Communist Regime in Yugoslavia Continues Attacks Against the Church

LONDON — (NC) — Yugoslavia may have political and ideological differences with Soviet Russia and other communist countries, but when it is a question of attacking and slandering the Holy See the "united front" of Red regimes is unbroken.

This becomes evident from an article which seeks to show that "the Vatican has consistently ranged itself on the side of every enemy the southern Slavs have ever had." The article winds up by saying that "the clerical fascists of the whole world and the Vatican are trying to make the world believe that religion is being persecuted in Yugoslavia" and adds: "They are, however, confusing religion with its abuse for the political ends of the Vatican."

The article, written by a Professor Victor Novak, appeared in the Yugoslav magazine "Medjunarodna Politika" (International Politics) and was broadcast in Czech by the government-controlled Belgrade radio station.

Those who closely follow developments in the communist war on the church point out that the accusation of abusing religion for political ends is an old stand-by of communist propaganda. The very same argument is constantly used by the Red Chinese to justify their arrest and expulsion of foreign missionaries. It is employed in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary to gain popular support for the persecution of "unpatriotic priests" and the suppression of Catholic institutions.

The article by Professor Novak seeks to show, with a pretense of historical learning, that since the sixth and seventh centuries the Holy See has been "prejudiced" against the southern Slavs—that is, Bulgars, Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. It revives the thoroughly disproved charge that the Ustashi (the Croat fascist group which was in power during the war) acted "in direct liaison with the Vatican." It quotes Tito as saying that "Rome has always been more favorably inclined toward Italy than toward our peoples."

The article, it is pointed out here, also demonstrates the hollowness of Yugoslav propaganda efforts which seek to create the false impression that there has been a letup in the war of the Tito regime against the church. It rather shows that, together with physical persecution of Catholics and suppression of the most elementary rights of the church, the ideological warfare against the Holy See continues as heretofore.

ST. MICHAEL'S SCHOOL, SAVANNAH BEACH—Pictured above is the modernly designed St. Michael's School on Tybee Island, Savannah Beach, Georgia, which has just completed its third year with an enrollment of about one hundred pupils. Conducted by the Missionary Franciscan Sisters of the Immaculate Conception, the teaching staff includes Sister Mary Claudia, the principal, who teaches the sixth and seventh grades; Sister M. Concepta, who teaches the fourth and fifth grades; sister Anthony Joseph, who teaches the second and third grades, and Sister Ita Mary, who teaches the first grade and kindergarten. An eighth grade will be added when the school reopens in the fall. The pupils at St. Michael's have a distinctive uniform of red and white to be worn on special occasions. Features offered are a rhythm band, voice training and piano lessons.

A TRACTOR has been presented His Holiness Pope Pius XII by Monsignor Luigi Liguiti, of Des Moines, on behalf of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. The tractor will be used at the Villa Barberini, the farm attached to Castel Gandolfo, the Papal summer residence.

MRS. W. J. COONEY DIES IN AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Mrs. Mary Carrigan Cooney, wife of the late William J. Cooney, and one of the few remaining of the Augusta Gold Star Mothers of World War I, died on July 7. Funeral services were held at the Sacred Heart Church, Father Andrew Doris, O. S. B. offering the Requiem Mass. Present in the sanctuary were Monsignor James J. Grady, Father James M. Buckley, S. J., Father J. J. Murphy, S. J., of Augusta, and Father Charles Mooney, of Aiken, S. C.

Mrs. Cooney, a native of Ireland, had resided in Augusta for most of her life. Her husband was at one time one of the leading wholesale produce merchants of this section.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Claire W. Busch, of Aiken, S. C., Miss Eleanor Cooney and Mrs. Edward Doris, of Augusta, Mrs. G. P. Rackley, of Albany, Ga., and Mrs. Catherine C. Cooney, of Rochester, N. Y., two sisters, Mrs. Phil Malone of St. John, Newfoundland, and Mrs. Robert Wilkins, of Portland, Ore., a brother, M. J. Carrigan, of Augusta, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

MRS. WALTER YAUN DIES IN AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Funeral services for Mrs. Janie Agnes Dow Yaun, wife of the late Walter William Yaun, who died July 10, were held at St. Patrick's Church, Father J. Joseph Malloy officiating.

Mrs. Yaun, a life-long resident of Augusta, is survived by three sisters, Miss Mary L. Dow, Miss Nellie M. Dow, and Mrs. Mary F. Olson, all of Augusta.

"IT IS A BAD WILL that does not mention God as a legatee. If we provide for the orphans by leaving their names as beneficiaries of our charity in the dispositions we make of our worldly goods we are doing something for God, something for His orphans and much for our own soul. God cannot resist the prayer of a little child whose angels see the Father's face in heaven."

All gifts and legacies intended for the orphans of St. Mary's Home should be made payable to the "Female Orphan Benevolent Society," which is duly incorporated under the laws of Georgia.
