TOP AUBURN 18-13

St. Andrew's High School team brought their best season to a sensational close when they invaded Auburn last Sunday, as the guests of the Columbian Squires.

The Squires' team, runner-up in the Auburn League, and the Rochester contingent, who placed high in the C. Y. O. League, played nine hotly-contested innings at the Squires' camp on Owasco Lake. The game ended with the score, 18-13, in favor of Rochester.

Following the game, both teams had recess in the excellent swimming and boating facilities of the camp.

The Squires proved to be excellent hosts as well as real sportsmen, and the picnic dinner which they served will long be remembered by the victorious St. Andrew's team.

The High School team out-scored and out-played the Immaculate Conception team at the Carter St. field. The highlight of the game was a triple by the St. Andrew's lads.

With the bases loaded and no one out, the hitter hit a bounding ball to the pitcher, who threw to the catcher, cutting off the run at the plate. The ball was then relayed to the first baseman in time to retire the hitter at that point. The first baseman, in turn, threw to third, best doubling the runner and thus completing the play.

The Holy Rosary—St. Andrew's game was fortified by Holy Rosary.

The Holy Name Society held its first meeting of the current season last Wednesday evening. Plans discussed for the coming year included the Clean Literature Drive, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Regan; the attendance at general Communion Sunday during October, the Month of Forty Hours; and the celebration of St. Andrew's Silver Jubilee.

Adult Education Classes Will Open September 19

Registration for the fall-winter term for free Adult Education evening classes will open at the various schools and Civic centers on Tuesday, September 19, according to the Adult Education Division of the Board of Education.

With an expected registration of over 35,000 persons it is believed that enrollment will surpass last year's record attendance. Registration will continue throughout the week of September 19 and formal instruction will begin Monday, September 25.

Nearly 100 classes will be conducted in Cultural, Commercial, Vocational and Homemaking subjects in approximately 18 schools and Civic centers. Schedules showing the time and place of classes are being prepared and will be available at the various schools and centers.

Other courses may be given for subjects where the minimum registration warrants. Instruction is free except for a small registration fee to cover cost of materials to be used.

Adult Evening schools are sponsored by the Board of Education, supervised by the State Education Department, and financed by the Federal Work Projects Administration.

St. Anthony's Life Shown in Mystery Play

PARIS.—Before the refuge erected at the summit of the mountain overlooking Rocy, which, in addition to the memory of St. Anthony who built it, has the distinction of having been the point of departure for many of the crusades, hundreds of the village people watched the presentation of the Saint's life by the Petite Chorus of Saint Augustin. The presentation was in the form of a Mystery Play.

MASS AND SERMON FOR LABOR

Courtesy Democrat & Chronicle

Solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated by His Excellency, Bishop Kearney for Labor at Sacred Heart Cathedral, Monday, when both His Excellency, and the Rev. Thomas D. O'Conner, C.M., (left) were heard in addresses on the occasion.

Urges Prayer To Curb War

"In the Fall of 1918 the Bishop's Committee issued a program of social reconstruction which opened with these words: 'The ending of the Great War has brought peace. But the only safeguard of peace is a social justice and a contented people.' The Bishops prepared a program which they considered as a moderate application of Catholic moral principles to social and industrial life.

"Of the Bishops' eleven proposals, although one has been either wholly or partially translated into fact. One proposal has been carried out on a larger scale than was suggested; we now have national, in addition to state minimum wage legislation. Some of the other proposals that were thought 'radical' which have become laws in the past 21 years are: Insurance Against Unemployment, Sickness and Old Age; Legal Enforcement of the Right of Labor to Organize; Public Housing for the Working Classes."

The Niagara Professor declared that the enactment of the Fair Labor Standards Act has made a beginning toward the removal of the most frequent cause of strikes. He urged the workers "to become inflamed with zeal and piety and imbued with Christ-like ambitions." He said that if the specific remedies suggested by Pope Pius XI are translated into action, future Labor Days will be "days when the peace of Christ will reign in the hearts and in the homes of men upon earth."

Assisting the Bishop in the Mass were Assistant Priest, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William M. Hart, V.G.; Deacons of Honor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. George V. Burns and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles F. Shay; Deacon, the Rev. George Vogt; Subdeacon, the Rev. Gerald C. Lambert and Master of Ceremonies, the Rev. John T. Callahan.

Other clergy in the sanctuary were: the Rev. William P. McGee, C.S.B.; the Rev. John P. O'Beirne and the Rev. Alphonsus P. Crimmens.

Music was furnished by a special choir under the direction of the Rev. Benedict Ehmann.

A Columnist Lauds Verein

The deep impression left by the Catholic Central Verein national convention in San Francisco is revealed in the following reprint from "The Week," a column in "The Monitor," official newspaper of the Archdiocese of San Francisco, Aug. 5, 1939 issue:

The National Convention of the Catholic Central Verein, held in San Francisco over the last weekend was an edifying assemblage of as earnest and humble Catholics as this country possesses.

The tradition of the Germans who compose the Verein goes back one hundred years beyond the foundation of the first Catholic Central Verein in this country. It goes back to the resurgence of German Catholicism in Prussia, in resistance to the interference of the State in matters personal to natural and supernatural rights.

