That it was high time that the mask was stripped from Godless Communism propaganda which calls itself "intellectual progress, liberalism or what you will," was declared by Bishop Kearney from WHAM in first of a radio series. The Bishop's address "The Primal Struggle," launched the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Lenten program.

A warning to citizens of Rochester, particularly in the downtown business circles against a petition going the rounds for signatures to ask that the Neutrality Act be repealed or modified was sounded by James E. Cuff, past grand knight of Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus and a prominent attorney.

Play Awards

Six seniors from McQuaid Jesuit High walked off with the school trophy and two individual awards at the Second Annual Inter-Jesuit One Act Play Festival held last Saturday at Brooklyn Preparatory School.

Under the direction of Mr. Edward Zogby, S.J., the McQuaid entry, Aria da Capo by Edna St. Vincent Millay, a modern fantasy on man's inability to understand his fellow man, captured the unanimous vote of the judges for the Best Play trophy. The other Jesuit schools in the competition were Xavier of New York, Regis of New York, and Brooklyn Prep, which won the festival last year.

The cast of five was headed by Dave Zaumeyer, who won the Best Actor award. His fellow actors were Dean McMullen, Tom Fuerst, Richard Mulroy, and Bob Masucci. The sixth senior, Tom Kipp, received a trophy for his clever handling of staging for the play. Kipp executed sets designed by McMullen, who also arranged for the costuming.

Appropriately enough, host school Brooklyn Prep has for its head master Rev. John Kelly, S.J., who was principal at McQuaid until 1960. A telegram from Father Kelly was received by McQuaid rector Rev. Robert F. Grewen, S.J., congratulating him on the school's victory in the festival.

Finalist Honors

On Saturday, March 2, two students of De Sales High School, Geneva, won finalist honors and one, honorable mention, for their work exhibited at the sub-regional science fair held at Victor Central School. Joseph Hart and Roger Preston were winners in the Chemistry Division with their study of the D.N.A. molecule; Vincent Morgante in the Biology Division who worked on Deuterium Oxide and Its Effects on Living Organisms. These students will now compete in the Brockport Science Congress for the Central Western Zone of New York State on March 30. Honorable Mention was awarded to David Carnevale for work on a Bio-cell.

De Sales held its annual science fair at the school on February 21, where from 115 exhibits in the chemistry, biology and general science departments, 8 were chosen to enter the Victor Fair. Here they competed with pupils, all winners in their own school, from Ontario, Seneca and Yates counties.

Debaters Win

The Third Annual Debate and Forensic Tournament at Le Moyne College in Syracuse was the scene of this weekend's forensic activities for the Aquinas debaters and orators. The tournament was sponsored by the Chaumonot Debate Forum of Le Moyne.

On Friday evening, March 1, the oratorical events ranged over three rounds. Aquinas was represented by four seniors, James Kehoe, in Oratorical Interpretation; Thomas Mitrano, in Original Oratory, and John Flavin and Michael Beyma in Extemporaneous Oratory.

Flavin placed fourth in Extemporaneous and Mitrano placed first in this final round, the latter winning the Le Moyne College Trophy in Original Oratory. His winning speech concerned the recent Supreme Court ruling on the New York State Regents' prayer.

On Saturday, March 2, these four seniors combined into two teams for the debating events. Mitrano and Flavin represented the affirmative side of the proposition that the United States should promote a common market in the Western Hemisphere. Kehoe and Beyma took the negative side of this proposition.

This Aquinas team finished three rounds of debating with a record of five wins and one loss giving them a tie with five other schools for second place. The second negative speaker for Aquinas, James Kehoe, who is also the president of the Aquinas Society of Forensic Arts, was selected by the judges as the best negative speaker of the tournament. He received the Chaumonot Debate Forum Trophy for his outstanding speaker abilities.

Aquinas was in competition in oratory and debate with 28 secondary schools from the state of New York. The tournament was won by Convent High School of Syracuse which recorded a record of six wins and no losses.

On Saturday, March 2, the semi-experienced division of the club represented Aquinas in the ninth session of the Rochester Area Debate League held at Aquinas Institute. Two juniors, James Austin and Vladimir Rudy representing the negative side and two sophomores, James Hendrick and Paul Mac Auley representing the affirmative side finished with a three win, one loss record to keep Aquinas in first place in the league.

In the novice division with a two win, two loss record were sophomores Michael Seitzinger and James Chiltery, freshmen Michael Campanella and George Kemis.

