The committee in charge is composed of Matthew Ryan, Patrick Dwyer, B. F. McCarthy, William Ryan, Miss May Collins and Miss Nelly Clancy.

The Culross Bakery.

This establishment is deservedly popular, and the reputation of its goods is excelled by no other house in the city. The bread, crackers, biscuits, etc., sold at either branch can be relied upon for purity, as none but the best ingredients are used. Those who favor this firm with a trial order will be delighted with the result.

A MIRACULOUS CURE.

Miss Nellie C. Hennessy Relieved of Her Lameness.

Miss Nellie C. Hennessy is a delicate appearing girl about 22 years old and resides in Oswego. In her 14th year she was taken ill and since then has been a constant sufferer.

The use of her right side was partially lost and physicians of Oswego and of other cities were unable either to agree upon the nature of her ailment or to effect a remedy. She was unable to walk without the use of crutches and then only with much pain. Last week a retreat for the Young Ladies' Sodality of the Blessed Virgin was begun in St. John's church under the directorship of Father Hartman, S. J., of Buffalo. Miss Hennessy was one of forty other young ladies to be received into the society. Thursday she called on Father Hartman and asked him if he could do something to relieve her terrible suffering. He told her to pray and place her trust in God and the blessed Virgin. Sunday afternoon she approached the altar rail to be received into the sodality. When the medal—the badge of membership—was placed around her neck she found herself curiously affected and trembled as a leaf. With the aid of crutches she returned to her pew. After the service she was able to walk out unaided and her lameness was entirely gone. She no longer needs crutches but walks around as well as though she had never been afflicted.

[We received assurances from acquaintances of Miss Hennessy that her ailment and cure were bona fide. Ed. C. J.]

Gold Lace and Fiddlesticks.

Emperor William has issued new regulations respecting the wearing of German naval uniforms which are so minute and elaborate that they fill a book of forty pages. Any admiral who marries is in future to go through the ceremony arrayed in his full uniform. Admirals are only to wear plain clothes at the seaside or at baths, when out shooting, at masked balls, or when on half pay. If they happen to be in Berlin on a Sunday the cocked hat must be worn when walking about the city till 4 o'clock in the afternoon. When an admiral is at sea he may wear an oilskin sou'wester and coat only if the weather is stormy, and his shirt front must always be perfectly plain. It is further strictly forbidden to have the corners of the collar turned down or doubled back, and there are peremptory rules about gold lace and other fiddle sticks appendages.—London Truth.

An Old Soldier.

A conspicuous figure in the procession at the unveiling of the Lee monument, at Richmond, was the venerable Professor F. N. Croach, the composer of "Kathleen Mavourneen." He is perhaps nearer 90 than 80 years of age, yet hale and hearty. He was arrayed in full uniform of Confederate gray, having come on from Baltimore to meet probably for the last time his soldier comrades of the old First Howitzers. His comrades say that no braver soldier ever fought with the artillery of the army of northern Virginia.—Exchange.

While exercising a horse at Fort Collins, Colo., the animal became enraged and attempted to bite its leader. The trainer succeeded in preventing the furious beast from injuring him until the halter broke, when the animal picked him up by the shoulder and threw him to the ground with great violence. Then burying his teeth in the flesh of the prostrate man the brute trampled upon him. The trainer's chest was crushed, three ribs were broken and the flesh on all parts of his body was bruised and crushed.

Out of respect to my age I shall not mention and I am sure that if those who are afflicted listen to my bit of history and heed my advice, they will never regret having followed it.

For twelve years previous to 1901 I suffered with severe cough, liver and kidney complaints, constipation and general debility. I was treated by seven different doctors who unanimously pronounced my case consumption. With this realization about my neck, I was almost despondent when, hearing of the wonderful cure made by Drs. Filkins Bros' Remedies, I decided to try them. I had a personal consultation with Dr. Filkins, who said my cough arose from chronic inflammation of the liver and kidneys. I began taking his remedies and it afforded me much pleasure to say that they cured my cough and beyond all doubt saved my life twenty-eight years ago. To all who suffer from any derangement of the system, I would recommend Drs. Filkins Bros' Remedies. It may seem a peculiar circumstance, but the seven doctors whom I had previously consulted never passed away while I was enjoying good health in my 70th year. Victor, N. Y., May 5, 1900.

THE TERRIBLE AGONY FOR NERVES

Rolling Upon the Floor in Spasms. It would seem almost incredible that any one could suffer so much and live. It is equally difficult to conceive why any one should allow themselves to suffer when this is not necessary. A lady, who wishes her name withheld for the present, living on Courtland street, has for years been an extreme sufferer from excessive dyspepsia, the catarrhal form.

Each mouthful of food, each swallow of water, produced such extreme pain that for hours until it either passed out of the stomach or was vomited up, she would roll on the floor in spasms and become almost unconscious. She had no alternative but to either abstain from taking food and starve to death or die from the agony the food produced. She consulted a score of doctors, hoping that some one of them could help her. Her family doctor failed to even relieve her. She was now on the verge of despair. Upon the advice of one who had been cured of a similar trouble, she consulted Dr. C. M. Freeman, the specialist and president of the Polytechnic Medical Institute, corner Franklin and Andrews streets. The third day after beginning treatment with the doctor she had a very slight spasm, much lighter than she had known for two years. Although under the doctor's care for only one month she is completely restored to health. Her most intimate friends scarcely recognize her in the same person, she has gained in flesh so rapidly. She has no more rolling of gas, bloating of the stomach, bowels, headache, sleepless nights, or nervousness after meals. She now eats anything and everything without the slightest inconvenience. She is found in the office of the physicians of the Polytechnic Medical Institute, and especially of Dr. Freeman, whom she desires to thank. Should any one desire to know the lady her name and address, they may do so by the doctor's name and address, who will send her name and address.
