THE SPRING BONNET.

WHY IT USUALLY BLOSSOMS FIRST ON EASTER SUNDAY.Olive Harper Writes of the Origin and Evolution of the Easter Bonnet—Some Samples of the Hats Worn by Our Grandmothers.[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

Probably nine persons out of ten, if asked how the habit of appearing in new garments, and particularly bonnets, on Easter Sunday originated, would speak of it as one evolved from a desire to commemorate in a measure the rising of our Lord, and to be clothed outwardly anew as a symbol of refreshed and renewed faith and a sign of rejoicing. But it is not due to that, though probably that is the sentiment actuating the fair of today when they don their pretty new clothes, and, above all, their Easter bon-nets.

To say Easter bonnet brings to the mind the undefined sense of early spring, blue skies, the scent of lilacs, and out of this dim and misty haze materializes the image of a lovely girl with tender eyes heavy with reverent tears, standing mute and sweet in church, with a vision of beauty in the form of a mixture of lace and flowers and glistening ribbon overshadowing her brow.

The beginning of the Easter bonnet pure and simple is lost, for the Christian church took its rise in countries where women do not and never did wear bon-nets. When after many centuries women began to wear a settled head covering, no particular importance was attached to Easter Sunday as requiring such an emblem, and it never has obtained in any country but France, England and America, and of late years a very little in Italy. This, however, has been on account of the example foreign visitors have set.

In almost all of the foreign countries women wear fewer clothes than they wear here, and the habit has generally been to renew their wardrobes in the spring, and as settled wear was never and a new petticoat bought the other day—both very pretty." In another place he speaks of his own new suit for Easter but never mentions bonnets. But women having been women from the beginning, it is certain that with the new dresses were new bonnets.

The fashion of Easter bonnets is more generally observed in this country than any other and in large cities more than in smaller places; still it has come to be a habit that all follow who can, and everywhere, if the weather is fine, new bonnets are seen.

The decorations are put up in the churches at Christmas and left till Easter, and then everything symbolizes the return of spring as well as the resurrection, and if any sacrifice is made in the offering of a new suit of spring garments and a beautiful and becoming Easter bonnet the fair wearer will endure it and make no sign. From a bunch of flowers, through many phases, the Easter bonnet has passed until now it is accepted as a necessary part of Easter, a thing of beauty and joy forever to women.

EASTER MARBLES.

German children have a game of marbles played only at Easter. The Easter eggs are cut off squarely, perhaps one-third of the distance from the broad end. They are then set up, say three or four feet from the wall and in triangular positions. Three or four may be set at once. Sides are chosen if there are more than two players. Then the children roll their marbles with a deft thud against the wall or baseboard. If in the rebound a marble touches one of the eggs, it becomes the property of the side to which the marble belongs. Then the opposite side must "set up," and the game is only won when all the eggs are captured by one side. Candy animals and cake people who are able to stand alone are often victims in this war of marbles.

RIVALS IN BUSINESS.

On the street on Easter morning two boys met. There was no need of a verbal challenge. No. 1 held his champion egg, a poem of sky blue and crimson, firmly. No. 2 waved back his answer with his red, white and blue unbreakable.

Crack!
The small ends of the gay eggs clicked together. How much depended on the outcome.

But no crunch of weaker egg followed.
The two gladiators eyed one another.

"What's yours?"
"Chiney. What's yours?"
"Boxwood."

And they parted, for though rivalry is the life of commerce there is such a thing as ruinous competition.

THE MEASURE OF SUCCESS.

Princess Victoria is the most thoroughly English of all the children of Empress Frederick, both as regard tastes and appearance.

The Prince of Wales, who is rarely ungloved when awake, has all his gloves made by a Brussels house, which keeps models of both his hands.

That black sheep of the royal house of Bourbon, Prince Pascal, count de Bari, was at one time a suitor for the hand of Mrs. Mackay's daughter.

So great is the popularity of Duke Carl Theodore of Bavaria, who practices as a physician, that last year he attended over 5,000 patients and performed 200 operations for diseases of the eye.

A peculiar feature of the madness of the ill fated ex-Empress Carlotta of Mexico is that she requires a fresh pair of pearl gray, 2-button kid gloves on rising every morning throughout the year.

Queen Victoria's pink pearls, Empress Frederick's seven rows of pure white pearls and Grand Duchess Marie of Russia's august necklace of the same gems rank among the most valuable jewels in Europe.

The Empress Frederick of Germany has succeeded in bringing about a reconciliation between Emperor William and the Duchess of Sparta, the emperor's favorite sister. The estrangement was because of a religious dispute.

FLOWER AND TREE.

The roots of cannabis should be taken up after the tops have been killed by frost.

The largest cork oak tree of California is growing at Campo Seco, Calaveras county, and measures 7 feet 11 inches in circumference.

