THE HALLIDAY CASE.

ALLEGED MURDERERS ON TRIAL FOR HER LIFE.

Her Counsel sets Up the Plea of Insanity as Her Defense. The Work of Securing a Jury commenced. The Defendant in Court Review of Her Career and Alleged Crimes.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 13—The trial of Lizzie Halliday, the much married woman and alleged murderer of Burlington, was begun before Judge Edwards. Mrs. Halliday seems to have lost much of her former strength and vivacity. She was noncommunicative concerning her trial.

She was visited Saturday by three young ladies and talked with them freely and rationally while on Sunday she was apparently violently insane.

This alternate sanity and insanity has marked the entire course of her imprisonment.

LIZZIE HALLIDAY. That she is insane is a question of doubt among some of the physicians. The jury was sworn after examining 53 jurors. The court was then adjourned. Much excitement prevailed during the day. All persons were excluded from the court house with the exception of the jurors, the bar and the press.

The past history of Mrs. Halliday, as gathered at the time of her alleged crime, is one seldom equaled in the annals of crime. She is said to have been married six times, killing one of her husbands and almost poisoning another. Her first husband, she had driven him first wild to suicide, committing arson and nearly causing the burning of a dozen people for a few hundred dollars, when she was not more than 20 years old. Finally marrying old Paul Halliday, and in a short time locking his half-witted son in the house and burning it to the ground, admitting to her husband afterwards that she had done it to get rid of the young man.

Thus came the crowning crime. In the latter part of last August, Paul Halliday disappeared, and it was while searching for his body on the theory that he had been murdered that the bodies of Mrs. McQuillan and her daughter were found. This was on Sept. 4. Three days later another searching party found Halliday's body.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 20—The defense in the Halliday case seem to be doing but little, apparently relying upon the law, which protects any and all forms of insanity.

Thus far has been shown that the murdered women were found under the hay and that blood spots were on the carpet in the house occupied by Mrs. Halliday. The prisoner was completely composed, and if it were not for occasional twitchings of her mouth, no one would suspect that she understood that anything unusual was going on.

The bullets taken from the bodies of the women were produced in court. They were wound wrapped up in the report of the testimony taken at Burlington, and were in the Sullivan county clerk's office. District Attorney Hill has been searching for them for over a week.

Paul Halliday, one of the sons of the murdered man, testified to calling at his father's house on Aug. 23 and several times after that on the following days. When he asked for his father, Mrs. Halliday said he had gone to Bloomingburg, where he had bought a farm. He noticed nothing unusual in her appearance, nothing that would indicate insanity. When he returned to the house with his father on Monday they found a bloody cape and spots on the carpet. Mrs. Halliday replied to their inquiries that it was her own blood that made the marks.

Alexander Sawyer, the justice of the peace of the town of Manakting, was called. He testified that he went to the house on Monday, Sept. 4, and that he found a pistol ball while taking up the carpet. He was the man who proposed to Mrs. Halliday that she go to Bloomingburg with a couple of men for the purpose of getting her husband. He described minutely the discovery of the bodies of the McQuillan woman. When the prisoner was brought back from Bloomingburg Justice Sawyer told her that as the bodies of two strange women had been found on her place he would have to hold her until the matter was cleared up.

At this Mrs. Halliday said if there was anything wrong she had nothing to do with it. She appeared perfectly rational, he said, until the evening of this day (Monday) when she began to act queerly and he explained that potato bags were swarming all over her.

The blood-stained rope was here put in evidence and identified by Mr. Sawyer as that found in the house.

The revolver which is supposed to have been used in the shooting by Mrs. Halliday was brought into court as evidence. The revolver was found in a camp stool shortly after the bodies of the McQuillan woman were discovered by John McQuillan.

At the time of the discovery he also found two cartridge boxes—one partly full and the other empty. The revolver contained five full cartridges and he then wrote his name upon the boxes and also on a piece of paper and placed it in the barrel of the revolver.

