It suggests that the teachers in our Catholic schools, besides the diploma from diocesan examining board, have also a certif icate from the public school board. As to this, it is only necessary to say that, if the teachers of our Catholic schools bring with them a certificate from the public school examiners, no objection will be made to it; it will receive due honor. But. if they do not bring such they should be received just as cheerfully, provided they are deemed competent by the diocesan school board. We
