Annual Police Ball Slates Famous Band, Talent Acts

The 17th annual Police Ball will be held Apr. 15 in the Main St. Armory.

Plans for a gala dance and entertainment show were being rounded out this week.

Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra, one of the country's leading bands, has been signed for the Ball. With him will be The Stinging Winds, vocal group featuring Kee Largo.

Also making a special appearance at the bluecoats' affair will be movie star George Murphy.

DANCING MUSIC, in addition to Flanagan's band, will be provided by Rochester's Anthony (Doc) Parnell. A special floor show, spotlighting top national talent acts will be announced later.

The dance this year is expected to outdraw last year's record throng of about 15,000.

Proceeds from the Ball go to the Police Benevolent Association Fund. That organization pays death benefits of $4,0000 to widows and children of local policemen.

Already thousands of dollars have been paid out by the Fund, according to Chief William A. Winfield.

A special Citizens' Committee is working for the success of the dance this year as in past years.

CHAIRMAN IS Carl S. Hallauer. Other officers include: James E. Gleason, treasurer; Madeline E. O'Neil, secretary.

The Main Street Armory will be decked out with special lighting effects, moonlight motif and other decorations. Seating will be provided for several thousand persons.

The Police Ball is the only public fund-raising drive made annually for the Police Benevolent Association. Payments to widows, thanks largely to success of past dances, has been raised from two to four thousand dollars.
