Harry Wright Coaches Underdog Kings Point

Ex - Aquinas mentor, Harry Wright, is the head coach of Kings Point and is now in his third year in that capacity. The past two successful seasons were the result of Harry's formula — "good condition plus hard work plus team effort equal successful season."

The former Notre Dame All-American has carefully planned this season's attack using the "T" with variations and the campaign started in the Training Camp on August 29. The Training Camp started at 5:45 every morning with concentration on passing, punting, and the timing of plays.

After excelling in football at Charmenade High School in Mineola and at Scarborough Prep, he entered Notre Dame where he impressed the coaching staff. He played as a full-back in 1940 but the next year was switched by coach Frank Leahy to the quarterback position. That 1941 season was very successful — Notre Dame was unbeaten, Leahy was Coach of the Year, and Wright gained All-American honors.

The following year, Wright was moved to a guard spot and called the signals from the line, the first time that the "T" was worked with the caller on the line. He again made the All-American squad and played in the East-West game.

Wright began his coaching career in the Marine Corps, serving as coach of the El Toro Marines in 1945. Following his service stint, Harry took over at Aquinas and during his three years there, he rolled up a 20-2-1 record, playing top teams from all over the country.

He moved to the University of Portland at Portland, Oregon and posted a 5-2-1 record only to have Portland follow the other Catholic colleges on the West Coast in dropping the grid sport.

Wright assisted Wally Butts at the University of Georgia for seven years prior to his appointment as Kings Point's head coach.

THE KINGS POINT Mariners are ambitiously looking to the future — and schedules are being geared to this ambition. Winning only one game from 1955 through 1957, and under Wright's tutelage the Mariners won en games in the last two years. This year the Mariner record is 3-3.

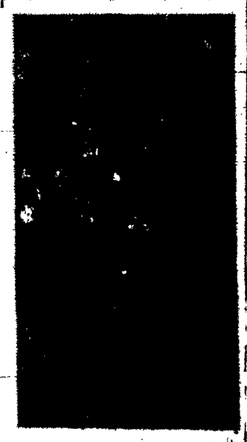
The Kings Point schedule has improved this year. In fact, commenting on the schedule, Wright said, ". . . in 7 of the 9 games we'll enter as the underdog."

He feels that his team is a young one but that it has improved with experience. "We have a junior-sophomore ball club. There are 9 juniors, 8 soph, 4 seniors, and 1 freshman on the first two teams. The team has improved . . . one thing in our favor is quantity."

The Mariner line is anchored by captain and tackle, Bob Rogaski (205). Buzz Santini, a 210 pound center and end John Allen are other linemen of note. The backfield includes powerful Charlie McDonald, Dick Schwender and soph Mike Marco, a former All-Scholastic player at St. Francis Prep in New York City.

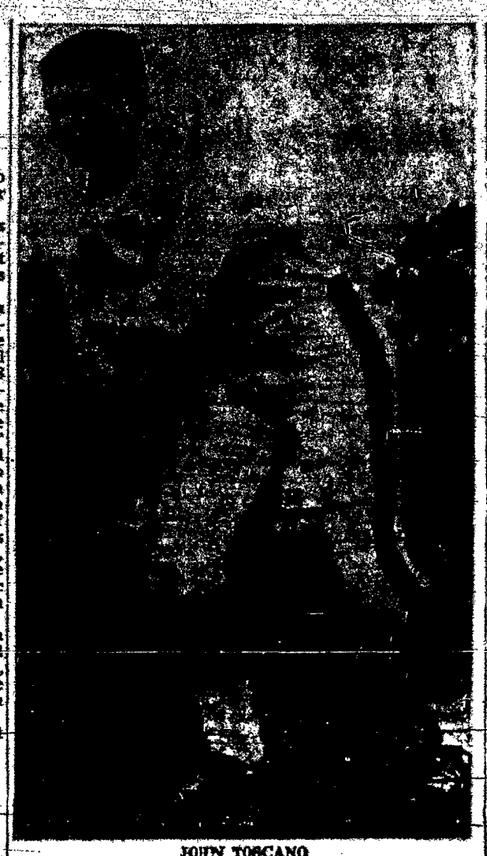
Facing the football season with inexperienced material and developing a standout team, Iowa's Coach Evashevski will be seriously considered for Coach of the Year honors.

The Hawkeyes' biggest asset is speed and quickness. The hard-mobile line is built around interior lineman Sherwyn Thorson and Charlie Lee (235). The backfield, a supposed weak-point, wields an explosive scoring punch. The wing-T offense is directed by junior Wilburn Hollis, an excellent runner. Jerry Mauren is halfback and team captain. Precocious sophs Sam Harris and "Jersey" Joe Williams have each scored winning touchdowns this year for Iowa.



HARRY WRIGHT

Jim Shreve, Syracuse coaching coach, has dispatched his charges to impressive wins over both the Army and Navy frosh clubs. Shreve seems to have found some excellent passing combinations on his club. Quarterbacks Walter Sofsian and Jack Daisley have shown accurate arms this far. Bob Luckman, son of former great, Sid Luckman, is another candidate for the signal-calling position. Two formidable targets are presented in the persons of ends — Dennis Riley, 6-1 of Kenvil, N.J. and 6-3, Marion Dutterer from Hanover, Pa. Other promising freshmen linemen include a pair of 230 pounders, Henry Huettner and John Paglio. Offensive threats are furnished by Bill Schoonover, a 210 pound fullback and halfback John Weegar from nearby Livonia.



JOHN TOSCANO

Speed, Defense Mark Success For Aquinas

By WHIT JOHNSON

Backfield speed and excellent defensive coaching are the trade-marks of this year's Aquinas football team. They've started Irish followers talking about a spotless record in 1960, although three tough games remain on the schedule.

The big ones are still ahead, specifically Pittsburgh on Nov. 13 and Schenectady on Nov. 24, but Coach Joe Repko's squad showed it could go with the best of them in its 19-7 triumph over powerful Kingston Catholic of Pennsylvania before 9,123 last Sunday.

The key to Repko's problem against the touch outs on the schedule is reserve power, second and third stringers who can take over without bringing on disaster. It's certain that the Irish squad will be combed carefully for such replacements during tonight's game when the Lilte Irish travel to the Southern Tier for a game against Hornell High School.

The manner of the Kingston victory was typical of the current Irish. Pete Casartelli, Bill Lambert and John Toscano gave Aquinas a potent ground attack. And the Irish defenses were tight enough to bottle up one of the best visiting runners ever to show here, Jim Kopicki. Linesmen Mike Riley, Jim Cinelli, George Iwasko and Joe Colalanni were particularly impressive.

Over three hundred Aquinas students will accompany the team by bus to witness tonight's contest in Hornell. Kick-off is scheduled for 8 p.m.
