SUBURBAN HANDICAP.

Lowlander Wins the Rich Stake to the Surprise of All.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The suburban handicap of 1893, the tenth in the history of the event was a most grievous disappointment to the turf loving public, Lamplighter, their idol, who was looked upon as a sure victor in the great race, was made to fall from the high pedestal upon which he had been placed and the halo of victory which had gathered about him because of his numerous successes was completely dispelled. He was vanquished strictly on his merits, as the race was a true run one from beginning to end. There was no crowding or jostling as was the case in the Brooklyn handicap, the field was comparatively small and every jockey rode to win in as fair a manner as possible.

Lowlander by Lowland Chief, dam Restless, a horse that has had rather an erratic career, won the race from end to end. He went out at the fall of the flag, set the pace to suit himself and won almost as he pleased in the fast time of 2:06¾.

Terrifier, Father Bill Daly's candidate, was second, three quarters of a length away, while Lamplighter, the even money favorite, that shrewd horsemen said could not lose, was third, four lengths back.

LIZZIE GOES FREE.

A VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL ENDS THE BORDEN TRIAL.

Touching Scenes In the Courtroom When the Finding Was Announced—Lizzie Burst Into Tears and Even Stern Men Were Deeply Moved—Congratulations Showered Upon Her.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 21.—After District Attorney Knowlton had finished his argument, the prisoner was given a chance to speak. She arose with some hesitation and said: "I am innocent, but I will leave my case in your hands and with my counsel."

Justice Dewey then charged the jury in a full and impartial recital of the facts in the case. He dwelt at great length upon the testimony of both sides and cautioned them against accepting statements for facts and concluded by saying: "Gentlemen, the case is in your hands.

At the conclusion of the charge the attorneys consulted a few moments. The jury was allowed to retire and counsel agreed upon what exhibits were to be put into the case after which they were brought in again, the oath administered by the clerk of the court and the jury took the case.

Among the exhibits put in were the three hatchets, the bloody handkerchief, photographs of the house exterior and interior, the blue silk dress, the various pieces of wood, pillow shams, the counterpane, the white skirt and the piece of plastering.

The jury filed into their seats at 4:30 and were polled, Miss Borden was asked to stand up, and the foreman was asked to return the verdict, upon which he announced "not guilty."

Chief Justice Mason then gracefully thanked the juors in appreciation of their work and faithful service, and reminded them that the precautions taken with them which may have seemed irksome at the time were solely in the interest of justice, a fact which they undoubtedly realized now. The jury was then dismissed and court was adjourned until Monday next when the regular criminal session will be opened.

The closing scene in the trial was in direct contrast with those which preceded it. Heretofore all had been decorous and in keeping with the dignity of the most dignified court in the country. But when the verdict of not guilty was returned a cheer went up which might have been heard half a mile away through the open windows and there was no attempt to check it. The stately justices looked straight ahead at the bare walls. Sheriff Wright was powerless to wield the gavel which lies ready for use and not once during the tremendous excitement, which lasted fully a minute, did he make the slightest sign of having heard it. He never saw the people rising in their seats and waving their handkerchiefs in unison with their voices because his eyes were full of tears and were completely blinded for the time. Miss Borden's head went down upon the rail in front of her and tears came where they had refused to come for many a long day as she heard the sweetest words ever poured into her willing ears the words not guilty.

Mr. Jennings was almost crying and his voice broke as he put his hand out to Mr. Adams, who sat next to him, and said, "Thank God!" while Mr. Adams returned the pressure of the hand and seemed incapable of speech.

Governor Robinson turned to the rapidly dissolving jury as they filed out of their seats and gleamed on them with a fatherly interest in his kindly eye, and stood up as Mr. Knowlton and Mr. Moody came over to shake hands with the counsel for the defense.

As soon as possible the room was cleared, although it was a hard task, since everybody wanted to shake hands with Miss Borden.

When the spectators had finally gone she was taken to the room of the justices and allowed to recover her composure with only the eyes of friends upon her and the caresses of devoted admirers. At the expiration of an hour she was placed in a carriage and driven to the station, where she took the train for Fall River, her home no longer probably, but still the only objective point for the immediate present.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Condition of Business Throughout the United States.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Bradstreet's today says: The bright streak in the clouds over New York and Chicago a week ago characterized as a "better feeling" has darkened again and the situation at larger money centers is no more satisfactory than at any time during the recent disturbance and no actual improvement in the general financial situation has appeared. General trade on the whole is more restricted than a week ago and gives evidence of having been cut into many directions by curtailed credits.
