Tea To Aid Projects Of Hospital Groups

A Tea at the residence of Mrs. Francis J. Yawman, 2290 East Ave. on Wednesday, April 27 from 3 to 5 p.m. will be held by St. Mary's Association for friends of St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester.

MRS. FRANCIS J. YAWMAN

St. Mary's Association was organized in 1946 for the purpose of bringing together friends of the hospital once a year to hear of its progress and problems and to help support the Women's Board activities. Mrs. Yawman's home was declared, this week, by the committee as ideally fitted to the social.

The Association which has a membership of 620 directs its assistance to the various activities of the Women's Board including the Nursing School service, and supervision of the Seton Branches.

WHEN ORGANIZED the association was promoted in its beginnings by Mrs. Yawman then president of St. Mary's Women's Board. First association chairman was Miss Eleanor Gleason who headed it for four years. Vice chairman was Mrs. Raymond Leinen; secretary, Miss Mary Louise O'Reilly, and treasurer, Mrs. Rudolf Siebert.

Mrs. Gordon Reitz, Woman's Board chairman has appointed Mrs. A. Gordon Ide and Mrs. Richard T. Reddington as co-chairmen of the annual Hospital tea.

Pouring at tea tables will be Mrs. Benedict J. Duffy, Miss Eleanor Gleason, Mrs. Edward A. Hanover, Mrs. John W. Jardine, Mrs. Harold M. Jenkins and Mrs. Frederick J. Odenbach.

Others on committees are: Hostesses, Mrs. Frederick Moser, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Frank Toolan; reception, Mrs. John Menihan, chairman assisted by Mesdames Lewis Boyce, William Sullivan, William Winans and John Dale.

Arrangements, Mrs. Martin Dunsmuir, chairman assisted by Mesdames, John Gleason, Frank P. Feerick, Joseph Murray and Joseph Webber; life memberships and memorials, Mrs. Fred Odenach, chairman, Mrs. Edward A. Hanover.

Hospitality, Mrs. John T. O'Hara, chairman; Mrs. Martin P. Dunsmuir, co-chairman; Mesdames Frederick R. Clark, Francis P. Feerick, John Gleason, F. William Gregory, Edward A. Hanover, Harold M. Jenkins, Robert P. McGraw, Paul McNamara, Benedict J. Messner, Joseph M. Murray, William A. Rockwood, Leo F. Simpson, Jr., Charles Dunniston and Francis J. Yawman.

Publicity, Mrs. Louis A. Langie.

Manion-Hickey Wedding Held

Geneva — Miss Lucille J. Hickey, daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Hickey, 27 Elmwood Ave., and Robert H. Manion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Manion, Boston, Mass., were married in St. Stephen's Church, Geneva, on April 16.

The Rev. Raymond P. Nolan, pastor, performed the nuptial ceremony.

Sister of the bride, Miss Frances Hickey, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Frank Cecere and Mrs. Joseph Hickey. Mary Elizabeth Erwin and Kathy Turturro, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

Douglas McLean was best man and usher included: Charles Hickey, Frank McNerney, Joseph Hickey and Charles Hennessy.

The bride is a graduate of De Sales High School and Eastman School of Dental Hygiene. The groom is a graduate of Valley High School and attended the University of Louisville, Louisville, Ky.

Students, Parents And Study

By Mary Lennon Snyder

A year ago in late June at 5:45 a.m., I encountered in our upstairs hall my seven year old son, a figure of sartorial splendor if intention and effort could be style criteria. Dressed not in a tailor's idea of the best dressed man, but in the various pieces of his modest wardrobe, he was resplendent in brown wash slacks, of the type called "dude denim," a white shirt, bow tie, and a tan plaid jacket he had inherited from his older brother.

Mrs. Snyder

Thinking that this was somewhat of a change from the attire he usually affected for seven o'clock Mass, I inquired the reason for such a sparkling sight, and he said,

"Today is the day I pass!"

