Yours Fraternally,
JOSEPH CAMERON,
Grand Secretary.

C. M. B. A.

Council 28 held their regular meeting last Wednesday evening at their room in the Durand building; and a large number of members were present. Four candidates were initiated. We are glad to report the good attendance and hope that in the near future the rooms will be found too small to accommodate our rapidly increasing membership. An interesting discussion was indulged in by several of the members and the result will be found to be beneficial to the Council. We are told that Brother Dove has several questions of importance that he will bring up at the next meeting and this alone should be sufficient reason for every member to be present. The Council has accepted the invitation of Council 25 for next Monday evening and all that can be expected to attend.

Council 25, of C. B. and B. A., will have a progressive euchre party Monday evening, April 16th, in the Immaculate Conception Hall on Elm-street. All the members of Council 27, C. B. and B. A., after the regular meeting Thursday evening, entertained their friends with a progressive euchre party.

Trouble for Royalty.

The big majority in the House of Commons is in favor of continuing the grant of £10,000 to the Duke of Edinburgh by no means to be regarded as a testimonial to the Duke's popularity, or as evidence of parliament's obsequiousness to royalty. It is a matter of fact that the Liberals voted to continue the grant very largely out of respect for Mr. Gladstone, who made the arrangement whereby the grant was conferred upon the Duke. Mr. Gladstone had the fulfillment of his contract to continue the grant so much at heart that he told the Liberal whips that if the grant were not supported by the Liberals he would come into the house and speak in favor of his continuance, however ill he might be. If by any chance, the supporters of the government had been outvoted the ministers would also have appealed to the house to continue the grant. Underlying the debate was a strong feeling of contempt for the Duke of Edinburgh, which was only half concealed. It is an open secret that both the Queen and the Prince of Wales intervened with the Duke and urged him to surrender the whole amount after his accession to the Coburg duchy, and it is also known that Lord Salisbury and Mr. Gladstone, with whom the Duke consulted, gave him advice similar to that given by the Queen and the Prince of Wales. It was with the greatest difficulty that they persuaded him to surrender the £10,000, but nothing that could be said would induce him to give up the remaining £10,000. As the radicals will annually renew their protest against the payment of the grant, royalty generally will have abundant reason to regret the Duke's meanness. His select English circles are circulating the report that the Duke intends to expend the entire sum of the grant in a month's junketing at Clarence house, his London residence. Public money continues to maintain Clarence house for him, but he will have to alter his character mightily if he becomes as lavish in his hospitality as his friends intimate, even at the expense of somebody else.

Pilgrims to Rome.

The pope recently received the second section of the Spanish pilgrims. The cardinal archbishop of Seville, as the spokesman of the pilgrims, presented an address in which he enlarged upon the fidelity to the pope which characterized the whole of the people of Spain. His holiness in reply alluded to the importance, social and political, of frequent pilgrimages to Rome. He expressed his sorrow at the attacks which had been made upon the pilgrims in Valencia, and declared that the incident was an outrage upon the liberty and honor of the people of Spain.

The pope's address to the Spanish pilgrims has aroused the supporters of Don Carlos. Don Carlos pretends to the throne of Spain to the issuance of a manifesto combatting some of the sentiments expressed by his holiness. The pope's words are interpreted by the Carlists as advising full recognition of the sovereignty of King Alfonso XIII. and in their manifesto they intimate their disbelief in the infallibility of the holy father when dealing with political questions.

The Spanish pilgrimages to Rome that have extended over the past fortnight have made money contributions to the pope aggregating 1,200,000 francs.

Meeting of Bishops.

A few days ago a meeting of all the Roman Catholic bishops of a province of New York was held at the residence of Archbishop Corrigan. It is supposed that the names of three persons, whom the bishops deem worthy to succeed to the see of Trenton, made vacant by the death of Bishop Michael J. O'Farrell, as well as the names of three persons worthy to be appointed coadjutor bishop to Stephen V. Ryan of Buffalo, whose poor health demands the appointment of an assistant, will be considered.

Troubles of Theosophy.

San Francisco news says that the delegates to the annual convention of the American Theosophical Society have practically concluded their work, and many of them are now visiting the mid-west fair. Notwithstanding the vindication of General Secretary Judge, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who had been charged with trifling with the sacred rights and privileges of the Mahatmas, it is believed that the high priests of the order, who are under the influence, to a very large degree, of the Hindu theosophists, will arrogate to themselves the authority of a supreme tribunal and possibly suspend the American section from full communion. This may cause a split.

Murder by a Priest.

At Cincinnati, Ohio, Mary Gilmartin, a pretty clerk employed at the Pulvermacher Galvanic Belt company, was shot and instantly killed while on her way to work. The man who committed the murder and was arrested gave his name as George Reed, aged 30, but letters in his pocket identified him as a Catholic priest named Father Dominick O'Grady. Insane jealousy of the girl and her desire to get rid of his unwelcome attentions caused the tragedy. At the station house O'Grady attempted suicide by taking poison, but the prompt use of a stomach pump saved his life.

Candidates for Siberia.

Despatches from Warsaw say that 300 Poles, mostly students, held a special service in a church there to celebrate the centenary of the rebellion of Kilinsky. After the services they marched in a body to the house of a descendant of Kilinsky, in front of which they cheered and shouted. The police surrounded the crowd and arrested all of the party, 23 of them being Poles.

Joan of Arc.

Ten thousand persons were present in the church of Notre Dame, Paris, Sunday, where services were held in connection with the beatification of Joan of Arc. An impressive Te Deum was sung. The Archbishop of Paris officiated.

The chief feature of the ceremony was the laying of a facsimile of the banner borne by Joan of Arc at the feet of the statue of Notre Dame. Another facsimile, purchased with subscriptions from French Catholics, was deposited in the exact spot where the mother of Joan of Arc is supposed to have stood in 1412 when she pleaded her daughter's cause before the Papal Delegates.

A BAD PLACE FOR WIDOWS.

In India They Are Treated as if They Were Outcasts.

The practice of treating widows as quasi-criminals, outcasts or slaves is among the blunders of high antiquity. It is probably a substitute for a still older custom once universal among the conquering tribes of the Aryan world, laying the wives of chieftains on the funeral pyres of their lords.

As manners grew milder and men less desperate, and new religious ideas were born, that practice was abolished and widows were permitted to live, but only as persons whose right to survive must be regarded as imperfect. Their position became that of household slaves, or, rather, family outcasts, entitled to no honor, bound to servile offices, dressed in the meanest clothes, fed with the cheapest food and regarded by friends as persons who ought to consider themselves thoroughly degraded. Had not the very gods themselves, or the fates pronounced them deserving of heavy punishment?

Of course, natural laws are not wholly suspended even by superstition, and thousands of widows protected by personal affection, or their own abilities, or by their wealth, have prospered and even attained to power and honor. But the vast majority of them are degraded, and their lives are a constant struggle for existence.

So severe is their lot that in some parts of India even among those who are not degraded by superstition, and who would probably have been happy and long lived had they been in possession of the principles which are the basis of our civilization, they are not long lived.

FORGOTTEN SAVINGS.

Forgotten savings banks are those which have been established in the past, but have since been abandoned or neglected. They are often found in the form of old documents or in the possession of some one who has forgotten their existence.
