

A HEARTY WELCOME.

GENERAL BOOTH'S RECEPTION BY THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Venerable Founder and Head of the Army Made Welcome in New York. Addresses a Big Crowd on the Aims and Objects of the Organization—Many Prominent Persons Present.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—An audience of 1,000 greeted General Booth at Carnegie Music Hall at 8 o'clock. The boxes were filled with fashionable men and women who are interested in the auxiliary league of the army.

Commander Booth led in prayer, and then Rev. Dr. Emery Bradford of Mont Clair, N. J., read an address of welcome to General Booth.

Commander Booth then presented his father, the general, with a handsomely framed testimonial from the staff officers. General Booth arose to make his acknowledgments and a mighty wave of applause swept over the house. The general made a speech in which he briefly told the history of the army.

"Why did I undertake this work?" he asked. "Because in no part of the east end of London the population had never been inside a church. I drew the painted women of the street, and the drunkards around me and preached the gospel to them. Before then Christianity was a byword of reproach on their lips."

"People have questioned our mode of operations. They decry the noise and the banners, but I claim the end has justified the means."

We have planted our banners on the walls of St. Peter'sburg and in distant India and will push our fight to every corner of the earth. We will probably in time establish an international headquarters in America."

Export Thieves in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 18.—Two fashionably dressed men entered Becker & Lathrop's jewelry store in South Salina street and while they engaged the attention of G. E. Lathrop, one of the firm's confederate entered and stole a tray of diamond rings valued at between $1,000 to $1,000. The other two men then left the store. When the theft was discovered, a half hour later the police were notified, but have not yet secured leads to their identity or whereabouts. Shortly after 8 o'clock the three men worked the same game at the store of Hawkins & Blumer, furriers, in South Warren street, securing a cap, but becoming frightened before anything of greater value could be obtained. The police think that the men are the same who committed similar robberies in Utica about a month ago.

Will Leave America Again.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A dispatch from Capetown states that Cecil Rhodes, the diamond king and prime minister of Cape Colony, said that the diamond product during the past year was valued at $15,000,000. Referring to the American duty on diamonds, he said he was for free trade, but also for reciprocity. If they sent Brother Jonathan's products out of Cape Colony they would perhaps bring him to his senses. He would not again ask the shareholders to vote $5,000 to exhibit their diamonds in America. The moral was that they should leave America alone.

A Crank in a Bank.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A crank entered the Clinton Place bank in Astor place and demanded $1,000 from Teller Hind. The teller told the crank to wait. As Hind turned away the crank fired a revolver point blank at him and a bullet flew by Hind's head, burying itself in an adjoining piece of woodwork. The crank was seized and turned over to the police. The officials of the Clinton Place bank three days ago received a postal card from a man, saying he would call in a few days for $1,000. The man's identity is unknown.

Case of John James Howard.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The examination in the case of John James Howard, Levi P. Morton's employee, who was ordered sent back to England, where Mr. Morton (alleged to have engaged him as coachman) was continued before a special board of inquiry chosen for the purpose at Ellis Island. The case will be considered today and the testimony sent to Secretary Carlisle together with Dr. Seaman's recommendation. The decision will rest entirely with the secretary of the treasury.

Tramps Murder a Comrade.

WATKINS, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Ten tramps, who had taken shelter in a shed adjoining the Erie Hotel, and who were all drunk, took one of their companions, bound his hands and feet with a rope, stood him against the wall while another tramp shot him in the head, causing instant death. One tramp was arrested, the others made their escape.

Trial of Sergeant Marrott.

BUFFALO, Oct. 23.—Sergeant Thomas Marrott, who shot and killed First Sergeant Thomas L. Schuler at Fort Porter last week, has engaged Attorney Arthur Decker to defend him. Mr. Mackay, assistant United States district attorney, will prosecute. He says he has a strong case against the prisoner.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Edward P. Weston, the famous old-time pedestrian, started from the square in Water street in his 106-mile tramp through the state. He was accompanied by Gustave Myers and Mr. Cackett, who rode in a wagon.

Borden Sisters Order a Monument.

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 23.—Lizzie Borden and her sister have ordered from a Westerly firm a granite monument to cost $2,000 to be erected in Oak Grove Cemetery, Fall River, in memory of their murdered parents.

