TOLD KATIE SHE COULD GO.

The Last Words Spoken by the Late Bishop Brooks.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—The people here and, in fact, all over the country, have hardly recovered from the shock and surprise caused by the announcement of the death of Bishop Phillips Brooks, who passed away so suddenly and unexpectedly yesterday.

The friends were not prepared for the end, and consequently it has cast a shadow of gloom over Boston, where none knew but to honor and respect him. Many messages of condolence have been received, several having come from across the water.

Shortly before midnight Sunday night, while the doctors were both in attendance at the bishop's bedside, the patient's mind began to wander although he was still conscious. Looking up at his faithful and beloved servant the bishop said: "Katie, you can go. I shall not need you any more. I am going home."

These were the last words of the great Episcopal divine, the man who has made the diocese second only in prominence in this country. The funeral arrangements have not yet been decided upon. It is thought, however, that it will take place Thursday.

In spite of this, however, the vessel covered one mile at the rate of fifteen knots an hour, three above the contract with 224 revolutions.
