Reception Set

Trumansburg — A reception honoring Father Bernard C. Hanna, pastor of St. James the Apostle Church, Trumansburg, on the occasion of his 35th anniversary to the priesthood will be held Sunday, Feb. 14 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the church hall.

FATHER JOSEPH F. HOGAN and parish volunteers at St. Vincent's, Corning.

Parish Volunteers Feted At St. Vincent's, Corning

Corning—About 140 parishioners of St. Vincent de Paul Church, Corning, were dinner guests of their pastor, Rev. Joseph F. Hogan, on Sunday, Jan. 31, in appreciation of their volunteer services to the church and school during the past year.

Included in the invitation list were the trustees, auditors, ushers, choir members, social committeemen, catechists, school aides, church laundresses, collection tellers, scout leaders, and basketball coach.

The priests and Sisters of the parish joined Father Hogan in his tribute to the volunteers.

Remarking on the large number of workers and the great variety of functions represented, he pointed out that "it is only when we see all the workers assembled together, that we realize how much unselfish work is required to keep the parish and its school in operation. I am sure that each person here is encouraged at seeing how many others are equally generous with their time and talents. On this occasion, we wish to thank each member of each group, in the name of all the parishioners."

The dinner, held in the school hall, was prepared and served by a committee of Catholic Action Society members.

A program feature was the presentation of comic awards to selected representatives of the various groups of workers. A quartet of choir members sang several popular selections.

Needs of Teenagers Topic At Steuben Deanery Meet

Hornell—Five needs common to teenagers were outlined by the Rev. Walter F. Cushing, associate director of the Family Life Bureau of the Diocese of Rochester, Monday night for members of the Steuben Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women.

THE MEETING, attended by representatives from Hornell, Bath, Wayland, and other points in the county, was held at St. Pius Parish Hall in Cohocton. Members of St. Pius Rosary and Altar Society sponsored the quarterly meeting of the deanery.

Father Cushing, who also is chaplain of St. Agnes High School, Rochester, said that while teenagers "long for adult life, they lack the knowledge and ability to direct themselves."

Parents must furnish that direction by meeting their five basic needs—love; opportunities for constructive accomplishment; reasonable discipline which fosters a respect for authority; recognition of individual personality and a certain amount of freedom, Father Cushing pointed out.

"Parents must be approachable. They must never be so busy that they are unable to fulfill their primary obligation of guidance, Father Cushing said.

Teenagers must find themselves, he continued, and may become confused in the complexity of the task. He advised parents to look for the good in their youngsters and to instill confidence rather than taking an over-critical attitude.

With this research for maturity, teenagers need to feel what they are doing is worthwhile and important. If young people are given constructive tasks to accomplish and are expected to do those tasks well, they will have less incentive and time for destructive actions, the priest continued.

While teenagers should be permitted a certain amount of freedom, they also must learn respect for authority, Father Cushing emphasized. They not only need their parents to set limits for them—they actually appreciate authority.

"DISCIPLINE SHOULD be reasonable and it should be consistent. When you say something, mean it," Father Cushing told the parents.

"Parenthood is a marvelous and wonderful privilege. It is worth your most generous efforts because your good works will live on for eternity," he concluded.

Father Cushing was presented to the group by the Rev. John L. Cloonan, chaplain of St. James Mercy Hospital, spiritual director of the Steuben deanery.

His talk was prefaced by a business session conducted by Mrs. Ernest Miller of Bath, deanery president.

Miss Josephine FitzGerald of Hornell, national president of the NCCW's foreign relief committee, suggested several projects which might benefit from the members' Lenten self-denial practises for charity. Among them are the Madonna Plan to aid young mothers in destitute areas; the Feed-A-Family program and Operation Hong Kong which aids refugees from communist China to support themselves through sale of their handwork in this country.

Mrs. Charles Fairbrother, president of St. Pius Rosary and Altar Society, headed the committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Owego Retiree Feted At Dinner

Owego—Miss Helen A. Brosnan, recently retired as clerk of the Tioga county Board of Elections, was honored at a retirement dinner on Feb. 1 in Owego. The dinner, attended by over 100 friends and associates, was held at the V.F.W. hall.

Rev. William J. O'Brien, Miss Brosnan's pastor at St. Patrick's church gave the invocation and benediction. Toastmaster's role was handled by Attorney William Donnelly of Waverly, former Tioga county Democratic committee chairman. Tributes to Miss Brosnan were paid by many county, town and village officials, including a letter of congratulations from Congressman Howard W. Robinson.

Miss Brosnan retired from her post on Dec. 31, 1964 after serving on the Board since April 1, 1953.

A highlight of the program was the presentation to the retiree of a miniature ballot box, filled with currency. She also was presented with flowers and a scroll containing the names of all her dinner guests. Her sisters, the Misses Mary and Cecilia Brosnan were seated at the speakers' table.

Book Week Observance Set

Catholic Book Week will be observed by the St. Christopher Library, Elmira, from Feb. 21-27. Ever since its inception, 25 years ago, Catholic Book Week has been designed to "focus attention on good books—not only Catholic books but all good books."

Again this year St. Christopher's Library will sponsor Catholic Book Week in union with Catholic Library Week and Catholic Press Month as do all the National Catholic Organizations in this country.

The Library Association and the Catholic Daughters of America, Court St. Rita, No. 137, will co-sponsor a Book Tea on Sunday, Feb. 21 in the Library rooms, corner of E. Church and State Sts. upstairs, from 3-5 p.m. The public is welcome.

25 Years Ago

(From files of Catholic Courier, Feb. 15, 1940)

Mass celebrated by Bishop Kearney, president of the Catholic Courier in Columbus Civic Center chapel and attended by the diocesan newspaper staff officially opened the Fifth Annual Catholic Press Crusade in the diocese.

Figures compiled by the Credit Union Committee of Rochester branch, Catholic Central Verein showed that in the past year, the four credit unions in Rochester had granted loans to members totalling $44,300.

Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, distinguished Dominican Father was announced as principal speaker for the dinner opening the Golden Jubilee Campaign for the Catholic University of America at Hotel Seneca.
