Irish Program For Youth Slated At Immaculate Center

Patrons of the Immaculate Dancing Center will all be Irish, Friday evening, Mar. 17, when the doors of the auditorium, closed since Ash Wednesday, open again for the traditional St. Patrick's Dance.

Theme of the evening will be "Let's All Be Irish Tonight." Three orchestras have been engaged to provide music from 8:30 to midnight. Besides Joe Nolan, the Youth Club perennial favorite, the orchestras of Bill O'Brien and Eddie Blanchard will play, each alternating with the other.

Vocals will be heard from Russ Cassata of Aquinas Institute; Mickey Schultz of Nazareth Academy, Jerry Dennis, the Irish tenor, Ann Zona winner of the recent Vaughan Monroe show; and Jimmy McCauley.

Added entertainment features will be the special dances of Miss Margaret Jerjak and the trumpet solos of Bill Spitz of Charlotte High School. Shamrocks, top hats and harps will decorate the walls of the auditorium while the stage settings will be arranged before two large shamrocks.

Joseph Culhane Jr. and Miss Patricia Degnan are co-chairmen of the dance assisted by students of the various city high schools under direction of the parish priests.

Plans are also being made for the tenth anniversary of the Immaculate dancing center to be held Easter Monday April 10.