The Stanford vineyard at Vina, Tehama county, Cal., is the largest in the world, covering six square miles and numbering 3,500,000 vines.

If your panicles are allowed to perfect seed, they will be sure to "die out," as the plants exhaust themselves. If you want flowers, you must keep the seed pods cut off.

Vanilla is an orchid, which, in the West Indies, creeps over trees and walls like ivy.

A substance called sago, somewhat resembling arrowroot or sagu, is obtained from the tubers of a variety that grows in Turkey and Persia, where it is highly esteemed.

To rid your flowerpots of worms, dissolve half an ounce of corrosive sublimate in a quart of water; add a tablespoonful of this to a gallon of water, and water the plants not oftener than once a week, taking care not to pour it on the leaves. If there are any worms, they will scramble to the top.

AN UNWELCOME EASTER KISS.

Russia is not the only country in which the early Christian custom of kissing all corners at Easter survives. In Northumberland, England, the men still claim a kiss or a silver sixpence from every woman they meet in the streets. In the town of Bedlington last year at Easter a coal miner was sued for kissing a woman and pleaded the old custom. He was released by the justices, who informed the complainant that "if she did not want George's kiss she could have given him a silver sixpence."

ORIGIN OF EASTER.

Easter is said to be older than Christianity. The name by which we know the day is identical with that of the ancient Saxon goddess of spring, Eostre.

The early missionaries gave a Christian meaning to the observance of the day, but it has retained its ancient name.

FASHION'S MIRROR.

The new swallowtail directoire coat above the shortened, expanded dress skirt will be smartly worn this spring by slender women.

The skirt portions of all the new spring jackets are much widened at the back and slightly on the sides to admit of their falling easily over the enlarged dress skirts.

The shoulder seam having been so much lengthened, it follows that sloping shoulders will once again assert their claims to recognition, for the second empire bodice is hardly compatible with the square shouldered ideal.

The new dress skirts measure from four to six yards in width around the bottom, and the woman who decides upon the skirt with the latter measurement must also consent to wear its inevitable accompaniment—the hoopskirt.

The most popular chevrons this season have a very rough surface and show wide diagonals. The styles and colors are in great variety, and among them a soft and peculiarly beautiful shade of greenish gray is remarked; also a tan color of great delicacy of tint.

Very pretty sarahs, bengalines and mer-veilles satins, dotted with silk of a contrasting color, are made up into dressy tulle skirts that have a rather full medium length skirt and low cut corselet, with guimpe and balloon sleeves of plain silk the color of the dot.

Oriental red is the name given to a new street shade of that color which appears in cloth vogue bourette wools and silk and wool mixtures. It is a handsome dye between that of a deep crimson rose and a rich dahlia color. It is remarkably becoming to both fair and dark women.—New York Evening Post.

SOME FAMOUS PHRASES.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever" is from Keats.

Harel said, "Speech was given to man to disguise his thoughts."

"Variety's the very spice of life that gives it all its flavor" is Cowper's.

"The pen is mightier than the sword" is the saying of Bulwer Lytton.

"Rose like a rocket and fell like its stick" was said by Thomas Paine of Burke.

Mme. Cornuel was the original author of the phrase, "No man is a hero to his valet."

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die" was the pretty saying of Campbell, and his also is, "Coming events cast their shadow before."

"The heart that has truly loved never forgets" belongs to Tom Moore; so does "The luxury of weeds" and "The trail of the serpent is over them all."

Some of Burns' gems: "The best laid schemes of mice and men gang a-gley," "But pleasures are like poppies spread; you seize the flower, its bloom is shed," "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," "The rank is but the guinea stamp; a man's a man for a' that."

Here are a few of Pope's: "Shoot folly as she flies," "Hope springs eternal in the human breast," "An honest man's the noblest work of god," "Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined," "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" "A little learning is a dangerous thing," "To err is human; to forgive, divine," "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

DR. DOSSERT'S JUBILEE MASS.

On Easter Sunday He Directed the Choir at St. Peter's in Rome.

Easter Sunday, for the first time in the history of St. Peter's in Rome, a young American, Frank J. Dossier, organist of St. Stephen's church, New York, had the privilege of directing the great choir which sang the mass composed by himself in honor of the jubilee of our holy father, Leo XIII. The pope himself officiated at this mass, which was celebrated with all the magnificence of the papal court.

Dr. Dossier composed the mass a few months ago in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the pope's consecration, and last September he went to Rome to present his composition to him. Through the influence of Cardinal Hohenlohe, who examined the mass, Dr. Dossier was granted an interview with the pope. He brought his manuscript with him, which was beautifully written and bound in yellow leather, lined with watered silk of the same color. On the back the coat of arms of the pope was exquisitely and delicately painted.