To Revolutionary Heroes.

Monument to Soldiers Buried in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The monument erected to the memory of the revolutionary soldiers, whose bones rest in Sleepy Hollow cemetery at North Tarrytown, was dedicated today, the 125th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, with impressive ceremonies.

An immense crowd was in attendance. The United States navy was represented by the cruisers New York, San Francisco and Cincinnati, which are anchored in the Hudson at this place, and fired salutes. The ceremonies of unveiling and dedicating the shaft were presided over by Judge Noah Davis. Governor Flower was present and delivered an address.

The Sons of the Revolution, together with the Daughters of the Revolution, are present. All the Grand Army posts of the county of Westchester took part, and also a battery from Fort Hamilton.

The monument stands just within Sleepy Hollow cemetery, near Tarrytown, crowning an eminence called Battle Hill, and within an old redoubt thrown up to protect the historic bridge across the Pocantico. It will overlook the old Dutch church where the remains of the heroes have worshipped for two centuries, as well as the scenes of many skirmishes and much of the territory made classic by the genius of Washington Irving. On it are engraved the names of the known Revolutionary heroes of that vicinity, names which are a patent of nobility to their descendants and representing many families of the vicinity as well as many prominent men of other places.

Patriotic Celebration in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19.—The anniversary of the burning of the tea-leaf British brig Peggy Stewart, in Annapolis harbor in 1774, as a protest against the stamp act, will be celebrated tonight by a reunion of the Maryland Society Sons of the American Revolution. The society always holds its annual meeting on Peggy Stewart day.

Descendants of Alexander Stewart, the Annapolis merchant to whom the tea was consigned, and who applied the match to the British vessel, are members of the organization. The meeting tonight will be held in the Lyceum parlors.

Congregationalists in Session.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The 12th annual state convention of the Congregationalist associations of Massachusetts and Rhode Island will be held here from today to Oct. 21. Leaders in association work from different parts of the two states will present papers and make addresses on live topics concerning this special work for young men.

A FIENDISH CRIME.

Young Woman Murdered and Mutilated by a Villain Lover.

ALBION, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The body of Emma Hunt, a domestic in the family of Farmer Joseph Van Camp at Carlton near this city, was found with her throat cut from ear to ear, her head beaten to a pulp and her abdomen slashed open in a horrid manner.

Suspicion at once attached to William Lake, a farmhand also in the employ of Van Camp, who was known to have been attentive to Miss Hunt and who was not to be found after the body was discovered.

Later a confession, written by Lake, was found in his room, in which he said he had determined to take the girl's life, because of unrequited love. He intimated that the girl had professed affection for him, but had proven faithless. He said he was an illegitimate child and this knowledge had embittered his life. The letter said that any attempt to find him would be futile as he intended to drown himself.

Examination of the dead girl's body showed that she had been outraged.

Murderer Lake Captured.

ALBION, N. Y., Oct. 22.—William Lake, the murderer of Emma Hunt, was captured in a farm barn by Constantine Handy and Harry. He offered no resistance and was lodged in jail here. A large crowd gathered but there was no disorder.

Lake acknowledged that he committed the crime and said that after knocking the woman senseless he cut her throat and hacked her with a butcher knife.

The murderer's real name is Fuller. He was born in Middleport, N. Y. After being arrested he spoke of the confession which he wrote previous to the murder.

Lake is worn out with his efforts to escape capture and from want of food. He fails to realize the enormity of the crime to which he has confessed.

At the time of the murder, Lake wore a long rubber coat to keep the blood from his body. This coat was found in a vacant lot here.

He says the only reason he had for killing the girl was her refusal to reciprocate his love. Her refusal turned his love to deadly hate.

Presbyterians In Session.

ALBANY, Oct. 18.—The New York state synod of the United Presbyterian church is holding its session in the United Presbyterian church. There are 40 ministers and 20 elders in attendance. They represent New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, Eastern Pennsylvania and a part of Canada.