The great German immigration of the early nineteenth century and on to its end was largely composed of men who desired the free exercise of personal and political liberty. Many of the Protestants were of the old-time Socialist things. But the Catholics were convinced believers in the principles that lay at the root of American democracy.

As Catholics they established, in their humility and honesty of purpose, a way of life that has been a potent influence in the development of the Church in America. Workers all, they devoted themselves in their leisure hours to the corporal and spiritual works of mercy without fanfare, without conceit, without publicity, careful lest they should receive any acclamation or reward in this world that might detract from their merit in eternal life. They truly had a supernatural outlook.

It was largely their determination which insured the establishment of the parochial school system of this country. They early became convinced that their children could not preserve the heritage of Faith unless they were educated in Catholicism.

They have not been much published because they have not any great talent for toeting their own horns. But it is well for the rest of us to recognize them and look to them for example. Whatever they undertake, they do realistically and thoroughly and, above all, patiently.

They seem to possess eminently that insight, which is truly a test of Faith, the belief that God is eternal, and that if accordingly they sow well now, God will reap the harvest after they are gone. They are not nervously obsessed with the idea of getting quick results and seeing their achievements acknowledged before the world.

Nor should it be forgotten that their loyalty to true American ways was proven by tests of living decently and dying bravely long before the insane philosophy of despair overwhelmed Germany. They have no part in that. They can be trusted to be the bulwarks of the defense against every politically and socially subversive movement in America.

They have a capacity for cooperation and organization that has its roots in their simplicity and humility. They do not all want to be leaders. Rather do they all want to work without being singled out.

Frederick Frieseke, Noted Painter, Dies

PARIS.—Frederick Carl Frieseke, noted American painter, died at his home in Normandy at the age of 65. On his death-bed he became a convert to the Catholic Faith.

Mr. Frieseke's daughter is the wife of Keaton Kilmer, son of Joyce Kilmer, renowned American Catholic poet, who was slain in the World War.

Many of Mr. Frieseke's paintings hang in notable American museums and in the Luxembourg Museum, the Modern Gallery in Venice and the Museum of Ghent.

St. Monica's Parish

SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

By MARY CAUFIELD

The opening of St. Monica's School has been postponed to Monday, September 11. Because workmen were unable to complete the alterations on the school, Monsignor Bergan thought it best not to reopen school for another week.

Three new teachers have been added to the faculty of St. Monica's School. Sister Louise Marie has been appointed principal of the school and superior of St. Monica's Convent; Sister Anna Louise will be in charge of the music classes; and Sister Mary George will teach one of the classes.

The Holy Name Society will receive Holy Communion on Sunday, September 10.

The first fall meeting of the Rosary Society will be held Friday evening, in the parish hall. Every member who can possibly do so is asked to attend this meeting, and anyone who wishes to join the Society will be most welcome.

The Junior and Senior Groups of the Young Ladies' Sodality will hold their first meeting of the current year next Monday evening in the parish hall.

The central councils of both groups met during the past week at the homes of their respective prefects, and tentative plans have been discussed for various functions for the coming year.

One of the first Sodality activities will be the formation of a choir. Every Sodalist interested in this project is asked to report at a special meeting next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the parish hall.

Holy Rosary Parish

SCHOOL REOPENS

Holy Rosary Parochial School reopened last Tuesday at nine o'clock. The sisters in charge report a large registration, and everyone is looking forward to a happy and successful school year.

Sister M. Anita, a Trinitarian nun, has been assigned to Holy Rosary Parish. Sister, is from Uniontown, Pa.

Holy Rosary Church was the scene of a very pretty fall wedding last Monday when Florence Krauter became the bride of George Abrey.

Edward Krauter and Ethel Abrey were the only attendants for the bridal couple.

Housing Authority To Address N. C. C. W.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Miss Elizabeth C. Moore, of Washington, D. C., representative of the Information Service of the United States Housing Authority, will be one of the principal speakers at the nineteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women to be held here September 9-14.

Miss Moore has just returned from the International Housing and Town Planning Conference in Sweden. While in Europe she made a study of public housing in Sweden, Denmark, France, Holland and England. She also has traveled extensively throughout the United States studying the varied needs in the different communities, explaining what the United States Housing Act can do in clearing slums and bettering housing conditions in the United States.

Miss Moore frequently has addressed local groups in various states affiliated with the National Council of Catholic Women.

Miss Moore will speak at the convention on "How Catholic Women Can Help the Housing Program in Their Own Communities." A special exhibit will be sent to the convention, at which Miss Moore will be in attendance.

Communists Can't Kill Religion, Says Newspaper

PHILADELPHIA —"Communists Can't Kill Religion" is the title of an editorial in a recent issue of the Philadelphia Inquirer, commenting on the lament of the Moscow Pravda, Communist party newspaper, that religion is not being stamped out in Russia.

"These Russians," the Inquirer observes, "who still worship God in accordance with their consciences are making a stand for common decency and the sanctity of the home. And this conflicts with the Communist program, so well known as not to require description."

The Communists cannot wean the children from the faith of their fathers, the paper continues, adding: "Other Governments have tried it and failed. The religious spirit, instinctive with man, can not be killed. The Communists are beginning to find that out."
