CYO Day Camp

Fishing Contest Winners Announced

The July winners in the Louis A. Wehle Fishing Contest have just been announced by the judges. Thirty-six ardent anglers from New York State shared in the cash awards, six of them Rochester and area residents.

James Sheels, 2 Bristol Court, Canandaigua and Arthur Gold, 56 Boardman St., Rochester, took first and second prizes in the Perch classification, and Leonard Graham, 34 High St., Shortsville, won top honors in the Rock Bass division.

Other winners included Dominic Emmi, 21 State St., Geneva, who captured first place in the Brown Trout division with a 13 lb. entry taken from Seneca Lake and LeRoy B. Jacobs, 53 Davis Ave., Hammondsport, and Richard R. Schleyer, 104 Belmont St., Rochester, with awards in the Rainbow Trout segment.

Several large fish were disqualified by the judges because they were caught on hand lines. The rules of the fifteen year old Wehle contest specifically require that entries be caught with rod and reel by residents of New York State and fish must be taken from New York State waters.

Canonization

Mexico City — (RNS) — The Mexican hierarchy has taken preliminary steps towards opening formal beatification proceedings for Bishop Leonardo Castellanos y Castellanos, former head of the Tabasco diocese who died in 1912.

Religion Dead In N. Korea

Seoul — (NC) — A North Korean Air Force fighter pilot who flew his jet plane to freedom in South Korea said he never heard religion mentioned nor saw any signs of religion in the communist-dominated north.

Lt. Chong Nak-hyon, 24 years old, escaped from his Red-ruled country by flying his MIG15 jet fighter from Wonsan to a small air strip on the east coast of Korea (Aug. 3).

He said he was lucky to be able to avoid being shot down by a MIG17 jet which followed him to the demarcation line dividing north and south Korea.

LT. CHONG is the second north Korean Air Force pilot who has flown his MIG plane to freedom in the south. In September 1953 Lt. No Kum-sok flew to Kimpo airfield and got the $100,000 award offered by the then United Nations commander in Korea, Gen. Mark Clark, for the first MIG delivered to the United Nations Command in Korea.

In all, five north Korean Air Force pilots have deserted to south Korea since 1949. Three other pilots escaped in Yak planes, one in 1949 and two in 1955.

Lt. Chong received a $20,000 award from the south Korean government and was given a commission as a first lieutenant in the south Korean Air Force.

At a press conference, Lt. Chong said in answer to a question that he never saw any evidence of religion in north Korea.

Asked what has happened to the German Benedictine monastery at Tokwon, near Wonsan, he said it is being used by the Reds as an agricultural college. Lt. Chong lives in Tokwon. He is not a Christian.

Facing a battery of movie cameras and speaking to a crowded room of reporters from news agencies, newspapers, radio networks, Lt. Chong gave some information on the present situation in north Korea.

Communist propaganda, he said, tried to tell the people of the north the April revolution in the south which overthrew the regime of President Syngman Rhee was an attempt to turn south Korea into a communist state. But radio broadcasts from the south were able to correct that.

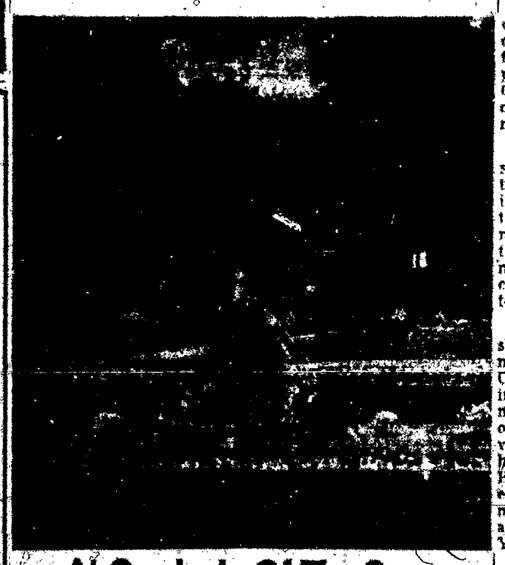
He said in his opinion Russian influence is more dominant in north Korea than Chinese. After the Liberation in 1945 the Russians occupied north Korea. In the early days of the Korean war, Russian advisors were in north Korea to help the north Korean army. However, he said he was trained as a jet fighter pilot by north Koreans. He was graduated from the Air Academy at Yenchi, Manchuria, in 1958.

Lt. Chong said he was very impressed with the freedom enjoyed by people in the south. Unlike those in the north, he said, people in the south can move freely around the country.

He expected Seoul to be a war-devastated city as Red propaganda maintains it is. Other things that impressed him were the amount and the variety of goods on sale in the stores.

Present at the press interview were two Korean boy scouts. They asked him about the condition of the children in north Korea and if they had schools. There are schools, he said, but all the children are subjected to Red indoctrination all during their school term.

Lt. Chong himself was nine years old when the Russians took over control of north Korea. Indoctrination failed to convince him fully of the advantages of living in a communist paradise.



At Our Lady Of The Cape

One of the most moving ceremonies, for pilgrims centered on this flower-decked Madonna in the middle of jewel-like St. Mary's Lake, is the Rosary Procession by Torchlight at Canada's national Shrine of Our Lady at Cap de la Madeleine, Que. Accompanied by the Rosary and the singing of hymns to Mary, this procession is highlighted by the enacting of various playlets on the life of Mary.

The still waters of the lake reflect the floodlit Madonna and the various designs outlined in vigil lights on its sloping banks, as well as the marching pilgrims with torchlights.

Pilgrims who have made this procession often travel long miles to see it again and again, and to take part in this wonderful spiritual experience under the guidance of Father Jacques Rinfret, O.M.I., Director of Pilgrimages.

At Lourdes, Mary told little Bernadette that she wanted people to make processions in her honor. Here at the Cape pilgrims can carry out her injunction each summer evening.

THE WEEKLY NOTE FROM MR. PEPSI:
They will be 96 candles on the cake this Monday when the International Red Cross celebrates their founding in Geneva in 1864.
People of all races and creeds have known the helping hand of the Red Cross; whether it was to heal a broken body, or give a cup of coffee to a tired disaster fighter.
Let's say, "Happy Birthday" . . . from the world of patrons to whom you have given help and hope over the past years.
(Incidentally, have you tried sampling "Teen-Pepsi" without sending lately?)
