CONNAUGHT.

GALWAY.

The Oughterard Board of Guardians, at its last meeting, passed a strong resolution upon the subject of the partial failure of the potato crop in the West, and the consequent duty cast upon the Executive Government to take prompt and effective measures in the matter. Father Conroy, the respected pastor of Kilanin, a cold, barren district extending from the shore of Lough Corrib to the confines of Oughterard, has published a letter in which he states that the present necessities there should be met by effective action by the Congested District Board and Parliament making provision, in the early Spring for supplying good seed potatoes. Some works of great public utility for the district are being urged on the attention of the Congested Districts Board, one of these being the construction of a causeway and bridge across Lough Corrib, at Knock Ferry, a point at which the lake narrows to a few yards of shallow water. The project would connect West Galway with South Mayo, and would bring the Connemara Railway within an easy drive of Ballinrobe Railway Terminus. This important project is no new idea, the Government having been frequently approached upon it, hertofore.

LEITRIM.

At the last meeting of the Mohill Board of Guardians, a letter was read from a farmer named Felix Kelleher, calling the attention of the Board to the imminent peril of the farmers and poor people through the failure of the potato crop in Mohill district, and stating that he had been requested by the people to lay the facts before them. They had been wholly deprived of potatoes for the previous month, and the farmers and laborers were on the verge of pauperism. They called on the Guardians to bring their case before the Congested Districts Board, to use their influence to get public works opened, to aid the farmers in getting a seed grant, and to ask the landlords for reductions in rent. After a long discussion it was decided to call a special meeting to settle the matter.

MAYO.

A narrow escape from a serious accident took place in the 'Soup Yard,' Ballina, which is converted now into a steam saw-mill, by Arthur Muffeny. On one of the lofts, Mr. Muffeny had deposited sixty or seventy tons of bran. The floor was in itself not sufficient to stand the test, the uprights being partly rotten. While Mr. Muffeny was quitting the place in the evening the whole structure came down with a crash, the boards splitting in the centre as if they had been cut by a saw.

ROSCOMMON.

Mr. J. Vaughan, Athlone, attended at Enfield to receive the rents due on the Keller and Cartron estate of Mr. E. Hughes, ex-High Sheriff, of Roscommon. He granted a reduction of 3s. in the pound, to the tenants on the judicial rent.

On the Feast of the Presentation the impressive ceremony of conferring the black veil and the other insignia of a professed nun of the Presentation Order took place in the chapel of the convent of the Carlow community. The young lady who made her final vows was Miss Ellie O'Rorke (in religion Sister Xavier), daughter of Mr William O'Rorke, Ballynock, county Carlow. The Most Rev. Dr. Comerford, Coadjutor Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin, officiated at the ceremony.

DUBLIN.

Mr. McSheehy, Law Agent to the Dublin Corporation, has, at the request of that body, withdrawn his recently tendered resignation. It is understood that he will retain office for another twelve months.

The body of Captain Landy, of Skerries, master of the schooner Village Belle was found floating in the river Liffey, near Sir John Rogerson's quay. He had been missing from Kingstown, where his vessel was lying.

A man named Edward Taney, a laborer employed at the gasworks, Great Brunswick street, Dublin, was caught between two coal trains and seriously injured. He was taken to Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, where he died. An inquest was held on the remains, and a verdict of accidental death was returned.

KILDARE.

In the Queen's Bench Court, No. 1 (before Mr. Justice Johnson) the case of the Queen v. Boughton was called. The prisoner, Thomas Boughton, a gamekeeper on the Clongorey estate, is in custody on the charge of the wilful murder of Laurence Fox. The case had been removed from the county Kildare into the Queen's Bench Division by writ of certiorari, and it was now to be tried, by order of the Queen's Bench Division, as a court record in the county of the city of Dublin. Justice Johnson fixed the next sitting of the court, in Queen's Bench No. 2, for the hearing of the case, and stated that a large attendance of jurors would be required, as there was a likelihood of many challenges being made.

KILKENNY.

The recent election to the Aldermanship of St. Canice's Ward, Kilkenny, is in dispute. Alderman Rowan claims 64 votes, as against Mr. Purcell's 63, and the Returning Officer declared that it was 64 all, and gave his casting vote in favor of Mr. Purcell. Alderman Rowan has instructed his solicitor to lodge a petition against the election, which will now be decided by the Queen's Bench.

A man named Patrick Breen, residing in John street, Wexford, committed suicide recently. For some months past Breen had been treated at the County Wexford Infirmary for heart disease, but a few days ago he was removed to the Workhouse Hospital. He left the hospital, and proceeded home where he remained for about two hours. He then went up stairs and cut his throat. Medical aid was at once called but nothing could be done to save the life of the wretched man. He died in great agony twenty minutes after he committed the deed.