He could not identify the weapon until he had seen whether the paper containing his name was in the barrel.

It was taken from the courtroom and examined by Constable Scott and the paper found, after which McQuillan testified it.

Court was then adjourned. When Mrs. Halliday was led from the courtroom she appeared to be calmer than usual, which undoubtedly results from sitting so long and becoming tired. She still kept her eyes turned toward the floor.

Chief Justice Underberg Dead. LONDON, June 13—Lord Chief Justice Underberg is dead.

Shocking Tragedy at Camden.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 13—A tragedy in which four persons were murdered and one committed suicide was enacted at an early hour at Cramer Hill, a small village on the outskirts of Camden.

Some time about midnight Johann Kuffman arose from his bed, and with some sharp instrument, probably a razor, cut the throats of his wife and three children. Then washing the blood from his person he dressed himself neatly and committed suicide by hanging.

No papers were found in the house that might give an insight into the motive for the crime.

WILLIAM WALTER PHELPS' DEATH.

A Painless and Peaceful End—The Funeral Not Arranged Yet.

NEW YORK, June 13—Ex-Minister William Walter Phelps, who died shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday morning at his home at tea Neck, N. J., had been ill for a long time past, and quite recently went South in the hope that his condition might be improved.

He derived but little benefit from his Southern trip, however, and but a short time ago was so prostrated that his physician ordered absolute quiet and rest.

Gradually he grew weaker, and for the past few days his death had been looked for at almost any moment. He died surrounded by his wife and daughter and his two sons, John J. and Sheffield.

The exact nature of Mr. Phelps' ailment was never definitely stated, but his illness was primarily from typhoid fever, which was followed by meningitis and other complications. He was not naturally of a robust constitution and he inherited pulmonary troubles.

Governor Flower Talks Tariff.

ALBANY, June 13—Governor Flower, returning to Albany from the Adirondacks, talked to a large number of people at the Gloversville depot. He spoke of the financial troubles and said: "The undoubted cause is the tinkering being done with the tariff. In 30 days the tariff will be over and the question settled. The times will improve now at once and your old property will be increased a hundredfold. When I was a boy 10 mills used to make a cent, but for the past year a hundred mills cannot make a cent." The governor was heartily applauded.

Cozy Bill, Before Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, June 13—The Cozy bill for good roads and non-interest bearing bonds, which Senator Peffer introduced in the senate has been introduced in the house by Representative Geary of California. It was done by request and does not signify that Mr. Geary entertains the Cozy theories.

Bismarck Seriously Ill.

LONDON, June 13—Prince Bismarck is seriously ill and Count and Countess Herbert Bismarck will shorten their stay in London on that account.

Nature is Always Stronger than Culture.

Many people regard it as legitimate business to rob their kin.

Every man believes that he is the only man who gets punished for his sins.

When a dog finds a dog, he can whip you, you can't keep him off it. A good many men are the same way.

The difference between theory and fact is the difference between the work you actually do and intend to do.

When an angry woman begins to brush the dandruff off her husband's coat collar, it indicates that she is ready to make up.

When a sick man begins to get mean again, it is a sign that he is better. When he is very, very good and wants to make up with everybody, it is a sign that he is particularly bad.—Aitchison Globe.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

As far back as 1859 there was a clock in London which was run by electricity.

Edison says that in a few years the forge and anvil will have gone out of use. Welding will be done by electricity.

The Electrical Review says that the electrical purification of sewage "is a complete success, chemically and bacteriologically."

An inventor has brought out a rocking chair actuated by electricity. The sitter can at the same time receive gentle currents by grasping metal handles or by resting the bare feet on metal pedals.

Lewis E. Warner, a 16-year-old boy of Northampton, Mass., has secured a patent on a device for electrical propulsion which does away with the overhead trolley. Authorities who have examined it say that the invention is a practical one.