The League will hold its next session at McQuaid Jesuit High School Saturday, March 9, according to the chairman, Mr. Norman Kolb, C.S.B., who is also assistant moderator of debate at Aquinas.

The final session of the League will be held at Aquinas Institute on Saturday morning March 16, and trophies and awards will be made to the three top schools in each division.

History Pageant

A pageant of our country's history will parade before St. Agnes High School girls on Monday, March 12, when nearly sixty students, including members of the Timon Club, (SA's history club) and students from three other departments, present an assembly commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's issuing the Emancipation Proclamation.

In the program, our country's history is divided into six periods, such as "The Aristocratic Period," beginning in 1789, and "The Frontier Period" referring to the time of national expansion, presided over by "Spirits of the White House" who will describe each of their eras. The first ladies of the land, women who represented courage, fidelity to husband and family, and loyalty to ideals of God and country, will then fill in details of America's past.

Co-ordinating the assembly, in which the Glee Club will provide music and the Departments of Art and Business the programs, is Sister M. Edwardine, Timon Club moderator. She will be assisted by Mary Sue Hoffman, senior, president of the Timon Club.

"The Stagers" are doing the back-stage work.

Art Winners

In the recent Scholastic Art Exhibition for High Schools at Sibley, Lindsay, and Curr Co., is eight of the fifteen entries allowed to Saint Agnes High School received awards, two of which will be sent to New York City for final judging.

Elizabeth Lipinski and Beverly Meissner both received blue ribbons and gold keys for their lettering in the commercial design division, thus qualifying them as finalists for the New York competition. Eugena DiFabio, awarded a gold key for her plate in mixed media, was a second-time winner, as she had been awarded the finalist's gold key last year.

Two honorable mentions went to Joan Russer, and one each to Kathleen Gray, Mary Broman, and Mary Myers.

The girls' teacher at St. Agnes is Sister Mary John.

'My First Job'

"My first job" will be the topic of a panel discussion March 21 for the Future Secretaries Club of Nazareth Academy by four working alumnae, former members of the club. Future secretaries President Ruth Woodhall, assisted by Vice-president Sharon Reddy, will lead the discussion.

Panel members Georgia Beluke, Janet Doyle, Doralee Fox, and Margaret Mary Steppenbeck will use their experience to answer questions on business machines used, speed of dictation, values of having been a secretary to a faculty member during school years, subjects which help most in office duties, job interviews, and the satisfaction found in their work.

Members of the Junior Future Secretaries Club will also attend this career program.

Seaway Meet

The Seaway Unit of the Catholic Business Education Association will meet for its annual conference at Madonna High School, 6431 Girard Avenue, Niagara Falls, New York Saturday, March 9, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Business teachers from high schools and colleges will attend two general sessions: The European Market, the Rev. Joseph P. Cantillon, S.J., Canisius College, speaker; and Latin American Trade, Dr. Enrique Miyares, D'Youville College, speaker.

Meetings for high school teachers will feature a Diamond Jubilee Workshop conducted by Miss Audrey Schmidt, Gregg Publishing Company. College teachers will hear a Round-table discussion of Problems Common to College People with the Very Rev. Msgr. J. A. Healy, D'Youville College, as moderator.

A noonday Mass will be offered in the auditorium followed by luncheon in the school cafeteria. The program will close with Benediction.

Business supplies and equipment will be on display during the day.

Josephine Koch, Mother Of Nun

Requiem Offered

A Requiem Mass was offered for Mrs. Josephine Koch in St. Thomas More Church Saturday, March 2.

MRS. KOCH, widow of Frank J. Koch, a former director of the Department of Public Welfare, is survived by two daughters, Sister M. Clementia, a Sister of St. Joseph on the faculty of Nazareth Academy; and Mrs. Frederick D. Hughes of 1452 Clover Street; three sisters, Mrs. Katherine Bucher of Toronto, Mrs. Margaret Kaiser and Miss Louise Clemens of Detroit, Michigan; three grandchildren, Frederick, Judith and Richard Hughes; and several nieces and nephews.

For many years Mrs. Koch was active in church and civic organizations. She had been a member of the Daughters of Mary and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Knights of St. John of St. Michael's Church, a past supreme officer of the Knights of St. John, and received recognition at the national convention of the Knights in 1958. She was also past president of the Lady Elks of the Rochester B.P.O.E. and an active member of the Lockhaven Club.

Funeral Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Francis Pegnam. In the sanctuary were the Rev. Charles Connell, the Rev. John Dillon, and the Rev. Edwin Metzger.
