A Tribute to Dr. Freeman's Skill!

By a Well-Known Business Man
Mr. T. A. Widmer the well-known grocer formerly in business on Plymouth ave., and now connected with the Armour Packing Co., residing at 359 State st., was until three years ago a sufferer from Catarrh and Dyspepsia resulting from it. Many days during his business career as a grocer was unable to wait upon his customers. Intense headaches, and dizzy spells accompanied by vomiting, distress after meals, bloating and shortness of breath, were his almost constant companions. All these distressing symptoms were the result of Catarrh whose secretions constantly dropped from the head into the throat. He was obliged to hawk and spit continually in an effort to raise this thick tough slime. The throat became sore and the chest painful. His lungs also became affected and the cough was persistent and annoying. He lost flesh, strength and ambition rapidly. At this point he began treatment with Doctor Freeman at his Institute, 505 Franklin st., and in a few weeks he was a well man, and has remained so for a period of three years which time is sufficient to prove that Dr. Freeman does cure Catarrh, Dyspepsia and other Chronic diseases, and that his cures are permanent, which cannot be said of any other system of treatment.
Dr. Freeman's charges are low and in case he fails to cure you he will refund all money paid him. What fairer proposition could be made?
Do not waste money trying uncertain remedies and unreliable doctors but call at once on Dr. Freeman 505 Franklin st.

STORY OF A ROSARY.

How an Irishwoman's Beads Converted a Family.
By Magdalen Rook.

Here is a story of Lady Rook's conversion, just as Father Conway, a missionary of twenty-five years' experience, tells it:
I had just returned to London after ten years' experience of colonial life, and while giving a mission there I met Father H— He was a convert, young, of noble family, yet he and I became remarkably good friends in a short time.

We were walking together one spring morning in the direction of Kensington when Father H— said:
"I have to call on Lady R—. Will you come with me?"
I went with him, and in a few minutes I was introduced to a stately, pleasant-voiced lady, who greeted me very kindly.

"Now," and Father Conway smiled a little, "I am not in the habit of starting at ladies, but I suppose I did so then, for after a few minutes Lady R— remarked with a smile:
"Father, you seem to be admiring some of my jewels."
"No, indeed, your ladyship," I responded, "but I am wondering very much why you wear an Irish bog oak Rosary among your gems."
"Oh," the lady cried eagerly, "that's the missionary that converted me and many others."
I looked my surprise.

"Yes, may I tell you the story? It is not very long."
"It will give me great pleasure to hear it," I replied, and Lady R— commenced:
"You must know that the R— family were amongst the most bigoted, known, and my ideas concerning a religion were certainly vague. Ignorance and idolatry were among their failings. I had been taught, and both my husband and myself were careful not to allow a Catholic into our service or about our children. Thus, I suppose, became known, and many stories false and mischievous found their way to our ears. One day my maid entered in some excitement my room where I was.

"Oh! your ladyship, look what I have found!"
"What is it?"
"It is one of those horrid Popish idols," and she held forth these very beads you see.
"Really; and where did you find it?"
"At the lodge gate, and Mrs. Parr says it belongs to an old Irishwoman who comes each day to sell water-cresses."
"I carried the Rosary to the drawing-room, where Lord R— and his youngest daughter were, and while we were laughing over the superstitions and practices of Rome some callers were announced. The Rosary was duly inspected, and at last my young sister-in-law exclaimed:
"Let us have the old woman up to-morrow, Letty; it will be such fun."
I assented readily to Clara's whim, and after some slight demur my husband gave his consent. The two ladies were invited to witness the scene we expected to enjoy, and one of the servants was instructed to bring the old woman to the house from the lodge in the morning.

"Well, at an unusually early hour we were all again assembled. Harry had entered completely into the spirit of the fun, but I was in my heart thinking how easily we might convert the poor ignorant creature.
"Here she comes," my husband cried, and we crowded to the window to see a small, tidy-looking old woman walking beside our tall footman, and evidently talking and protesting vigorously.
"As! what does the lady want with me?" we heard her exclaim, and a gurgling sound round the hall where the servants were collected.
The footman opened the door. He had brought the old woman so far, but further she would not come.
"Go in there to that grand place with my muddy boots, is it? Bedad! I won't then. Sure the lady can come here, and say whatever she has to say."
"No, no, my good woman, come in," I said, advancing to the door. "We don't wish to harm you."
She made an old-fashioned courtesy. "Harm me! Sure what would any one harm me for?"
"Certainly not; but come in."
With some persuasion she did so, and then I said—
"My good woman, you have lost something."
"Troth, then, an' 'tis little Molly Feenan has to lose, ma'am."
"Oh, but you have. You have lost your God."
"Lost my God! The good God Almighty forbid! An' what do you mean at all?"

The education of the child is the foundation of a nation, which must be built on a firm and enduring basis. The child's mind is like a blank page, and it is the duty of the parent and the teacher to write upon it the principles of truth and justice. The child's character is like a flower, and it is the duty of the parent and the teacher to nurture it with the waters of wisdom and grace. The child's future is like a path, and it is the duty of the parent and the teacher to guide it towards the light of knowledge and virtue.
