Peter L. and George Weis attended the groom and Misses Anna Weis and Clara Staub were bridesmaids. Excellent music was furnished by the choir. A reception followed at the bride's residence, No. 450 Clifford street.

Moving.

"Outing" has become a much used word of late, and it covers a good deal of territorial meaning. One of Webster's definitions is: "That which goes out." To-day we commenced to move out the entire stock of goods in our Cloak Department to a room just opposite, in order to give fuller swing to the brick-layers and carpenters at work on our new building. The only matter of interest to you in this statement is the fact that in order to reduce the goods in this line largely and at once we have made sweeping all-around reductions in prices on imported fine French Flannel Blouse, Waists, long Gloria Traveling Garments, Jackets, etc. we are closing out a beautiful lot of 100 white Lawn Suits, exquisitely embroidered, at actually less than the cost of making them up. Don't miss this sale. We have got to have the room at any sacrifice.

Out of respect to my age I claim attention and I am sure that if those who are afflicted listen to my bit of history and heed my advice, they will never repent having followed it.

For twelve years previous to 1864 I suffered with severe cough, liver and kidney complaints, constipation and general debility. I was treated by seven different doctors who unanimously pronounced my disease consumption. With this millstone about my neck, I was almost disheartened when, hearing of the wonderful cures made by Drs. Filkins Bros.' Remedies, I decided to try them. I had a personal consultation with Dr. Filkins, who said my cough arose from chronic inflammation of the liver and kidneys. I began taking his remedies and it affords me much pleasure to say that they cured my cough and beyond all doubt saved my life twenty-eight years ago. To all who suffer from any derangement of the system, I would recommend Drs. Filkins Bros.' Remedies. It may seem a peculiar circumstance, but the seven doctors whom I had previously consulted have passed away while I am enjoying good health in my 70th year.

IN TERRIBLE AGONY FOR HOURS

Rolling Upon the Floor in Spasms.

It would seem almost incredible that any one could suffer so much and live. It is equally difficult to conceive why any one should allow themselves to suffer when this is not necessary. A lady who wishes her name withheld for the present living on Courtland street, has for years been an extreme sufferer from ulcerative dyspepsia, the catarrhal form.

Each mouthful of food, each swallow of water, produced such extreme pain that for hours until it either passed out of the stomach or was vomited up, she would roll on the floor in spasms, and become almost unconscious. She had no alternative but to either abstain from taking food and starve to death, or die from the agony the food produced. She consulted a score of doctors, hoping that some one of them could help her. Her family doctor failed to even relieve her. She was now on the verge of despair. Upon the advice of one who had been cured of a similar trouble, she consulted a last resort, Dr. C. M. Freeman, the well known specialist and president of the Polytechnic Medical Institute, corner Franklin and Andrews streets. The third day after beginning treatment with the Locust she had a very slight spasm, much less than she known for two years. Although under the doctor's care for only one month she is completely restored to health. The most intimate friends scarcely recognize in her the same person, she has gained flesh so rapidly. She has no more bloating of gas, bloating of the stomach, bowels, headache, sleepless nights, nervousness, and especially the nervousness and everything without the slightest inconvenience. She is loud in her praise of the physicians of the Polytechnic Medical Institute, and especially of Dr. Freeman, whom she claims saved her life.

Should any one desire to talk with a lady, her name and address will be given by the doctor upon application. She is cured and she is well.
