Attend Conclave

Administrators of Nazareth Academy and St. Agnes High School are attending the annual convention of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Atlantic City, New Jersey, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 24 and 25.

Attending are Sister Agnes Cecilia, principal and Sister M. Annunciata, vice principal of Nazareth Academy; Sister Marie Margaret principal, and Sister Dorothy Ellen, vice principal of St. Agnes High School.

Following the theme: "The Secondary School And College Look At The Student: What Is Happening To His Values?", the program includes lectures and workshops. The Rev. Lawrence McGinley, S.J., president of Fordham University, N.Y., is presiding at the general session today (Friday).

Affiliated associations will be represented. The National Catholic Educational Association will conduct a session on "The Role of the Classroom Teacher in Good College Entrance Results."

Problems related to the theme which will be discussed are those concerning factors in schools and colleges that have improved effectiveness in educating youth in the importance of development and the application of sound values in their daily lives.

The aim, according to the planning committee, is to indicate in a positive manner steps to be taken by secondary schools and colleges to improve and make more enduring these values.

Six Awards

McQuaid High upperclassmen, though losing the debating title by the margin of three speaker points, still brought home six awards from the annual Tri-State Debate and Oratory tournament held at Jamestown High School last Saturday.

Ferdie Smith, a junior, was a first prize winner in dramatic interpretation; John Cicero, a senior, placed second in oratorical interpretation; John Henry, a senior, was second in original oratory; and senior Albert Wagner was second in extemporaneous oratory.

The McQuaid debaters took the other two plaques. Their varsity foursome of Thomas Cannon-James Wawro, Thomas Sear-John Valby finished in a three-way tie for first in won-lost standings with 7-1. On speaker points, however, the title went to Canisius High of Buffalo. In the "B" division, the teams of Wendell Bowerman-Brian Callahan and Joseph Mancini-Gerald West took third place honors.

Sixteen schools from New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio participated in the tournament.

Clinic Host

McQuaid Jesuit High School and its basketball coach, George Monagan, will play host this Saturday (Nov. 25) at 10 a.m. to a clinic for CYO grammar school teams from the Rochester area.

Monagan will use his McQuaid varsity squad to demonstrate fundamentals of individual and team play, and Tom Emanuel, president of the Rochester Basketball Officials Assn., will also use the McQuaid players in his illustrations of rules and violations.

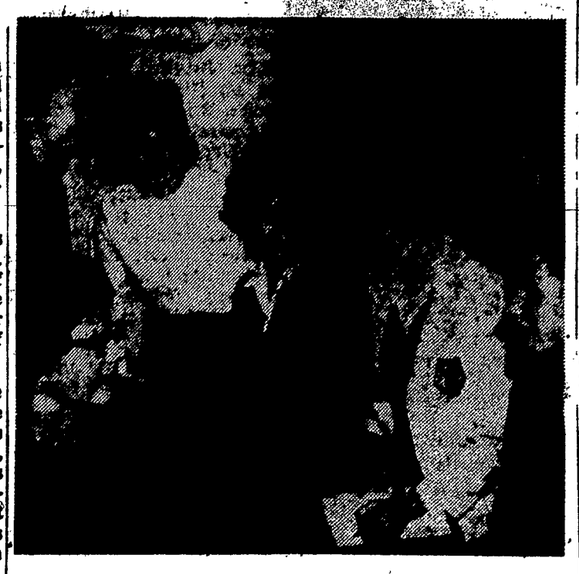
The clinic, first of its kind at McQuaid, was arranged in cooperation with Howie Meath, director of the CYO Grammar School league.

Record Hop

McQuaid Jesuit High's student council will sponsor the year's first record hop on Friday, Nov. 24, at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Complimentary records will be given to the first 200 persons at the dance, proceeds of which are expected to defray the cost of the student-construted football scoreboard.

Heading the McQuaid council this year are Joe Mancini (pres.), Dave Larimer (vice-pres.), and Tony Zollo (sec'y.).



NAZARETH ACADEMY alumnae explain office procedure to members of the Future Secretaries Club. They are (seated) Kathleen Winkler, Jane Shufelt '62, Kathleen Hogan '62, Joyce Rowland; (standing) Sharon Klingler and Kathleen Michatek.

Book Fair

If past experience and present enthusiasm can be relied upon, over 4,000 paperback books will be purchased by St. Agnes High School students at their annual Book Fair to be held this coming week, Nov. 27 to Dec. 1.

Encouraged by the English teachers and placed as it is during the Christmas shopping season, the Fair helps the girls with both their "required reading" and their gift lists. The paperback books, ranging from Agatha Christie to Shakespeare, have been carefully selected by members of the English department.

Art Lecture

Sister Mary John, head of the Art Department at St. Agnes High School, gave an illustrated lecture to the school's 280 World Histroy students on "The Art of the Renaissance."

Using slides lent by the Nazareth College Art Department, Sister discussed the architecture, sculpture and painting of Europe during the 15th and 16th centuries as an enriching supplement to the students regular course for this period.

Also attending the lecture were the seniors who take the regular History of Art Course, and those in the Advanced History.

Homeroom Party

According to Father John Le Veque, chaplain at St. Agnes High, six homerooms at the school were given a party for their 100 per cent cooperation in the recent Fall Festival held at St. Agnes under Father's direction.

The three freshman, one sophmore, and one senior rooms celebrated during their lunch hours with hamburgers, cokes, potato chips, candy and ice cream; games and singing.

Secretaries Club

"Inexperience will not hinder graduates," stated Sharon Klingler, at the November meeting of the Future Secretaries Club of Nazareth Academy. Kathleen Michatek, Joyce Rowland, and Kathleen Winkler all agreed.

The four girls, alumnae of the class of 1960, were guests at this session and stressed to all present that the business training provided at Nazareth was sufficient to obtain good positions without additional education.

Sharon's advice was to keep the office business private. She received the training for her job as correspondent from her company, and has worked in foreign correspondence, receiving some letters in foreign languages. When she started her job, Sharon went around to various departments and now knows the positions of those she works with as well as her own duties. "Keep a modified style in your choice of clothing for the office," was another of Sharon's tips.

A medical secretary, Kathleen Winkler is a girl who has learned to do things for herself rather than waiting for others to do them first. Kathleen learned the medical terms required in her postion by looking them up and has also learned the operation of several business machines such as the I.B.M. Her advice was, "If you miss something during dictation, tactfully ask your employer for the information before you type the letter."

Kathleen Michatek stated that her employer expects typing perfection. Kathleen says that frequent contacts with other people make an individual think faster. Since entering the business world, she has become more at ease and has developed the skill of quick thing.

Joyce Rowland, who serves as secretary to each of ten salesmen, is satisfied with her position and enjoys the type of business work she has made her career. Joyce thinks that the F.S.C. members service as secretaries to the Nazareth faculty is a wonderful way to develop responsibility. "It is not the school from which a girl graduates, but the individual herself who determines the amount and quality of her work," advised Joyce.

Each graduate stressed the importance of taking advantage of the education provided at Nazareth for "future secretaries."
