MORTON WINS IN NEW YORK

Complete Defeat of Tammany Hall In New York City.

Overwhelming Majorities All Over Pennsylvania—Republican Gains In Many Quarters Lead to the Claim by Leaders That the Next House of Representatives Will Be Republican—The Result in the Empire State Amounts to Many Parts to a Landslide—Morton's Vote in New York, the Democratic Stronghold, Beats out Little Richard Hill—Strong, the Anti-Tammany Candidate, Elected Mayor of New York by a Heavy Majority—The State Also Gains Several Congressmen—Governor Greenhalge Re-elected in Massachusetts—Georgia and Louisiana Return Democratic Majorities—Republican Gains Reported in Nearly All Parts of the East and West.

ALBANY, Nov. 7.—The story of a political cyclone following a landslide of a year ago marks the election in New York state. The most singular "political" observer had failed to find in the past election indications, anything that would allow a forecast of such a result as complete as the battle of the ballot in this state.

In place of anticipated results comes a sweep of such proportions and from such quarters that even those who predict by it are amazed.

From pluralities ranging from 20,000 to 100,000 in the district below the Harlem for the Democratic party, the Republican party turns it into 20,000 pluralities for themselves. In all the estimates given on the eve of election, it was conceded that the Democratic plurality below the Harlem would be at least 25,000. And the surplus are not confined to this tremendous change of votes, but an analysis shows that Senator Hill ran far behind even the memorable and exceedingly retrograding vote of Judge Maynard.

LEVI E. MORTON

while in the state his loss from the Flower vote was not as large as expected. An analysis of such figures as are obtainable shows that the Republican party also gained by the increased registration, for Mr. Morton's vote in all of the up-country districts show large gains over the Fassett vote of 1901, while the Democratic vote is not out in any great measure from its hitherto normal condition.

In the case of this same increase in registration appears to have been detrimental to the Democrats, for in a great many cases in strong Democratic quarters there were many voters unable to exercise the right of franchise. Indeed, it was claimed by Governor Flower and Clerk De Forest of the state committee that by reason of the large registration and the number of ballots to be voted 80,000 Democratic voters were unable to cast their ballots.

But there were individual counties where the vote was perplexing for the way in which it deflected. Albany county led the way. A Democratic stronghold with few manufacturing interests, it has held true to its principles and in varying times, such as last year, gave normal Democratic majorities of from 1,800 to 3,500. Despite the fact that it is the home county of the Democratic candidate, it gives Mr. Morton a plurality.

In Monroe with its Republican city of Rochester the natural Republican plurality was almost doubled, late figures giving Morton 6,000, where in 1901 the same county only gave Fassett 3,800.

Rensselaer county, the home of Senator Murphy, struck as closely to Democratic principles as any in the state, which was rather surprising in view of the sentiment that had been appealed to by the death of Robert Ross. The county fell off about 800, where its neighbor, Albany county, lost at least 2,300.

Onondaga had been expected to throw a great many votes to the Democratic party, because of disgruntlement in the ranks of the former party, but while the votes of the Republicans showed a falling off, there was no appreciable gain for the Democrats for the deduction.

Essex county repeated its performance of last year by giving Republican majorities, and this leads to the further fact that in no instance was there these signs of recuperation that had been promised by the Democratic party leaders for their party.

Orange county doubled for Morton the majority it gave Harrison and trebled that it gave Fassett.

Chemung paid its tribute to Senator Hill by voting pretty closely to its normal vote, especially in Elmira city.

probable as this week that all of them are about to. The percentage of loss as compared with the vote for the head of the ticket is not nearly so large as it was supposed to be. At the result, therefore, that the Legislature will consist of 60 Republicans and 40 Democrats, that the possibility of a coalition will be precluded, and that the canals will be improved and that a new judiciary system will be inaugurated.

CHAMBERLAIN

The overwhelming majority of the first time in many years the Republicans will have control of the state Legislature and at the same time have a governor in the chair in political harmony with them.

In addition to all these decided gains the state congressional delegation being changed materially in a most significant manner and it may be said that with the election of a majority of Republican congressmen New York will be a Republican state.

Senator Hill arrived at 7 o'clock. He was accompanied by his private secretary and Colonel McKean. He was the first to arrive. Secretary Williams, the governor's private secretary, came next.

New York county had been sending in returns since 6 o'clock and they were not of a most favorable nature. At 7:30 all hope of saving the state was given up by those who had thus far arrived.

Governor Flower arrived at the executive chamber at 7:15. He said that it seemed almost a great tidal wave had struck the metropolis. He did not know but that it had been a tidal wave.

At the time Senator Hill said not a word but read the returns and consulted a manila containing the votes of former years. As the county returns came up, the state official shook his head and said: "Will they do pretty well by me?" To the smiling remarks of friends he made no reply except to smile.

Governor Flower gave out the following statement: "The election shows that a tidal wave of Republicanism has swept the country from Maine to California. Our party victory is inspiring along the silver bill and tariff law, business has been reorganized."

and when the bill was passed no one seemed willing to father it or call the question. The result shows that business men have voted the Republican ticket in order to give their interest a rest. The result in New York city and Brooklyn shows that the people want a purer and better government for their cities. The result shows that Senator Hill's vote and Mr. Wheeler's combined vote would lack over 100,000 of carrying the state.

