ADVENT.

Sunday, November 30, will be the the first Sunday in Advent, the commencement of the ecclesiastical year, an event of as much interest to Catholies as the beginning of the civil year as the spiritual welfare is as necessary as the physical and temporal.

The period of between three and four weeks from Advent Sunday to Christmas, is named by the Church the season of advent. During it she desires that her children should practice fasting, works of penance, meditation and prayer in order to prepare themselves for celebrating worthily the coming of the Son of God in the flesh, to promote His spiritual advent within their own souls, and to school themselves to look forward with hope and joy to His second advent, when He shall come again to judge man-

There-is a marvelous beauty in the offices and rites of the Church during this season. The lessons, generally taken from the prophecies of Isaias, remind us how the desire and expectation, not of Israel only, but of all nations, carried forward the thoughts of mankind, before the time of Jesus Christ, to a Redeemer one day to be revealed; they also strike the note of preparation, watchfulness, compunction, hope. In the Gospels we hear of the terrors of the last judgment, that second advent, which those who despise the first will not escape; of the witness borne by John the Precursor, and of the "mighty works" by which the Savior's life supplied a solid four dation and justification for that wit ness. The purple hue of penance is the only color used in the services of Advent, except on the feasts of saints In many other points Advent resembles Lent; during its duration, in Masses de Tempore, the Gioria in Exelsis is suppressed, the deacon sings Benedicamus Domineo at the end of Mass instead of Ite Missa est, and erriages are not solermized.

least thirteen weeks in each year under a penalty of fine. This looked reasonable-leaving the right of the State to enact laws providing for compulsory education out of the question -and no serious objection would have been raised, had not the arbitrary been conferred upon school inspectors of designating to which schools the child should be sent. It can readily be seen that a bigoted school inspector could decide a parochial or private school was, in fact, no school at all, and insist that the child not have been exercised by many, but sion to the United States. the power was placed in their hands to be used if they took a notion.

The Catholics immediately took measures to fight the law. The late address, stated the case impartially to the people of Wisconsin. The Lutherans also banded together to protect their parochial schools.

The Republicans made the Bennett law a plank in their platform. The Democrats, with George M. Peck at their head, pledged themselves to secure its repeal. A fierce battle has been waged and the bigots have been been elected governor by a majority mayor. of 30,000; The Congressional delegation is Democratic; the State Legislature and State Senate are Democratic, thus ensuring the election of a Democratic United States Senator. Truly, Wisconsin Catholics and Lutherans have a right to be proud of their glorious victory.

-DIOGESAN CHANGES.

Rev. Angelo Lugero has relinquish ed his pastoral charge at Honeoye Falls and will be succeeded to-morrow by Rev. M. J. Cluney, formerly assistant at St. Mary's, and chaplain to the county institutions. Father Angelo takes Father Cluney's place at St.

In bidding farewell to his people last Sunday, Father Angelo informed them that the condition of his health would not permit him longer to take the long drives necessary to minister to the three parishes embraced in the pastorate of Honeoye Falls.

While regretting the necessity of the departure of Father Angelo, who, in his stay of two years, had endeared himself to every heart by his unflagging zeal, genial disposition, and fidelity to his sacred calling, the people of Honeoye Falls will welcome Father Cluney, who comes not among them as a stranger, as he was reared in the immediate neighborhood.

Father Cluney, who was ordained wo years ago last July, and has been at St. Mary's about two years, has made many friends in this city who will feel a deep regret at parting with him, yet be glad to hear of his promotion Father Angelo is well-know in Rochester, where he will find a hearty reception.

When all had taken their seats, the Bishop again addressed the congregation, exhorting the children to be firm in their faith, to be true soldiers of Christ, and to never be false to their religion. He said he was glad to have the opportunity afforded him of blessing a new parochial school building, because in such buildings the youth was trained in principles of morality and religion. He argued very strongly in favor of Christian and parochial education, and impressed upon his hearers the necessity of building, equipping and maintaining parochial schools, as, he said, the public schools had been so much secularized that it was endangering a child's soul to send him to them. In the conrise of his remarks, the Bishop made the following explicit declaration: "When we cease building parochial schools we had better stop building churches." It is safe to say no one went away without a firm be-
