TERRIBLE DISASTER.

TEN MINERS KILLED IN THE CALUMET MINE.

Hurled Over 3,000 Feet to the Bottom of a Shaft—Had Reached the Top in a Cage When the Cable Broke—The Engineer Failed to Stop in Time—The Coroner Investigating the Matter.

MILWAUKEE, May 15.—A Houghton, Mich., special says: Ten men were dashed to pieces in the Red Jacket perpendicular shaft of the Calumet and Hecla mine at noon yesterday. The miners were coming up in the cage to dinner, and the engineer hoisted the cage against the timbers of the shaft and the coupling pin broke, dashing men and cage downward over 3,000 feet to the bottom.

The names of the killed are: Al Cameron, James Cookling, Joseph Pope, John Rodgers, John Hake, Andrew Edno, Robert Wuopila, Michael Leavitt, James Trevel, Con B. Sullivan.

The men were aboard a skip used in hoisting rock, and when the load of human freight reached the surface the engineer did not stop in time, but went to the top of the derick when it broke loose and went back with a crash to the bottom of the shaft.

GREAT DIFFICULTY IN REACHING THE BOTTOM. There was no way of reaching the bottom not getting the dead men out except by going through another shaft half a mile away so that it was nearly three hours before the true state of affairs could be ascertained and it was morning before the bodies were brought to the surface. It was necessary to hoist them 55 feet by ropes to reach the level of the next shaft; then carry them nearly half a mile through the drifts and then hoist them by the man car. The wife of Pope was standing in the shaft house with her husband's dinner when the terrible accident occurred. Twelve men went down, but one of them was attacked by sickness and was sent up accompanied by one of his comrades. The coroner and a jury is now making a thorough investigation.

Sunday work in the mines is only done in the line of repairs to machinery and timbering up the walls on the shaft to admit miners to drill and blast weak days. The 10 men killed went down in the morning to timber and had worked all the forenoon. When noon came they stepped into the skip to be hoisted 1,150 feet to the surface to get their dinner. The time in being hoisted is only a minute by the powerful engines used.

Ernest Tullin, a reliable engineer, says his indicator showed 750 feet more to hoist. It must have failed to respond. The cage went crashing against the roof of the shaft house. There was a smashing of timbers, the coupling pin to the wire cable broke and some of the miners must have been crushed. Then the bucket fell with lightning velocity to the bottom of the shaft.

BROKE HIS CAGE. Binghamton Has an Exciting Time With an Escaped Gorilla.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 16.—Barnum & Bailey's $5,000 gorilla created considerable excitement here yesterday. While the workmen were at dinner the brute forced the door of his cage from the hinges and jumping out he made for the dressing rooms, which were occupied by two ladies. The frightened women ran screaming from the tent and the big monkey escaped into the open air.

The people immediately scattered in every direction, "growing" being finally taken his stand near a large where several of the canvasmen tried to capture him and were badly injured.

His Portuguese keeper finally arrived and after hugging and kissing him with joy he readily accompanied him to his cage. He would not enter, however, until an elephant, of which he stands in mortal fear, was brought in.

Many ballots were taken, and all stood six for conviction of assault with intent to commit murder, five for assault with a deadly weapon and one for acquittal. WASHINGTON, May 16.—President and Mrs. Cleveland moved out to their country house on Saturday. The house is furnished with the belongings of the New York house until last winter occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland.

The Star says: A secret which has been whispered around some time and about which naturally members of the president's household do not care to talk, is now no longer a secret as it has been given considerable publicity. That is that the members of the family are looking forward to an interesting event to occur, it is stated, in July. The expected event explains why Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland have been somewhat anxious to get into their own country home for the summer.

THE GOVERNMENT LOSSES. The Famous Hat Trimmings' Cases Finally Settled.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The supreme court of the United States has affirmed its previous ruling, as laid down in the Langfield case, in what are popularly known as "The Hat Trimmings' Cases." These came on appeal from the judgments of the circuit courts for the United States, two from the eastern division of Pennsylvania and one from the northern district of Illinois. The controversy in each case being between the collector of the port and the importers as to the rating to be made upon material used for hat trimmings.

It is estimated that the treasury department that by the loss of this case the United States will be called upon to refund from $50,000 to $100,000. Some estimate place it as high as $300,000.

San Juan del Sur and the country towns up to Granada are in their hands. Corinto is being fortified by the government to resist the expected attack from San Juan. The opposing forces are massing at Masaya. Two battles fought near Masaya have resulted in favor of the revolutionists. The government artillery caused the government troops heavy losses.

Ex-President Zavla of Nicaragua telegraphs from Granada: Almost all the country has risen against the government. The departments of Granada, Masaya, Rivas, Chontales, Matagalpa, New Segovia and Lake Nicaragua have risen. San Juan and the Atlantic coast are in the possession of the revolutionists. President Saca has been reduced to the capital. He is drawing his resources of men and money from the departments of Leon and Chinandega. The revolutionary army is camped at Masaya. Three formidable attacks by government troops have been repulsed with great loss to the assailants. The government is on the defensive. The revolution advances daily and its triumph is certain.

JUSTICE BREWER'S OPINION.

He Gives His Views of the Exclusion Act.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Supreme court, through Justice Gray, has sustained the decision of the New York courts in favor of the constitutionality of the Exclusion act. Justice Brewer dissented.

In his dissenting opinion the chief justice denied the soundness of the proposition that the cases before the court were such as the political department of the government alone could deal with. It was in his view a judicial question, and however reluctant courts may be to pass upon the constitutionality of legislative acts, it was his very essence of judicial duty to do so when the discharge of that duty was properly imposed upon it.

He entertained no doubt that the provisions of the fifth and fourteenth amendments were universal in their application and that while the general government was invested so far as foreign countries were concerned with all the powers necessary to the maintenance of its absolute independence and security it could not, in virtue of a supposed inherent sovereignty, absolutely deal with persons lawfully and peacefully within its domain. The act before the court was not an act to abrogate or repeal a treaty nor to expel Chinamen lawfully here and no such intent could be imputed to congress.

The object was to prescribe a method of registration, and the deportation denounced by way of punishment was in his view an unusual punishment not authorized by the constitution.

The court took a short recess to consider the motion of J. Hubley Ashton for a rehearing of the cases before a full bench at the next term of court. After the recess the court denied the motion for a rehearing so the opinion stands as announced.
