Aquinas Student Orator Captures Legion Contest

Donald P. Gray, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Gray, 180 Anthony St. and an Aquinas Institute student won the Monroe County American Legion oratorical contest, last week.

Third place was won by Janice Edwards, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Edwards, 37 Ericson St., representing Nazareth Academy.

Also participating from Catholic schools were Patricia A. Walter representing Our Lady of Mercy High School and Kathryn Whalen, St. Agnes High School.

SECOND PRIZE winner in the contest held at Monroe High School was David Greenstone, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Greenstone, 283 Westminster Road, representing Monroe High School; also in the contest were: Robert E. Flass, Edison Technical and Industrial High School and Walter Baronas, East Rochester High School.

In his prize winning address, Donald Gray pleaded that Americans maintain the spirit which has made the Constitution "a cradle of freedom." After comparing life under American and Russian constitutions, young Gray declaimed:

"I hope you will read the Constitution, but I more fervently desire that you will become a part, a portion of that spirit which has made the Constitution a cradle of freedom and a continual guardian of our liberties."

Gray will represent Monroe County in the district oratorical contest to be held later this year in Penn Yan. Greenstone will be his alternate.

Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 went to the three winners. Thomas J. Craig Jr. was chairman of the program.
