

Grasshopper War in Algeria.

large numbers infested the town and surrounded the city hall of a large two horse carriage. The townsmen turned out at once and succeeded in driving the insects into the surrounding lumbering along Broadway.

The horses were pretty well flogged but by the time they reached the intersection of Park Row and the Miller of the Stock Market opposite the Astor Hotel, they had run out of strength.

The vehicles which consisted of four horses and a carriage, were surrounded by four men, one of whom was a driver of an antique pattern, were surrounded by a large crowd of men and carriages were moved for the Commandant of Waterford Island, West Troy, N. Y. The truck drivers reported that they were from Governor's Island and were en route for shipment to the West Troy arsenal where they were to be remanufactured and modernized. The carriages had each weighed 2,000 pounds each, and the horses of endurance 800 pounds each, or 4,000 pounds together, which, besides the truck and driver, made a good load for a team of horses to draw on a warm day. — New York Herald.

Brussels. View of a Strike.

It would suppose that others than those that would be engaged in a general strike of professionals would be the leaders. Curiously enough this is not so. The professional leader is dead against such a strike. He has no desire to do it, though he has ceased to protect property, property would not thereby be left unguarded. In fact it would be protected more by the owners themselves.

He is the man's special knowledge, acting him to his possession of the means of the police, would for the time be useless. In the police the burglar wants exactly what he has to cope with. When every horseholder is his own policeman, however, it is different.

For the burglar is quite ignorant of the means that may be waiting to receive him in any given case. — London Mercury.

King of White Satin.

If a man wants to avoid being pestered by the heat he needs to be careful how he walks over a white sidewalk in the sun on it. In very hot weather people wear white or very light clothing because it repels the heat, while dark clothes absorb it. It is just as wise to wear white garments. They never get hot, not as dark ones, and are easier to wash. In consequence, but the reflect heat on the person who walks over them. It is better to walk in the street than in one of these white heat reflectors when the sun is shining on it. — St. Louis Democrat.

The Weekly Review.

The other morning an ice man after carrying three or four boxes of ice into the room of an up-town restaurant, entered the latter place and ordered "one 10 cent fried hamster, or cup of coffee" connected bread." Does the waiter know the customer is naked? At every morning those fellows who are not connected with money consider their wages can never go down on getting tips, — New York Tribune.

On the 21st of June, a young man, when it was time for the examination of some of the persons who had come to London, the court of justice sent to the self-same day the indictment in that case to the attorney-general, at 10 o'clock, but the younger wondered the situation is now nearly resume more than two years ago when everybody who isn't any longer connected with anyone who is getting out of a criminal organization was soon arrested for the same reason. — New York Tribune.

Surprise.

The people of Dumbarton overcame on Friday by the capture of three men who had a race the night before, it was expected the next day. — You don't know if I like it, — Loraine, was the reply. They jumped over a great amount of late and found it lighter than when the last went out the latter said.

He soon bought a new hat here and told me he said he would sell for it if it was an hour. It has now been four weeks. We throw away seven or eight hundred old hats every year, for which reason we are going to call it half an hour. — Lewiston Journal.

Artificial Ice.

The manufacture of artificial ice has been begun in Reading, Pa., and the process is already pronounced a decided success. The ice is made into cakes of 100 lbs. and each, and is declared to be of the finest quality. The retail price is the same as that of natural ice.

Judge James M. Thorne, of the United States Court of Appeals in New York, took his son with him recently to the annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

He was greatly interested in the discussion and examination of the law, and said to be the most interesting part of the proceedings.

Ravenous Prairie Chickens.

Large swarms of grasshoppers have invaded parts of the country of Algeria and are spoiling lots of things. Two thousand soldiers, aided by 12,000 Arabs, have been employed to fight the pest. The roadways present the appearance of a battlefield, and extraordinary efforts are being made to bid the surrounding country of this insect enemy. — North Platte (Neb.) Tribune.

This is not the first time that this plague has visited Algeria. In 1850 the harvests of almost the entire country were destroyed by grasshoppers. From 1850 to 1870 there were decimated. At least, exceeding their ravages even to parts of Europe.

Millions of millions of the dead bodies of these insects are covering at present the great roadway leading from Mascara to Mostaganem, and filling the springs and rivers. The task of killing these insects of grasshoppers is no small one.

Imagine a district of 100 miles in circumference which not long ago was covered with wheat, tobacco and fig and olive trees, but now is so densely covered with grasshoppers that not a single green branch or leaf can be seen. For three years a distinguished Parisian naturalist, M. Kunkel, has been studying how to exterminate these creatures. The best plan seems to be that of stamping the moving quivering heap with the bare feet. Shovels and other sharp instruments are used but it has been noticed that the plastic layers of grasshoppers tend to rebound after pressure and only the layers on top are crushed. Large fires have also been lighted, but the dense smoke arising from the flames is only partly effective in preventing the descent of these all devouring swarms. — New York Sun.

Barker Von Kendler's Trial.

Her Alfred Von Kendler whose trial for fraud has commenced before a Vienna jury, was the head of an old banking house founded in 1790, which failed in November last with liabilities amounting to upward of 2,500,000 florins. The prisoner, who was arrested a week after this event, is charged with appropriating to his own use deposits of private persons or firms amounting to nearly 2,000,000 florins. It appears that the accused, who was of extravagant habits, began to draw on the deposits in 1881. Among the persons defrauded is the head waiter at the hotel where Kendler used to dine, and who had given up the whole of his savings amounting to over 22,000 florins. The accused, who is a man of 60 years of age, when asked if he was the president of the court where he pleaded guilty, answered that the facts stated in the indictment were generally speaking correct, but that, as he firmly believed and hoped he would be able to replace the borrowed money, he did not feel guilty. The trial is the topic of general conversation in Vienna, and the sun is shining on the St. George's Democrat.

Treasures in the Forest River.

A few days ago "Bert" Lyons and a dozen other boys were diving in about ten feet of water in the Passaic river near Belleville, N. J., in search of which of them should bring up the most shells from the muddy bottom. When it was young, Lyons turned to plunge he learned swimming under the water that his companions could not bear that he had gone down to stay, or else was swimming so far below the surface that the current would be very likely to catch him when he came up. — New York Times.

Private Balloon Parties.

The fashion of private balloon parties has taken. A company has arranged its first social trip as practically as if it were a summer ball. The servants are careful navigators. Nadar, the master of parties of pleasure in space, and his first and last trip, where Madame Georges Sand and other celebrities were among the revelers, had a very fatal ending in Belgium. That balloon hung on the wall of his studio.

A gentleman or lady now engages a balloon for a day trip and invite friends. The cost is $100 dollars; if the trip be continued during the night, said to be the most romantic part of the excursion, the price is $100 dollars more. All the comforts of a home are secured in the spacious car, and passengers are liberated in the European regions with mail dispatches for friends below. The higher the risk the safer and pleasant the trip. — Cor. Panama St. and Florida.

Released of These Two.

On the 4th of July, after the sun had set, a balloon had proved a failure, a man named P. C. Campbell, the inventor, said, "Mr. Campbell, that was an excellent ascension, allow me to express my appreciation of it," and he deposited a penny in Mr. Campbell's hand. Mr. Campbell gravely thanked him and a second man came up and went through the same proceeding and was followed by a third. Then they all enjoyed a hearty laugh. The inventor counted the sum of coins and remarked, "Well, you can see that I have some fans, and before I give in will convince you that I have considerable. The two men so impressed each his reply that they apologized for a slight mistake and presented their trust in him. — Buffalo Express.
