He was born in Albany in 1821, coming with his parents to Monroe County when about five years of age. He came to this city, and for about ten years was in the employ of James Cochran on East Main street. In 1854 he married Laura E. Tone, of this city.

Two brothers, Michael, of Greece, and John, of this city, survive him, together with one sister, Mrs. Wm. Burke, of Shelbourne, Nev. His immediate surviving family consists of five sons, James T. Butler, a sister, Mrs. James Dougherty, and one brother, William F. Butler, of this city. The funeral took place from the residence of the sister of the deceased, 261 Scio St., Friday morning, and from Corpus Christi church.

Confirmation at the French Church.

At the Church of Our Lady of Victory last Sunday our Rt. Rev. Bishop administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to a class of 27 boys and 37 girls.

The girls were prettily dressed in white, and as the class marched from the school house to the church and down the aisles both boys and girls made a remarkably pleasing appearance. The church was well-filled with members of the congregation and others, who came to witness the edifying spectacle. The remarks of the Rt. Rev. Bishop were listened to with close attention.

Each person confirmed was presented a handsome souvenir of Confirmation, containing all the names of those confirmed.

COOK'S OPERA HOUSE.

Chas. L. Davis who begins an engagement at the Cook Opera House Monday evening next for three nights and Wednesday matinee in his play "Alvin Joslin," which he has played from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, is truly a wonderful manager. By his own endeavors, perseverance and strict application to business, he has won for himself fame and fortune, and reached the highest rung in the ladder of dramatic fame, and his management of the "Alvin Joslin" Comedy company stands as one of the landmarks of success in the theatrical firmament. He wrote his own plays, designed his entire printing and directs his own rehearsals, and it is the only case on record in the theatrical business that a star has accomplished all this with success, as actors usually make bad managers and vice versa.

ACADEMY.

The City Club Spectacular Farce Comedy Company. This season its membership comprises a number of high-class variety artists. There are rattling lively choruses by the whole company, bright and catchy solos and duets, some graceful dancing and a great deal of entertaining and witty dialogues, fully up to the times in brightness and freshness. Next follows the olio portion of the performance. Among the many star performers may be mentioned Lew Hawn, a great favorite. Fannie Everett, Charles Belmont, an everyday Irishman and a bright entertainer. Phyllis Allen, a superior vocalist. Bryant and Wells, a very clever sketch team. Prof. Belmont, with his six performing sky terriers; and the Emmetts a popular German sketch team.

MUSEUM THEATRE.

Next week, will be a treat for amusement lovers, for the program is headed by the famous "American Mac's Combination." It is hardly necessary to go into details about these two favorite Irish comedians. They are very funny, and their many friends in this city will be pleased to hear of their return. The Three Judges in their acrobatic novelty is the next on the program. Frank Appel, the tight rope dancer. T. J. Helron is a one legged individual. Mlle. Alberti known as the "Queen of the Slack Wire." Yankee Moore. Ida Howell a charming vocalist.

In the Museum will be seen Master Eddy Abbott, the celebrated boy magician. He is assisted by H. J. Abbott, one of the best delineators of negro character. William McKay, the young mesmerist, will probably be the centre of attraction in the Museum next week. Giovanni with his troop of trained birds will furnish a goodly share of the amusement to both old and young. Today is children's day, and five cents will admit every child holding a school children's ticket, together with a reserved seat in the theatre free.

A Call From the People.

In renominating Hon. Donald McNaughton for Congressman the Democratic Convention gave expression to the hope and preference of every Democrat in the Monroe District. Furthermore, its action met the cordial approval of independent voters and insured the co-operation with the Democracy, on the Congressional issue.

Such a nomination is an honor to any political party. It seems a superfluous task to undertake to explain why Donald McNaughton is strong with all classes in this community, and why his candidacy for office always makes debatable this pronounced Republican County. Business men believe in him, because he is wise and self-reliant; the working men believe in him, because he is, and always has been, their sympathetic and helpful friend; citizens in general, regardless of party, believe in him, because he has been a true and tried public servant, invariably loyal to the people and to his duty. His sober common sense, his seasoned habits of industry, and his devotion to the interests of Monroe County, manifested in all places and on all occasions, are qualities eminently desirable in our Representative in Congress. He is the man for the place.

The support of ex-Senator McNaughton will not be confined to the Democratic ranks. The name of the Republicans who will gladly vote for him is legion. On all sides their declarations of preference for the Democratic candidate are heard.

He was reluctant to lay down, even for a time, his duties as Chief Executive officer of New York World's Fair Commission, to which he has devoted his energies for months past, with splendid results.

HON. DONALD MCNAUGHTON.

A Popular Candidate.

In selecting Donald McNaughton as their candidate for Congress in the Thirty-first District the Democrats have named a man whose strength with the voters is not a matter of speculation. Five years ago this fall he was nominated for State Senator, the district then comprising the Counties of Monroe and Orleans. Every effort was made to defeat him, but he was elected by a majority of over 400 although the district gave more than 3,000 majority for the Republican State ticket. His opponent was ex-Sheriff John W. Hannan. Two years later he again received a unanimous nomination and repeated his previous triumph. He that year received a plurality of 371 over William A. Sutherland. His popularity with a large element in the Republican party is apparent from the fact that the district that year gave nearly 4,000 majority for the Republican State ticket. The Monroe Senator at once took high rank as a legislator and was recognized as one of the strongest men on the Democratic side. He served on several of the most important committees and looked carefully after all legislation affecting his constituency as well as the State at large. Some of his best work was performed as a member of the New York Aqueduct Investigating Committee. Such close attention did Mr. McNaughton give to his legislative duties that his private and professional interests necessarily suffered, and when, at the expiration of his second term, a unanimous renomination was urged upon him, he felt compelled to decline it in order that he might devote time to his business affairs. He now holds the position of Chief Executive Officer of New York's Board of Managers for the World's Fair, having been appointed several months ago by Gov. Flower.

The career of Donald McNaughton has been sketched so often and his life and public services are subjects so familiar to the people of Monroe County that extended mention of them at this time is unnecessary. He is of Scotch ancestry and was born in the Town of Wheatland, this country, in 1830. He enjoyed the advantages of a common school education and while clerking in a store studied law and was admitted to the bar. It would appear that his popularity in his home village dated from the day when the people of Munford discovered that Donald McNaughton was determined to make his way in the world. They presented him a law library at the beginning of his career as an attorney. For eight years he represented the Town of Wheatland in the Board of Supervisors and was chosen Chairman of that body when the Board was Republican, a compliment never bestowed on any other Democrat in the county. Mr. McNaughton has occupied many positions of trust with corporations. As a lawyer he is regarded as a safe adviser and has always enjoyed a fair clientele. He is President of the Scottish Society, a Trustee of the Reynolds Library and Secretary of the Wheatland Historical Society.

Mr. McNaughton may be regarded as an ideal legislator. On the floor of the Senate he did not take up much time with speeches but when necessary stated his views on pending questions with clearness and force and was always listened to with attention. He was popular with his colleagues and by his tact and courtesy was able to get many favors from his political opponents.
