Auburn.
The members of the fire department are finding plenty of work to do these days. They have answered more alarms so far this year than they did all of last year. The fires, however, have been, with one or two exceptions, small blazes, and to every one of these has been dragged the big lumbering Hayes truck. It is an outrage to compel two horses to draw this overgrown, cumbersome affair. The truck cannot be used to advantage at any fire, unless it be in the central part of the city, and then the countless overhead wires would delay the hoisting of the extension ladder probably until it could be of no avail. The Hayes truck is a nuisance and should be gotten rid of as soon as possible. It has killed one horse and will do away with more of them if kept in service. A lighter truck is what the department should have and common sense should have told them so long ago. There is a scheme on foot at present to make the island at the foot of Owasco lake a part of our lovely village. It takes about half an hour to walk, at a brisk rate, from the present city limits to the lake and all through a country of very small population. The country between the city and the lake grows at about the rate of ten inhabitants every ten years, and yet some land grabbers want to make this "wilderness" a portion of the city. This insane idea was introduced in the meeting of the Common Council and is a fair sample of the way they do business.

The A. P. A. will use their influence to down their enemies in the coming election—the Catholics. Let the Catholics of the city vote solidly for one of their number wherever his name appears on a ticket. He will not prove false to your trust. Go to him and compel him to make known his views on public questions that are now pending. If they should not be of the right calibre, talk common sense to him and ten chances to one he will promise to do what is proper. If his opponent's views are the same, vote for your Catholic. If not, then would be your only excuse for cutting him; your Catholic candidate will undoubtedly be of the kind that will need no urging.

Auburn.
Some people seem to take delight in spreading rumors that will interfere with, and harm another's business reputation. A baseless rumor has been in circulation lately to the effect that Mr. Barkhoff, proprietor of the Troy Steam Laundry was a member of the A. P. A. The Journal correspondent investigated the rumor, and as stated above, found it to be a malicious canard. To show that Mr. Barkhoff is not a member of this organization, it may be stated that first of all he could not be in his laundry, which he could not do under the rules of the A. P. A. Again, he patronizes almost exclusively Catholic business men. He trades with Charles Stafford, grocer; Patrick Stafford, marketman; he patronizes James Wise, the cigar manufacturer and tobacco dealer, and also patronizes Luke Dempsey proprietor of the Osborne House Barber Shop, and several other Catholic business men of the city. He not only patronizes them at the present time, but has done so even before the A. P. A. gained a foothold in this city, and yet some malicious malefactor has reported that Mr. Barkhoff is a member of this body of men.

In the last issue of the Breeze the always popular "Joe" Burgess thus delivers himself:

Some six months ago we were asked by St. Patrick's Total Abstinence society to give them a talk on temperance. We couldn't spare the time to prepare an address at that time but agreed to do so later on. The effort referred to was in fulfilment of that promise. The society is composed of over fifty of the leading male members of St. Patrick's Church headed by Father Dougherty, and they have a reading room where they meet and discuss various topics and read the current news. The society has sent many a dollar home to a happy family that might formerly have dwindle to a dime before it got home. It is doing good, practical work, and if anything was said in the address referred to that helped along the good cause these men are endeavoring to further, our only object was accomplished.

St. Patrick's Total Abstinence Society will receive communion in a body next Sunday at 8 o'clock mass. Special instruction will be given to the members Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at morning and evening services.
