Walter Kitzel died Monday night interest at his residence, 698 Lyell avenue, aged 25 years. He leaves a wife, parents, six brothers and two sisters. He was a member of the Holy Family branch of the C. M B A. The faneral was held Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock from the house and

Branch 139 C. M. B. A. elected James J. Flynn and John Glanton as members at the meeting Tuesday evening. One application was read

There seems to be a disposition on the part of some of the O. M. B. A. Branches to pursue a "still bunt" in working for the prizes offered by the Central Council. This is wrong, and if adopted generally will defeat the object for which the prizes were offered. Branches which are gaining new members should let the fact be known in order to stimulate other Branches to make similar efforts. The "still hunt" policy will have the effect of causing interest in the contest to die down

PEARL HARBOR

Protected by Sharks and Turtles and Likely to Be the Pacific's Gibraltan.

No finer trip out of Hou dulu can be made than to Pearl City by water. The route is just outside the surf line. A light boat with a small load may go inaldo the breakers. So soon as the bout is fairly headed for Barber's point the sport begins. The water is alive with monster tortles and big sharks. You may shoot the former or hook the latter, Every time the craft gets into the breakers interest in the trip is beightened to the point that men who like to seventure glory in Loss of control of the boat means a dr. king, if nothing more. Mullet flop out of the water in the old Kalihi fishing grounds, and when well Ducks fly overhead, and a short distanco back from the share line there are wild turkeys, pheasants and occasionally a pig. Ford's island is viewed with When Pearl harbor is an accomplish-

They then scene. Glasses are then trained upon the splendid ranches of farseeing pionecra. Each holding is a little empire. Cathoats and yachts going to Pearl river for fresh water are passed by the launch as though they were at anchor. At the Military Hand; in the afternoon the landing is tied the yacht Kainland, of whose speed some enthusiast tells. She is waiting to be loaded with rice from the mill with its tramway to the dock Riccfields, taro patches, cocoannt groves, banana orchards and truck gardens on the main land are cut up by Pearl river and its branches and by ir-rigating disches. Natives alt in the shade. Chinamen pass up and down the track of the Oahu Railway and Land company, newly ballasted. Parties are bathing, lounging at pretty Remond grove, with its green carpets and electrio plant, at the depot, store or ranch-

> A birdseye view of Pearl City and its surroundings is a treat. It is best had from an elevation in the future metropolis itself. Mankai there glints and shimmers on the placid surface of Pearl harbor, deep, well sheltered and will cide of the observatory the "distant hills Barber's point is low. The lookout can sweep the sea for miles beyond the peninsula and announce the approach of any vessel. On the Walkiki side Honelulu, with its trees and spires, its smokestacks and masts, seems very close. Rugged Diamond head, which grows upon overy beholder, has at 14 miles a better defined shape and sharper outline than it affords with a closer view. Again the sentinel may command the sea for miles upon miles. The background of all this is a range of hills from which a watcher can scan almost the entire island. It is all a magnificent panorama that can be taken in at a glance.

> Pearl City is quite a little place. It is laid off in wide avenues and large lots. There are stores, residences and a couple of small hotels. In the valleys back are the nineapple ranches, every one a success. The waterworks of the railroad company are prominent, and the courthouse tells of the domain of the law. The location for a city is admirable.-Hawaiian Star.

Cleopatre's Pearl.

Readers will easily call to mind the story which is told of Cleopatra, to illustrate her luxurious habits of living that she dissolved in her wine a precious pearl. No one seems yet to have questioned what must have been the effect upon the drink, but Mr. Lewes questions quite pointedly the possibility of meh solution. We are very sheep in our gregariousness of error. When one bold or stand mutton takes a leap, all leap after him.
