Auburn.

The big trunk sewer to drain the Second, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth wards will undoubtedly go through despite the opposition at first offered. It will be the largest in the city when completed.

The representation of the stable at Bethlehem still attracts a number of visitors to St. Mary's church. The stable is indeed a handsome one the figures being arranged in a most natural and life like manner and the surrounding streets, even to the star in the distance, are arranged in an artistic manner.

At last Auburn is to have an electric road that will be worthy of the name. For some time past negotiations have been under way between a New York firm and the Auburn company and now the plant and cable system is to be transferred to the new concern which proposes to extend branches through different parts of the city, and what is still more acceptable give us rapid transit, something badly needed. One of the proposed branches will traverse Genesee avenue directly, connecting the present Seymour street, and over this branch Auburnians are indulging in some pretty exciting times. The residents of Genesee street or rather a few are strenuously objecting to the passage of the road. Their opposition will not avail much. In connection with the city system a road will be built to Skaneateles and another to Port Byron, placing those two villages 14 miles apart in close connection.

Thomas E. Shea, and company, by far the finest repertoire company ever seen at Auburn is in the town this week.

Canandaigua.

Mrs. Wm. Carr, of Auburn, visited here last week.

Several ladies and gentlemen from out of town visited the Charity Ball.

Too much praise cannot be given to the Sisters for the drilling for that entertainment. The most popular feature was the song and dance given by Miss Pauline Sayles.

The fair for the St. Mary's orphans was very nice, and the entertainment given by the school children was a grand success.

The four young ladies who had charge of the lunch table did nicely. Miss Hattie Young, the most popular young lady in the parish received $67 for the lunch. Miss Catherine Walsh received $46. Miss Doris Griffith $37 for the table, and Miss Morn Gibbins received $37. Miss Cora Griffith received the ring.

Miss Catherine Rochford has returned to Rochester, after a short stay with her parents.

St. Read.

So much has transpired among the good people of our parish, including many Catholics and New Years greetings, that we feel obliged to note some of the events:

The church was very comfortable, the altar was handsomely trimmed with crimson and carmine roses, lilies and carnations, the altars of the Blessed Virgin and St. Joseph were also nicely trimmed. All the masses during the Feast of Christmas and New Years took place at half past ten. The music by the choir was very appropriate and most skillfully conducted, for which the choir deserves much credit, our venerable pastor was in good spirit and showed much activity. He wished his good people many happy New Years and bestowed on them his blessing. In return they wished him the same and that he be spared to wish them the same again. Now as the Holy Season of Christmas and New Years has passed, once more our young people are planning and making arrangements to hold some entertainments among the rural districts and towns before the Holy Season of Lent reaches them. We wish them a jolly time, and we still further hope that they may maintain the true spirit of their Christian faith everywhere.

Fairport.

John Dwyer of Rochester, spent Sunday with his parents.

Mr. Thomas Burns is to be congratulated upon being the winner of the handsome gold headed cane, in the contest, which was held at the festival New Year's Eve.

AT NAZARETH.

PROFESSION AND RECEPTION LAST SATURDAY.

On Saturday the 5th, last, long before the hour appointed, friends and relatives from far and near began to throng the elegant new chapel of Nazareth Convent, to witness the ceremony of religious profession and reception.

Places in the sanctuary were occupied by St. Rev. E. J. McQuaid, D. D., who officiated on the occasion; Very Rev. J. F. O'Hare, D. D., V. G. Rev. Thomas Hendrick, Rev. J. P. Kierman, Rev. Coleman O'Loughlin, Rev. A. Brown, D. D., Rev. J. Cook, O. S. B., Rev. J. McGrath, of Auburn, Rev. F. O'Hara, Rev. T. Hickey, of Moravia, Rev. F. Klander, O. S. B., Rev. H. Otterbier, O. S. B.

The sanctuary and side altars with brilliant electric illuminations, and elegant palms and fern decorations, presented a beautiful appearance. The music on the occasion was excellent, the magnificent new organ aided by the violins, brought out the vocal selections with the finest effect.

The procession filed into the main aisle at 8 o'clock, in the following order:—Ours bearer, Miss Margaret Byrne, Chicago, Ill., basket bearer, Misses Rose and Angela Byrne, Chicago, Ill., Miss Mary Taylor, Auburn, Miss Augusta Hawley, Syracuse, Miss Helen Driscoll, Auburn, Miss Marie Curran, Rochester. These were followed by the eleven postulants in belted attire, who knelt at the railing while the choir sang the "Veni Creator." After the prescribed formula of reception, the newly received withdrew to their places, and two novices made their first vows for one year. These were Sister Agnes Miriam Golden and Sister Hubertine Turner.

Following are the names of the newly received:

Alice Bernhardt, of Philadelphia, Penn., in religion Sister America. Mary Lannan, Prince Edward Island, in religion Sister Felicia. Alice Walsh, Rochester, N. Y., in religion Sister Raymond. Katherine Olanoy, Canandaigua, N. Y., Sister Imma. Margaret Murphy, Seneca Falls, N. Y., Sister Leonilla. Mary G. Byrne, Rochester, N. Y., Sister Rose Madeline. Anna Stapp, Rochester, N. Y., Sister Innocentia. Agnes Wall, Rochester, N. Y., Sister Firmila. Katherine Smyth, Auburn, N. Y., Sister Clement. Mary O. Byrne, Chicago, Ill., Sister St. Cecilia. Margaret Ibbotson, Auburn, N. Y., Sister Josephine. An impressive discourse on the duties and responsibilities of the religious life was delivered by the St. Rev. Bishop, who pictured in clearest language the trials and the triumphs awaiting the faithful followers of the Crucified.

His Lordship then celebrated Mass, the choir giving several fine selections, and the morning ceremony concluded by the rendition of the Gregorian "Te Deum laudamus." The large concourse of friends then withdrew from the chapel, and an informal reception was held, and many congratulations addressed to the young religious.
