti, Prefect of the Sacred Congregation of Rites, died Tuesday morning following a heart attack.

Cardinal Laurenti, a priest for more than half a century and a member of the Sacred College of Cardinals for more than 17 years, died in his sixty-seventh year.

His Eminence Cardinal Laurenti also held official posts in two other of the Sacred Congregations—that of the Propagation of the Faith and that of Rites. In the latter he was at one time Prefect. Soon after his ordination, in 1884, until his elevation to the Purple, in 1921, he served in the Congregation of Propaganda, rising to the office of Secretary.

Cardinal Laurenti was born at Monteprozio Catone (Rome), November 20, 1861. Cardinal Laurenti is considered a Roman for his birthplace is very close to Rome and therefore he is regarded as belonging to the Roman clergy.

Pope Honors Laymen

RALEIGH, N. C.—His Holiness Pope Pius XI has raised Francis J. Heazel, widely known southern layman, a Knight of St. Gregory the Great. Mr. Heazel is a prominent member of the bar, a member of the Supreme Board of the Knights of Columbus, and a leader in civic and religious affairs.

Pope Mourns U. S. Cardinal

VATICAN CITY (N. C. Radio)—His Holiness Pope Pius XI expressed his very great grief at the death of Cardinal Hayes of New York, when word of His Eminence's passing came. He spoke touchingly of the high regard in which he held his American prelate.

Not only the Pope but other high officials at the Vatican joined in profound expressions of sorrow.

Word of His Eminence's death reached the Vatican through cablegrams from the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, and the Most Rev. Stephen J. Donahue, Auxiliary Bishop of New York. Monsignor Domenico Tardini, Secretary for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs in the Vatican Secretariat of State, immediately telephoned the Holy Father at Castelgandolfo.

All members of the Curia expressed deep regret at the news of the passing of the beloved Cardinal. Particularly, he was extolled for his outstanding qualities of charity which had given him the title of "Cardinal of Charity". It was at once recalled that he had organized the charities of the Archdiocese of New York so effectively that they have often been cited as a typical example of what really organized charity should be.
