BETWEEN A BROTHER'S LOVE. AND The Seal of the Confessional. (From the German for the JOURNAL.)

As the abbe left the confessional he was in the possession of a terrible secret which could have served as the subject for a sensational novel.

"I beg pardon for intruding, reverend sir," he said, "but I have come on a matter of great importance."

"This morning a crime was committed here in the forest. Perhaps you have heard of it?" the visitor added, when he saw that the priest started.

"Please continue," was the answer. "The victim is Major Magnier, an officer in the same regiment in which your brother, Captain de Soubeyran, serves."

"The stranger handed the priest a card upon which he read 'M. Pinaud, Crimes Commissioner.'"

"Yes, That is a dagger which my brother brought with him upon his return from a journey to Corsica."

"Very well. With this remarkable dagger, which is, perhaps, the only one of its kind in the world, Major Magnier was mortally wounded this morning."

"Probabilities have but little weight with people who do not share your faith in Captain de Soubeyran."

Geneseo. William Moore died at his home on the Curtiss farm, about two miles northeast of this village, on the 24th ult., at the age of 67.

The fair which was held at Opera hall under the auspices of St. Agnes church, commencing on the evening of the 22d ult. and ending Christmas night, was a grand success.

The fair and bazaar held last week by the members of St. Francis church was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry of Rochester have been guests at the home of R. E. Connolly.

The Bad Lands. The Bad Lands of Dakota are composed of a white clay, which, by the action of rains, has been cut into hillocks.

"The mud is as sticky as tar, and in going a few yards the wheels of a wagon become solid round cakes, and all the mules that you can hitch to it will not be able to pull it a foot further."

An Old Lady's Little Oddity. "Yes, a good many odd characters come in here in the course of twenty-four hours," said one of those bank marshals who wheel the bewildered into line and keep the stream of humanity moving before the little wired windows of the tellers.

"My brother Alfred can well afford to take no notice of such idle talk. It will share the fate of all such rumors. I thank you for your attention in giving me this information."

Conversation Suited to the Day. Mamma—My dears, you should not talk about students on Sunday. It is not right.

It Wasn't Necessary. First Sweet Girl—Did you have a mixture bought in your house? Second Sweet Girl—No, I had one ready, but forgot to put it up.