As I recovered from my surprise at his confidence, I concluded the child was justified. All year he had been faithful in his attendance at school, he had tried to be a good student, he had told me that one of his intentions as he had assisted at daily Mass during that Marian Year had been that he would "pass;" so while his confidence might be enviable, it was not unjustifiable because he came home at noon, beaming, with his "Pass Card" in his pocket.

BECAUSE comparisons and contrasts can sometimes be most odious, I do not use this little anecdote for anything but as an introduction to today's remarks. Since almost my entire adult life has been spent with young people, I can say that from long association I have come to certain conclusions regarding young people and their problems, especially educational ones.

Therefore, backed by my experience and observation, I say that now is the time for the student who is worried over passing or achieving honor marks to start reviewing and praying.

Many boys and girls seem to be able to get through, with fair to good marks, during the first eight years of their schooling; but, in educational phraseology, they seem to strike a plateau in high school.

I do not believe that they have struck a plateau in as many cases as they have reached a point where they can no longer advance by absorbing material in class. The average student in high school discovers that he must study, that is he must exert conscious efforts to assimilate certain information.

STUDENTS, AND sometimes their parents, seem to feel that there is a golden key whereby they can pass high school subjects without studying. But there is none. A student can not solve a problem in geometry, if he does not know the basic principles of that subject; a student can not translate a foreign language if he has just glanced at his first year vocabulary conjugations, and declensions.

And the parent who is so easily deceived or so hopelessly gullible as to believe that difficult subject matter can be thoroughly learned while the student has divided attenion always seems to be the one most distressed when the student comes home with failing or low marks. We used to say that a boy or girl can not study with one ear tuned to a radio broadcast; but today's youngsters try to keep one ear and one eye trained to the family TV set.

Because education in America is not only free but also compulsory, it has in some minds lost the value given it when it was available to only the few. Children can not get the most out of their schooling if the family has a "I can take it or leave it" attitude. To help the student achieve his scholastic goals a certain amount of family self discipline is needed.

IF THE HOME and the school and the student cooperate, if parents keep reminding themselves that learning is not something that is poured into the student's cranium for a few hours each day, if they remember that the home has a responsibility in helping the student to help himself, more students will be announcing some morning, next June, "This is the day I pass!"

College Juniors List Prom At Rochester Club, Apr. 29

The Rochester Club ballroom will provide the setting when Nazareth College Juniors and their escorts dance to the music of Bob Bruce's orchestra on Friday, April 29, from 9 to 1.

Co-chairmen of this strictly formal prom are: June Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Palmer, Carlisle Street, Rochester, and Kay Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gerald Griffin, Erie Court, Hornell.

Committee chairmen are: Ann Branagan, decorations; Shirley Sero, publicity; and Joan Wittman, bids.

Invitations have been extended to the nurses of the class of 1956 who are concluding their two-year affiliations.

A SHRINE TO Our Lady will occupy a prominent position in the ballroom.

At refreshment time couples will gather informally at tables set cafe-style about the room.

Members of the lay faculty will attend as chaperones.

Honduras Bans Red Youth Rally

Tegucigalpa, Honduras —(NC)—The Honduras government will not allow the communist-inspired Youth Congress to be held here, according to an announcement by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The Congress has also been banned in two other Latin American countries—Brazil and Chile.

Social Week Scheduled

Cornwall, Ont. — (NC) — The Semaine Sociale (Social Week), French section, will be held in Cornwall from September 29 to October 2, it has been announced.

Nuncio Serves Meals To Aged

Lisbon —(NC)— More than 350 old men and women were given a special luncheon at the Home of the Little Sisters of the Poor here on the feast of St. Joseph.

Archbishop Fernando Cento, Papal Nuncio to Portugal, helped to serve the food, wearing a white apron.

The nuns at the home take care of the old people and go out and beg for them. Many of the old people are more than 90 years of age.
