LATER ACCOUNT OF THE DISASTER AT WASHINGTON.

More Than a Score Killed and Half a Hundred Injured-Ghastly Scenes Witnessed at Hospitals and Morgue-The Capital a City of Funerals and Mourn-

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Another tragedy -less national in character but involving the loss of many more lives and much more human suffering—has stained the walls of the old Ford's theater, Washington, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated by J. Wilkes Booth in April, 1865. It is a coincidence, also, which will not escape attention, that this second tragedy occurred on the very day when the remains of the great tragedian whose life was so darkened by his brother's crime that he never visited Washington afterward, were being laid to rest in Mount Auburn cemetery, Massachusetts.

OLD FORD'S THEATER.

The evidence, as found in official records, appears conclusive that as long ago as 1885 this building, which the government purchased after the assassination and used as an army museum, was officially proclaimed by congress an unsafe depository for even the inanimate skeletons, mummies and books of the army medical museum for which a safer place of storage was provided by act of congress. But notwithstanding the fact that in the public press and in congress also, continued attention was called to the bulging walls of the building and its darkness and general unsuitability and insecurity it continued to be used for the daily employment of nearly 500 government clerks in the pension record division of the war office.

The building collapsed in the midst of an ill-judged effort to remedy some of the

The hour of the disaster was very shortly after the departments had settled down to work. The workmen, whose operations under the building were the immediate cause of the catastrophe, had been tinkering upon it for two hours or more. Half an hour earlier few lives would have

The hairbreadth escapes narrated by the survivors were numberless. A dozen men left in the corner of the third story clambered down a hose pipe to the ground. One of the men, E. Baier, who worked in the center of the third floor, said:

"I was at my desk when I heard a great roar. There was no premonitory trembling or any kind of warning; just a roar and crash and the desks and tables seemed to raise up in the center of the floor and then disappear in a blinding cloud of white dust. I sprang for the rear window and called to my companions to follow. Those who were right near me did so and we gained a safe place."

Assistant Secretary of War Grant says that the rolls showed that the full force employed in the building numbered 514 persons. A number of these were absent on leave or because of illness so that probably 400 or 450 persons were in the building when the crash came. Then as only half of the floors fell the number of persons who went down was further reduced and of those who actually fell many escaped with slight injuries or without harm.

The question of the responsibility of the accident is of course already earnestly discussed. Though officials connected with the building are not inclined to so state and declare that they cannot understand the reason for the fall, there seems but little doubt that the primary cause was some excavation which was being done under the front wall. A subcellar was being dug to give more room and at the same time afford a means of ventilation. In order that this should be accomplished there was considerable underpinning. The contractor for this work was Mr. George Dent, while the digging in connection with the job was being done by P. R.

The total casualties as near as can be ascertained are as follows: Twentyone dead bodies are at the morgue and the Emergency hospital. Four more persons are reported dead whose names were probably confused with those of victims or their identity confused with some other bodies through physical resemblance. Two persons whose names were included in the list of victims taken from the rains escaped uninjured. The number of injured reported is about 50, but many others who were able to proceed to their homes were hurt more or less

Will Probably All Recover. WASHINGTON, June 13.—Those who were injured in the Ford's theater disaster, now at the hospitals, are improving and the chances are they will all recover.

INDIGNANT CLERKS.

An Exciting Time at the Inquest at Washington. WASHINGTON, June 13.—The inquest over the bodies of the victims of the Ford's theater disaster was commenced yesterday at Willard's hall. Colonel Ainesworth, chief of the record and pension division, who has been placed on the defensive by implied accusations that he was responsible for the presence of clerks in the old building, was present.

The statement of a witness that the clerks held themselves in abject fear of Ainesworth was responded to by a round of applause. At the afternoon session a well dressed man walked forward and in a voice trembling with passion, and shaking his fist in Colonel Ainesworth's face, shouted: "You murdered my brother, and you sha'n't sit there intimidating witnesses."

The man was Charles, Barnes, whose brother was a victim of the disaster. After the uproar thus occasioned had quieted, Mr. Davis, representing Colonel Ainesworth, started to speak, when a dozen excited department clerks rose to their feet and shouted for him to sit down.

The excitement grew in intensity. Nearly every clerk present who was employed in the old theater building was on his feet shouting. At first they only called "sit down," "shut your mouth," but finally some frenzied individual cried "Hang him, hang him." When the hall was emptied the excited language of the clerks continued on the sidewalk, and finally old Butler Fitch mounted the entrance of the building and proposed an indignation meeting immediately. The proposition was adopted and the clerks took possession of the hall. A committee consisting of Smith Thompson, W. N. Sayre, B. Fitch, Percy Monroe and M. M. Jarvis was appointed to wait upon the president and protest against the proposed secret session and to urge the suspension of Colonel Ainesworth pending the investigation.

COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

Notes on Things and Persons at the White City.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS. June 8.-Eulalia made her first visit to the fair today and her reception by the inhabitants and visitors at the White City was all that could be desired, even by a princess. A grand aerial and aquatic fireworks exhibition will be given this evening in her honor and other interesting entertainments have been arranged for her benefit. The feature of yesterday's entertainment of the Princess Eulalia was the breakfast tendered her by Mayor Carter Harrison. The guests invited were: The Duke of Tamames, the Mirchioness Arco-Hermosa, Don Pedro Jover y Tovar, Senor Don de Muruaga, the Duke of Veragua, Commander and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, President T. W. Palmer, Mrs. Gresham, General and Mrs. Miles, President and Mrs. Higinbotham, Miss Harrison. The princess was dined by President Higinbotham in the evening. The bright sunshine brought out great crowds yesterday. A novel excursion around the grounds by the Intramural Elevated railroad to the cosmopolitan population of the Midway Plaisance. Rome apprising the queen of her great loss, for it seems as developments thus far indicate that the loss will not fall upon the exposition company, their bond not covering the safety of the laces in transit. An effort was made to keep the discovery a secret, but customs house officers divulged the startling news.

Her highness, the Infanta of Spain, still lends her smiling presence to the great show. The princess took luncheon at the White Horse Inn at the south end of Jackson park, along side the Dutch windmill and the cliffdwellers, in what is known as "the backyard of the fair."

June promises to roll up a big attendance for the fair, judging by the size of the daily crowds so far. The people poured into the grounds by thousands, although there is no special attraction except in the possibility of seeing Princess Eulalia flitting through the park.

Ex-President Harrison was a visitor to the fair yesterday. He came out to the grounds about 11:30 o'clock and was the guest of President Palmer of the national commission. Upon arriving at the grounds President Harrison was taken for a drive through the winding ways of the White City and shown the beautiful buildings. Shortly after noon President Palmer brought his distinguished guest to the Administration building where he was presented to a number of World's fair officials after which all sat down to an elabarate luncheon.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, June 14.-Robed in a clinging white costume and wearing a dainty white straw hat and veil of the same color, the Infanta of Spain, accompanied by the Prince of Orleans and the suite, visited the exposition for the last time yesterday. She came out on the private yacht which has carried her to the White City before. She preferred the route on account of avoiding the crowd at the gates and she is a lover of the water besides.

The princess was transferred from the yacht to Director General Davis' launch which took her to the Cafe Marine in the foreign quarter. Exhibits of Spain later taken through the big building to the lake shore where stands the Spanish building. Here the Spanish commissioner general, the foreign commissioners and World's fair officials received the princess. This ended her last day at the exposition. In the evening at the Palmer House the Infanta gave a dinner to 24 guests and the good byes were said over champagne. The royal party was escorted to the railroad station by two troops of United States cavalry this morning at 90'clock where they took a special train on the Lake Shore for Niagara Falls.

WAS A PET FOR A CENTURY An Alligator Which Had Been Known to One Family Since 1773. In the bayou flowing through the large sugar plantation of Gabriel Mon-taigne, lying seven or eight miles south of Thibodeaux, La., there was recently killed an alligator known to be something over 120 years old. In 1773 Mr. Montaigne's father's grandfather, immigrating to this country from France, purchased this tract of land from its original Spanish owner, and in an attempt to clear the bayou of the ferocious and aggressive alligators which filled it to the number of thousands succeeded in killing many of them, and among them the mother of several young ones, three of which he killed also, but the fourth got away, leaving five or six inches of his tail behind him, however. This one was afterward seen from time to time and always recognized by this missing portion of his anatomy. He grew to be something of a pet with succeeding generations, who, however, thought it safest to cept in such cases where the creature is marked in some such way as Old Shorty was.

They enjoy a laugh with the best of men, and their mirth is as infectious as it is often unexpected. One night a St. Paul clergyman was in a jovial frame of mind, and he related the following incident for the benefit of his companion: A brother minister once had occasion to marry a couple of darkies, and while it was a recognized custom in his part of the country that the officiating clergyman should salute the bride, this particular instance was a little more than the minister could stand. So at the conclusion of the ceremony he remarked that, while it was the usual custom to salute the bride on this occasion he would omit it. "Yes," responded the groom, "on such an occasion it is the usual custom to fee the

THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:

DEAR SIR:—I have been using your cure for tobacco habit, and found it would do what you claim for it. I used ten cents worth of the strongest chewing tobacco a day, and from one to five cigars; or I would smoke from ten to forty pipes of tobacco. Have chewed and smoked for twenty-five years, and two packages of your Tablets cured me so I have no desire for it.

THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—It gives me pleasure to speak a word of praise for your Tablets. My son was strongly addicted to the use of liquor, and through a friend, I was led to try your Tablets. He was a heavy and constant drinker, but after using your Tablets but three days he quit drinking, and will not touch liquor of any kind. I have waited four month before writing you, in order to know the cure was permanent. Yours truly, MRS. HELEN MORRISON.

THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO:—GENTLEMEN:—Your Tablets have performed a miracle in my case. I have used morphine, hypodermically, for seven years, and have been cured by the use of two packages of your Tablets, and without any effort on my part.
