

FATHER KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

For the Effects of La Grippe.

Chicago, March, 1899.

One of our sisters suffered from weakness of the nerves in the head since she had in grippe four years ago. She didn't sleep more than half or one hour, and sometimes not at all at night; she had also difficulty in breathing so that she didn't expect to live; she tried different medicines for about a year without any relief, but after she took Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic her health was restored and she enjoys good sleep again.

To All Singers.

The most wonderful invention of the age, and the first of its kind is the YOGT VOCALIZER. It is used in holding the mouth open in a gawping position, which makes singing easy, improves the tone, no matter how weak, the voice may be, and does not in any way interfere with pronunciation. Those wishing to try it call at Studio, Room 403 Cox Building, or send for Circular.

$100.00 Given Away Every Month

to the person submitting the most original invention during the preceding month.

A Chance for Practical Genius.

The Press Claims Company, of Washington, D. C., has adopted a unique method of encouraging American inventors. Every month it makes an award of one hundred dollars in cash to the inventor having the most meritorious invention, who may apply for a patent upon the same through the medium of this great combination of American newspapers effected for the protection of the American people against unscrupulous patent attorneys and claim agents at Washington. Three awards have been made already, one to C. L. Jordan, of Philadelphia, Miss., one to J. H. Rogers, of Philadelphia, and the third to E. O. DeVault, of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. DeVault lives at No. 1429 S. Juniper street, in the City of Brotherly Love, and his device which receives the award of merit for the current calendar month, is a car fender, simple in construction, practical in operation, and no doubt of great commercial value. The Press Claims Company sends out an interesting little book called "Hints to Inventors" which the readers of this paper who are interested in obtaining patents would do well to secure. They can be obtained gratuitously by the readers of this paper who mention that fact, and who enclose a clipping of any advertisement of the company which may appear therein. Backed up, as its attorneys are, by the influence of nearly two thousand of the most potent papers of the country, the Press Claims Company is now in a position to secure prompt and speedy justice for all classes of claimants against the General Government, and the readers of this paper who have this class of claims to prosecute, would do well to communicate with Philip W. Avirett, Managing Attorney of the Company, 618 F. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

THE PARIS BOULEVARDS.

A Kaleidoscopic View of Life to Be Found Nowhere Else.

In no other streets in the wide world can one see such varied types as on the grand boulevards of Paris. Why, a trip through them, on top of an omnibus, from the Bastille to the Madeleine—and it takes perhaps an hour—will give you a kaleidoscopic view of life to be found nowhere else. At the Bastille, the Boulevard des Filles du Calvaire and du Temple, you meet the laboring classes, on Sundays in their "bestest best" and on weekdays in white blouses and cotton jackets. Beyond the Place de la Republique the picture changes. Here are the little merchants and shopkeepers and some large ones too. Farther on, up near Rue Vivienne, now blood enters this great artery of Paris—it is tinged with a golden sheen, for we are in the heart of the exchange, among brokers and counsellors—aye, among just such types as Zola drew from for his book entitled "Money."

Now the shops are becoming more gay and beautiful, the cafes more elegant, and the stent voices of Paris make its joys even more alluring and more tempting. To appreciate it you must do more than view it from an outsider's standpoint. You must take part in it, live in it, and for the time being forget that you ever were anything but a confirmed and hardened boulevardier.

There, follow my advice, and I will guarantee that you will see Paris as Paris is and not as tourists see or describe it. Sit down with me at the terrace of yonder cafe and watch the stream of humanity as it flows by. What a cosmopolitan throng! Rich and poor, merchants and clerks, unmistakable Britishers, blasé journalists, fetching looking actresses, chic little Parisiennes of the petite bourgeoisie, newsboys and beggars—aye, and Americans, too—all "touching elbows," as the French say. Is it not daisy to look upon, in its whirling activity, its abandoned merrymaking?

See that young exquisite with pointed patent leather boots? Poor fellow! He has mislaid his brain and might find it there. He is one of the society men of the boulevard.—F. R. Layland in Home and Country.

COOK OPERA HOUSE.

At the Cook Opera House on Monday, April 22nd, for three nights and Monday and Wednesday Matinee, Milton Nobles will appear on Monday Matinee and night, "From Sire to Son." Tuesday night and Wednesday Matinee "Love and Law" and Wednesday night "The Phoenix."

That Mr. Nobles is an actor of rare ability has been conceded by press and public. One striking and original feature of from "Sire to Son" is a sudden loss of speech which has been ascribed as a curse from "Sire to Son." "Love and Law" is a melo-drama of today, depicting life in lower New York.

Thursday, April 25th, three nights and Saturday Matinee, Lillian Lewis will appear at the Cook Opera House on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday Matinee, "She Couldn't Marry Three."

