Of vital importance to ladies Cured after Twenty Years of Intense Suffering.

Ladies frequently suffer for years, believing that their trouble cannot be relieved and that their diseases are incurable. We have made a LIFETIME study of all the diseases peculiar to women, and we are treating them with a degree of success unknown to physicians generally.

Goodwin Washer. WEEKS' TRIAL FREE OF CHARGE. CALL ON OR ADDRESS J. BARNES & SON, 48 Genesee Street, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Read her statement: "From girlhood I had suffered the most excruciating agony a few months ago, being usually confined to bed two or three days each time. Although I had been treated by many physicians at different times the suffering steadily increased until my health became very poor, all the time."

"Emilia continued to come every morning to the study, and to write the periods and phrases that dropped laboriously from the exhausted imagination of the romancer."

"The wedding day was set for Monday, the third Monday in May, and the young man went on the preceding Saturday to bring his aged mother to the marriage."

"But at that moment the author scarcely remembered of having a romance to write. The characters and situations of his personages were quite indifferent to him."

"A strange idea struck him, and taking fresh paper, he dictated a lot of foolish things that passed through his mind."

"This time you will let me kiss you." "Without doubt," replied he, giving her two sonorous kisses.

Why We Say "The Speaker." We call the presiding officer of the house of representatives "The Speaker" because the English did so in giving a title to the head of the house of commons...

Nothing to Laugh At. Blooms—What were the boys all laughing so heartily over? Chumley—Smith got off one of his beastly jokes.

His Calling. Seedy Foreigner—Yes, I'm an "artist," a vocalist, you know. It's all right.

Success of Obesism in Trinidad. One circumstance to which I must allude happened during my stay at Trinidad, and with it I will close the subject of Obesism. Just before Christmas, in 1888, a negro child was kidnaped.

Danger of Gas and Geyser Baths. As is well known, the geyser bath is an ordinary bath with a geyser attached to it. The geyser is a kind of urn generally standing on the edge of the bath, into which the cold water from the main runs over plates heated by a series of gas burners, which are contained in itself, and then runs out at the other side into the bath at a given uniform heat.

The society was so impressed by the facts adduced that it passed the following resolution: "That this meeting is of opinion, in view of the many fatal accidents that have arisen by gas and geyser baths, due to a want of a more intimate knowledge of their nature, that the time has now come when the possibility of further fatalities should be avoided."

To Raise Church Debts. "Some of these fine churches of your city that are struggling under loads of indebtedness, incurred in periods of extraordinary fervor and hopefulness," said a Philadelphian visiting New York, "might be relieved more quickly, perhaps, than they otherwise will if their trustees would learn a lesson from one of our boards. It struggled on for a great number of years, paying interest on a big mortgage, but never succeeding in making any appreciable reduction of the principal."

The Kind She Wanted. Katie lives in the suburbs of Boston, and her small head is not infrequently badly mixed upon things that relate to the difference between the ways of the town where she lives and the ways of Boston. She has always a great scorn, however, for having things different from city fashions, and this shows itself in the most unexpected ways.

By Hammer and Hand All Arts Doe Stand. The Blacksmiths' cup, which formerly belonged to the Blacksmiths' company of England, was a tall cup of silver 11 1/2 inches high, without a cover, the bowl engraved with the arms of the Blacksmiths' company and decorated with tooled granulated ornaments.

Seedy Foreigner—Well, I'm a maker of bellows. Pittsburgh Bulletin.

"Come, Katie," she said, gravely; "if you will excuse me, I won't have any tintypes taken. I'll wait, if you please, till you can take me to town and get a real telegraph of me."—Youth's Companion.

Handy Things to Have. The government is issuing maps and charts to show just where gold may be found. A map or chart to point out to a fellow where he may pick up a few greenbacks would also be a handy thing to have in the house.—New York World.

Sh! He'll Hear You. "Your husband has grown quite deaf, they say."

A Handy and Useful Scrap Basket. A new variety of the ever useful scrap basket will be warmly welcomed by people obliged to live in rooms so small that every inch of space is valuable.

The foundation is one of the folding lattice work flower pot covers—the more substantial the better—and a large bag of silk, cretonne or any strong material. Open the cover to its full size, and cut a pasteboard circle to fit the bottom exactly.

The Art of Feeding Horses. An English veterinary surgeon recommends that those who have charge of horses should be taught that the stomach of a horse is not like the rumen of a cow, a mere receptacle for food, but an essential organ of digestion for a limited capacity, which does not need to be crammed in order to perform its proper functions, and that it cannot be so treated without danger to the animal.

By Hammer and Hand All Arts Doe Stand. The Blacksmiths' cup, which formerly belonged to the Blacksmiths' company of England, was a tall cup of silver 11 1/2 inches high, without a cover, the bowl engraved with the arms of the Blacksmiths' company and decorated with tooled granulated ornaments.

The cup was in the famous collection of Ralph Bernal, and afterward passed into that of Mr. Dexter, and is described and engraved in Cripps' "Old English Plate." It weighs 80 ounces 4 pennyweights. It was recently sold and brought $585.

Not long ago a traveling photographer came along and established himself near from her father's house, and her mother decided to improve the opportunity to have some pictures of the children taken.