MUNSTER.

CLARE.

In the Probate Court, Dublin, the case of Considine v. Rickards came on for hearing. The action was one brought to establish the will, dated 8th August 1890, of the late William Rickards, who had carried on business in Mill street, Ennis, and who died at an advanced age in the month of June, '91. Probate of the will was granted in the same year, in common form, and now, owing to an allegation that an alternation was made in the will, by one of the legatees, it was sought to prove it in solemn form. The deceased had started business in Ennis as a wool and skin merchant, had amassed considerable wealth before his death, and was the owner of some house property in the town of Ennis. At his death the testator had surviving him three daughters, who are he plaintiffs in the present action, and one son, and also the children of a daughter who predeceased him. The son, William Rickards, is the defendant in the suit, and alleged that he was left in his father's will an annuity of £150 a year, but the figure was altered subsequent to his father's death so as to reduce his annuity to £100 a year. He now sought to have the will established with what he declared was the original figure in it. The court took the papers, and reserved its decision.

A coroner's inquest has been held at the Killarney Workhouse, on the body of an infant found buried, in a box, on the previous evening, at the side of the railroad on the Tralee branch. The medical testimony showed that the child had been born dead, and a verdict accordingly was returned.

LIMERICK

The threatened strike amongst the employees of the Great Southern and Western Railway, for an increase of wages, has been put off to a future date, owing to strong appeals made by influential public men, as, at this season, it would cause great inconvenience and loss to the general public, as well as the country at large.

TIPPERARY.

The outbreak of typhoid fever in the Nenagh Constabulary Barracks, has claimed one victim. Of the four constables, Kelly, Shevlin, O'Neill, and Follis, confined to hospital, the latter, a fine young man belonging to Cork, and only two and a half years connected with the force, died recently. The other three men are seriously ill, Constable Shevlin being very prostrate. Extreme sorrow has been occasioned by the death of Constable Follis, who was much esteemed. His remains were conveyed by train to his native place, and were accompanied to the railway station by an immense funeral cortege.

At the Belfast Custody Court, Charles Smith, Moore White, and William Lowther were returned for trial on a charge of defrauding Messrs. McElderry and Pollock, of Ballymoney, of forty bags of coal, and Messrs. Stoker Bros., of Cork, of a quantity of butter firkins. The accused opened an office in Belfast, and sought agencies from the firm mentioned.

In the Probate Court, Dublin, (before Judge Warren), in the matter of the goods of John F. Anderson—Mr. T. Macaulay Fitzgibbon, on the part of Thomas Anderson, a railway employe in America, and a brother of the deceased, John F. Anderson, applied for letters of administration of the goods of the deceased, J. F. Anderson, who died intestate on the 11th December, 1893, was possessed of a farm in the county of Antrim, and other property also. His other next-of-kin were two sisters, Mrs. Louisa Davison and Mrs. Olivia Thompson, both of Belfast, and the former claimed that the grant of administration should be made to her. Judge Warren granted letters to Thomas Anderson.

The ladies received were Miss Maguire of Munnville House, Lisnaskea (in religion Sister Mary Francis de Sales); Miss M. Henry, Enniskillen (in religion Sister Mary John Berchmans); and Miss Quinn, Cork (in religion Sister Mary Faucha). The Most Rev. Dr. Owens assisted by the Ven. Archdeacon Smollen, Enniskillen, and the Rev. P. McDonnell, Adm., Monaghan. The Bishop preached an eloquent and impressive sermon on the function in which he was engaged.

In the Bankrupt Court, Dublin, recently (before Judge Boyd), the case of John Armstrong came up. The bankrupt was a publican at Lisnakea. On the court messenger coming to take charge of his premises, the bankrupt told him that he had money in his pocket, and that he would not give it to him. The bankrupt was now examined, and stated that at the time he spoke to the messenger he had only £10 in his possession, and that it belonged to his brother. The case was adjourned.

TYRONE.

A sad accident took place recently in a farmhouse in Kyllybracky, about a mile from Dungannon. A girl, about nineteen years of age, named Josephine Caldwell, residing with her father, was subject to epileptic fits, and while doing some domestic work, took one of these fits and fell into the fire. Her father, who has been totally blind for some years, and is an invalid, on becoming aware of her position, rescued her, sustaining severe injuries himself while doing so. On hearing his cries some of the neighbors came to their assistance, and Dr. Sugars was sent for. On his arrival he had both sufferers removed to the Union Hospital. The daughter was found to be very severely burned, and the father much injured in his hands.