"She Couldn't Marry Three," the production in which Miss Kennedy produces the subjects of three men's affections, as Bess, the little fisher maiden Her portrayal is excellent, and from her appearance upon the stage the audience became interested and are entertained. The support rendered her by the members of the company is very good, and many times during the presentation of this amusing play the audience is filled with joy and laughter. The stage sitting, scenery, etc., were features which added to the interest of the entertainment. The plot is simple, yet of such a nature as to hold the closest of attention.

ACADEMY

Next week we are to have as an attraction at the Academy of Music, the Hopkins Trans-Oceanic Star Specialty Company. Many attempts have been made to introduce vaudeville entertainments in high class theatres by such companies as Herma Transatlantic and the Boston Howard Athenaeum Specialty Company, but they were forced to give up the idea, on account of not having the idea of what high class vaudeville meant, thus leaving the entire field to Manager Hopkins, and we can safely say that this will be the only vaudeville entertainment seen in Rochester this season. The following artists will be seen: Gertie Cochran, the infant prodigy; Fulgore, the world's great transfigurator; Prof. DeBersell, the Parisian lighting modeler in clay; Smith & Fuller, musical novelties; The Midgley, styled the loose-jointed man and the little girl; Tom Mack, monologue artist; Clayton, Jenkins & Jasper, burlesque comedians; The Donasettas, England's most famous acrobats; Burt Jordan, champion buck and fat foot dancer of the world, and the great La Petite chanteuse, Nettie Decoursey.

WONDERLAND

At the Wonderland this week a first class bill of attractions is offered. The following artists will appear: Shayne & Worden, Pearl Inman, Darc Bros. and Brencne and Wheeler.

GERMAN ARMY MARRIAGE.

Officers May Not Wed Without the Consent of Their Superiors.

No German officer can marry without the consent of his colonel, according to Poultony Bigelow in "The Borderland of Czar and Kaiser," and this consent can be obtained only after a careful inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding the proposed alliance. First, is the young lady suitable for association with the wives of the other officers? Second, will the bridegroom be able to live respectably and bring up his family? Third, are his means, or those of his wife, invested in proper securities, so that he is not liable to be expelled by reason of bankruptcy? The extraordinary social advantages enjoyed by the German officer and the pecuniary responsibility growing naturally from such advantages make his small pay, which amounts only to about $1 a day in case of a first lieutenant, appear even smaller than it is.

An American lady who had been spending a winter in Dresden told Mr. Bigelow that all the bachelors of the garrison were furnished with a list of marriageable women, each name ornamented with the property she might be expected to inherit. This no doubt was a mistake on her part, but it is a very common one. German officers stationed in desirable towns are very apt to get into debt and have to choose between leaving the army in disgrace or marrying a rich girl.

Mr. Bigelow adds: "From my own experience in Germany the officers would appear to have married for love and to be happy in consequence," and yet "the number of those who get into debt and fall to secure a rich wife is considerable, although it makes no particular ripple in the surface. Such men simply disappear and turn up sooner or later in America, where they take employment as coachmen, waiters, teachers or instructors in riding schools. The change of life is very violent and is adopted only as preferable to suicide."

TOWER HILL.

The Most Important Eminence and Most Notable Spot in All London.

Tower hill is perhaps both the most important eminence and the most notable spot in all the metropolis. Few of us, as we pass it on a steamer or cross it on our route to the Ankerwerke Package, at the commencement of our autumnal holiday, think what great persons have quietly lived there, and what others, equally great, have wept and died upon it. To it, or rather to Great Tower street, came Rochester to pursue his trade as an Italian fortune teller, while the bedridden Buckingham often walked thither in order to consult a conjurer, a shrewd, farseeing rogue, who, when Felton bought at the cutler's shop on the summit of the hill for a shilling the knife with which he killed the duke's father, may have known for what purpose it was required.

William Penn was born on this hill in a house close to London wall. Forty-four years later—that is, in A. D. 1688—a poor lay dead, choked by a crust which starvation had urged him to devour too greedily, in an upper room of the Bull tavern. This was the ill fated Oway. At the time when the son of the muses lay dead, Betterton, the celebrated founder of the stage after the restoration, was wringing tears from the eyes of the public, not for the famished dead, but at his own notorious sorrows in "Venice Preserved."

It was in Great Tower street that Peter the Great used to pass his evenings drinking hot pepper and brandy with his boon companion, Lord Czarmerthen. In the neighborhood of Little Tower street, which can scarcely be supposed to have been inspiring, Thomson composed his "Summer." In Grub street, the supposed lurking place of many a mute, inglorious Milton, much hack literary work was effected, none of which has survived the touch of time's destroying hand.