Chinese Teahouses. The restaurant, or teahouse, in China takes the place of the western clubroom. All their current news and gossip are here circulated and discussed over their eating or drinking of meat, frequently hot, dishes, which we have frequently noticed, seems to consist in throwing their fingers at one another and shouting at the top of their voices. It is really a matching of numbers, for which the Chinese make signs on their fingers up to the numeral ten.

The Chinese of all nations seem to live on their feet, and from this race of "champions" has developed a nation of excellent cooks. Our fare in China, outside the Gobi district, was far better than in Turkey or Persia, and for this reason we are better able to endure the increased hardships. A plate of sliced meat stewed with vegetables and served with a pungent sauce, sliced radishes and onions, with vinegar, two loaves of Chinese brown, or steamed bread, and a pot of tea would usually cost us about 3 1/2 cents apiece. Everything in China is divided so that it can be eaten with the chopsticks. These we at length learned to manipulate with sufficient dexterity to pick up a dove's egg, the highest attainment in the chopstick art. The Chinese have rather a sour than a sweet tooth. Sugar is rarely used in anything, and never in tea. The steeped tea flowers, which the higher classes use, are really more tasty without it.—Century.

A Town With No Lawyers. In the town of Oberweisenthal, in Saxony, disputes between the inhabitants are so rare that there is no room for a lawyer. A Leipzig merchant, who applied to the tribunal at Oberweisenthal for the address of a counsel, received the following reply: "We have the honor to inform you that there is no advocate here, but the barber, Fritz Biel, represents the interests of litigants in civil cases."

MAN EATERS OF THE PACIFIC: Sharks That Are the Terror of the California Coast.

The man-eater shark as taken on the Pacific coast is known only as a man-eater. The shark is known as a man-eater, too cowardly to attack even a yellow dog. The 34-foot shark captured by some fishermen of the trade man-eater variety (Carcharodon carcharias) seemed brave enough and savage enough to attack anything within its reach. This monster's mouth was wide, the teeth long and sharp, with an inward incline. The stomach would hold a full grown man easily and a good deal besides. The fish became entangled in a net off Point Loma. Two boats attacked the vicious creature and finally succeeded in punching an iron into its vitals. The side of one boat was stayed in by a blow forcible enough to knock one fisherman overboard.

These sharks have been known to attack a small boat, upset it, and eat the carman. A man-eater over 42 feet long has been reported below San Diego. The natives are said to live in fear of this awful fish, which already has the record of having eaten six men. It has been shot frequently. The water about it has been discolored with blood. Yet the shark still lives. The tiger shark is as ferocious as the man-eater. Another large shark hovers about the basking shark. It is taken measuring 13 to 40 feet in length. The skin of one 32 feet long is at Stanford University museum. This skin alone weighs over 1,500 pounds, while the shark's liver produced 180 gallons of oil. These sharks, however, are sluggish, lazy and do not bite people. Their gill rakers are on the whole small. When entangled in a net, they frequently suffocate, as the net restricts the gills.

California fishermen do not consider five-foot sharks of much account when from San Diego wharves black sea bass are caught to eight feet long weigh 300 to 500 pounds. Such fish are common. They are taken on shark hooks and chumlines. When hooked, the fish is allowed to swim about the bay, towing a two-inch plank. When he is exhausted, the line is hauled in, and the fish killed with an ax.—New York Tribune.

THE HUMAN LEG. Scientific Prediction That It Will Determine Greatly in Future Generations.

Our Paris correspondent writes: A French caricaturist has been showing us what he thinks will come to in a few generations. The future "veloce man" is from the hips up like the definition of a line—length, without breadth. Below the belt he is swollen out with hard flesh and muscles, and the calves are monstrously big. Professor Yung of the Geneva university, on the other hand, believes that the time is coming when human beings will have no legs to speak of. What with cycling, the great use of elevators, and the use of automobiles, he says, we are about to lose our feet and legs. It is fast getting on to electrical bicycles and radder balloons. The tendency is to throw all the muscular activity into the hands and arms. Professor Yung believes that the future human creature will have the most rudimentary of other limbs and arms of great length.

Teeth will probably be dwarfed also by the constant use of soft foods that need not be chewed, but as the march of intellect will increase, the brain will develop. Of course, the standards of beauty with these anatomical changes will alter. When they do, a person with a set of teeth such as would now excite the admiration of a dentist would almost seem a beast of prey.—London News.

FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL, NEW YORK, Nov. 6, 1894. Hon. J. W. Babcock, Chairman Republican Committee, Washington, D. C.:

I heartily congratulate you on the result of your labors. Our victory is perfect and complete from Maine to California. The result in New York is the grandest victory of all. We have laid this day a solid foundation upon which to erect in 1896 the structure of national victory for protection and prosperity.

non-partisan government would be carried out so far as he was concerned. All the gentlemen who favored such government who had been in the habit of voting the Democratic ticket, he said, would be just as welcome at his office as any others. Moreover, he would always be willing to hear their advice. If he did not do what they considered right, he wanted them to come and tell him so, as he always wished to have such things said to him personally. Three cheers for the mayor-elect were then given by his audience with great vehemence, and Colonel Strong departed.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringing by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.
