Additional Property Bought for Parish

Blessed Sacrament Parish has purchased the residence and property at 297 Rutgers St. adjoining the convent property, thus completing the parish holdings on that corner.

The new purchase squares off the Blessed Sacrament property on Monroe Avenue, Oxford St. and Rutgers Street.

The lot, formerly the property of Mrs. Verona Venese, is situated just three feet from the convent property. Mrs. Venese herself requested the transaction between herself and the trustees.

The entire Blessed Sacrament Church property will henceforth be [illegible] any encumbrances. Mrs. Venese and her husband, according to agreement, will continue to occupy the residence for an indefinite period.

name you bear is sacred, it is a tradition.

"Do honor to that name so that you in turn may pass it on with credit and distinction as you received it from your father. You have an obligation to pay respect to the name and reputation of your father. If you dishonor that name or conduct yourself in school, in the street, or elsewhere, so as to have that name called out in derision, disrespect or scorn, then you are not obeying God's Command to honor thy father."

"Honor and Respect and Obey that Scoutmaster. He picked first—Honor Thy Father."

Rev. John S. Whalen, Assistant Pastor, was toastmaster and introduced guests, including Leo M. Sanderlin, Chief Scout Executive of Otetiana Council, Harold J. Coleman, Chairman of the Catholic Lay Committee on Scouting, Louis A. Langie, Diocesan Chairman for Catholic Scouting—Otetiana Council, Clarence W. organization. It is an invitation to spend one hour each month at succeeding hours throughout the night, in the intimate presence of Our Lord in the Holy Eucharist.

"Rejection or neglect of Christ in the Holy Eucharist, the central truth of Christianity, is at the root of modern paganism," he said.

"The Nocturnal Adoration Society offers the laymen a brief retreat from these pagan influences of his daily routine, with time to refresh his mind, cast off worldly anxieties, and renew a right sense of values.

"The small sacrifice of attending the various hours throughout the night, combined with prayer and adoration, make up a form of devotion which affords much peace and satisfaction as it is pursued from month to month."

Secretary Joseph W. Benn revealed that a number of members have a perfect record of monthly attendance since the Society was organized in September, 1929.

Rudolph G. Schwenzer, Vice President, announced the Annual Corporate Communion Breakfast on Passion Sunday, March 23 at which new members will be welcome.
