21 Airs New Series For Urban School Kids

Where do you get thoughtful city dwellers? You begin with today's children . . . tomorrow's city-shapers.

The belief that thoughtful children grow into thoughful adults gave birth to a five-week series, "If You Live In A City, Where Do You Live" for educational television.

The series for grades four through six is now broadcast for classroom use in the Rochester area by WXXI (Channel 21). In addition to airings at 10 a.m. and noon Tuesdays and at 1 p.m. Thursdays for the schools, the series is also being broadcast at 7 p.m. Fridays so parents may see it.

A sixth program, made possible by a grant from Xerox Corporation, provides orientation for teachers planning to use the series.

Rochester is one of five cities — including Honolulu, Sacramento, Saginaw and Louisville — where results of the series will be evaluated by a survey of teachers.

Unlike many classroom programs that follow a teacher-and-blackboard format, "If You Live in a City . . ." is produced in documentary style.

The series is designed to help young viewers to develop basic skills of observing, describing, evaluating, proposing and predicting.

Teachers using the series are provided with sets of activity cards aimed to direct the children into their own neighborhood — to explore, observe, experience and think about its future.