The official inquiry of the medical faculty appointed to examine the cure which took place at Lourdes during the week of the great procession decides in favor of the following case, amongst others. A French woman named Sarah Arter, aged 56, came from London to share in the national pilgrimage. She had suffered since 18 years of age from an interior disease, which several English hospitals had given up a hopeless case. After each meal she vomited, the accompanying odor being extremely nauseous. Three years ago she had the stomach washed by means of a tube for a period of three weeks. The journey from London to Paris was accomplished on an invalid chair and pillows, her only nourishment being occasionally a biscuit and water, which she vomited. She also took a little brandy. On arriving at Lourdes she bathed three times in the miraculous water, and forthwith felt that her disease had left her. The following morning, after eating the usual repast given at the hospital, she went out for a walk with the Sister, and begged her to accompany her to a restaurant, where she simply devoured two portions of meat with a quantity of haricot beans, bread, and drains four cups of tea. This additional repast not only led to no vomiting, but the fortunate woman felt not the slightest indisposition. In a word, Sarah Arter is proved to have been wonderfully cured of an obstinate disease which baffled the resources of human science.

The following priests, recently ordained at All Hallow's College for the mission in the United States, have sailed from Queenstown: Revs. G. Cooke, M. Farrelly, J. Fitzgibbon, J. Greene, P. Kinsella, J. MacAuliffe, J. McCarty, E. O'Reilly, C. Scanlan, D. McKenna, and J. McNamee. St. Paul, Dubuque, Omaha, Chicago, Kansas City and Duluth will be the scenes of their missionary labors.

St. Mary's College, Omaha, Neb., a handsome brick and stone structure erected five years ago by the Christian Brothers, was damaged by fire last month to the extent of $100,000, insurance $80,000. The building was completely gutted. The fire is supposed to have originated from a carelessly dropped match. When the fire was discovered there were one hundred and twenty-two students and thirty instructors in residence at the college. All escaped, and managed to save valuable papers and some property.

St. Joseph's Church, Rochester, N. Y., will soon be adorned by a fine carver which will be placed on the side wall of the Blessed Virgin's Chapel. The altar is building in the city, and the statue which will surround it has been ordered in Munich. It will represent Our Lady of Sorrows, and in the gift of a woman member of St. Joseph's parish. The altar and statue will cost one hundred dollars. The chapel is being newly frescoed by one of the Brothers of the Order and will be lightened and much improved.

What will be one of the largest schools in Montreal, Canada, when finished, is the new school now in course of erection at the corner of Macdonald and St. James streets, in connection with St. Bridget's Church, recently blessed by Archbishop Fabre. The ceremony was a very solemn one and was witnessed by between four and five thousand people. The building was beautifully decorated. The building when finished will cost $25,000, and $10,000 of this has been given by Father Lonergan, the parish priest.

Early next month the handsome new Church of St. Agnes, in Utica, N. Y., will be dedicated with great solemnity.

by Bishop Laddie. The new church is a handsome one, and one of the finest in Utica, if not in the State. It is built of red brick with delicately carved brownstone trimmings, which with the terra cotta decoration set it off to excellent advantage. It is Gothic in point of architecture, and is surrounded by two towers, one 100 and the other 50 feet, in height, each of which is capped with a gilded cross. Between the towers is a Greek cross. The interior of the church is an open auditorium, in this respect like the cathedrals, so that a person entering has an unobstructed view of a large and spacious sanctuary and three beautiful marble altars. Rev. Miles O'Reilly is pastor, and he is assisted by Rev. Dennis Moore.

Archbishop Ryan has made the following changes among the clergy of his archdiocese: Rev. Joseph J. Mori has been transferred from the pastoral of St. Boniface Church, St. Clair, Pa., to that of the new St. Ignatius Church, Philadelphia, of which Rev. William Haas has had charge. Rev. Charles Sauerlair of Lehighton, will go to St. Clair, Rev. William Hamm, make assistant at East Machek Chunk, to Lehighton, and Rev. Father Konzack, recently arrived from Louisiana, to East Machek Chunk. Rev. Bernard J. McGinnis from the Nativity to Our Lady of Mercy, Philadelphia.

Rev. Father Arriano, S.J., left Lisbon, some time since, bound for Lower Zambesi, Africa.

Mr. Combes is actively employed in the erection of the tomb of his illustrious predecessor, Cardinal Lavigerie, which will be erected in the basilica at Carthage, Africa.
