State's Bishops, Priest Councils Meet in New York

New York [RNS] — The executive director of the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Committee for Priestly Life and Ministry said here that bishops or priests who fall back on exaggerated authority should only expect apathy and a spirit of dependency from their people.

He said the integration of the concept of collegiality calls for new kinds of knowledge and that sharing responsibility, problem solving and decision-making are skills to be learned.

Msgr. Colin MacDonald, who coordinates the priestly life and ministry committee that includes 10 bishops and 13 priests, said that at a recent meeting the committee emphasized the need for "ongoing programs of education for priests and bishops."

The Manchester, N.H., priest addressed New York State's Catholic bishops and the presidents and delegates of Priests' Councils (PCNY) in the eight dioceses, at a La Guardia airport meeting. He told them that "good will is not enough." He said the leadership role of the priest and the bishop makes him the "center of unity and support" for the people.

Declaring that these leadership roles in parish councils and in diocesan pastoral councils are crucial, he said priests and bishops must learn to use authority in the "collegaial context." He added that centers for pastoral study have been set up in Rome and in several parts of the U.S. for this purpose.

Msgr. MacDonald also suggested that priest-leaders and bishops "pray with members of councils," because the primary purpose of the parish or diocesan council is the "spiritual welfare of the people."

CHRISTMAS IN JULY

Newark — Christmas in July? It is at St. Michael's. Many men and women of the parish are already busy with the Christmas Bazaar to be held Dec. 7 in the school auditorium. Fourteen committees have been formed to make arrangements for baked goods, needlework, ceramics, and such. Men are being recruited for their woodworking and cooking talents. Those not handy with needle or hammer can help with tickets or as workers. Anyone with questions or contributions can call one of the three general chairman: Gloria DeStaffan, 331-3406; Kay Brown, 331-6657; Ada MacBride, 331-7627.

The cost of energy is going through the roof.

9 out of 10 homes in this area don't have enough insulation.

So 9 out of 10 homeowners are paying for heat that's escaping through the roof.

Don't hesitate. Insulate.

RG&E and the Public Service Commission recommend a minimum 6" of fiberglass insulation or equivalent in your attic and 3½" in walls.

The contractors listed below can insulate your home so you won't waste heat next winter. And you'll stay cozy in the bargain.

But if you'd like to do-it-yourself, we have the first tool you'll need. It's our new illustrated booklet, showing you how to install ceiling insulation.

Send the coupon for your free copy. Or stop at one of our offices.

Because if you're under-insulated, you're over-spending for fuel.
