GRESHAM LAID AT REST.

Funeral Services Over the Remains of the Dead Secretary.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Without ostentation, but with the military and civic accompaniments which ran even with his achievements as a soldier, judge and statesman, the remains of Walter Quinton Gresham, general in the Union armies, judge of the federal courts and secretary of state of the United States, were temporarily laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery.

The brief time at command after the decision as to the time and place of burial left little time for elaborate preparations for funeral honors to the dead statesman.

At Fordham on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad the special funeral train was switched to the tracks of the Illinois Central, arriving at Sixty-third street at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The procession was formed, headed by the escort of honor, consisting of the troops of all arms from Fort Sheridan. These were followed by the honorary pall bearers and next came the funeral car with the active pall bearers walking on either side. Next rode the members of the late secretary's family and the presidential party and the rear of the cortege was brought up by the members of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army of the Republic veterans, judges of the courts state and municipal officers, civic societies and citizens.

The entire line of march was lined with people who respectfully bared their heads as the cortege passed.

Arrived at the cemetery chapel, the casket was removed from the funeral car and borne within by eight sergeants of marines. The services conducted by Rev. S. J. McPherson of the Second Presbyterian church were impressive but simple, consisting merely of scriptural readings, a hymn by the choir and prayer. At their conclusion the remains were temporarily deposited in the receiving vault of the cemetery. No salute was fired, the ceremonies concluding with "taps."

The train had been held at Sixty-third street and the presidential party returned to and at once started on the return trip to Washington.

OLNEY SUCCEEDS GRESHAM.

The Attorney General Selected For Secretary of State.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—There is no longer any reasonable doubt but that the president has fully determined to ask Attorney General Olney to accept the state department portfolio. While this is an undoubted fact, it is also certain that the president has not even intimated to Mr. Olney that this was his purpose.

To other members of his cabinet, however, it is learned that he has stated in substance that he should ask Mr. Olney to accept the place, and that he was delaying the public announcement in order that he might at the same time name a successor to Mr. Olney as attorney general.

Persons in a position to know what the president's purposes are anticipate an early announcement of Mr. Olney's appointment, and probably that of his successor as attorney general.

Richard Olney, who is now in all probability to be advanced to the first place in President Cleveland's cabinet, has won this distinction by the able service he has thus far rendered the president on all the more important questions that have engaged public attention since the present administration began.

Up to the time of Mr. Olney's first entering the cabinet he had been content to remain in private life, and although recognized as one of the foremost lawyers in New England, he had taken little or no part in party politics and was not widely known among public men.

The brilliancy of his legal attainments and the accuracy of his judgment soon led the president to trust Attorney General Olney's advice on important questions.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The treasury officials are now confident that the close of the fiscal year one month hence will show a deficit of not more than $44,000,000 and possibly not more than $43,000,000, which is at least $5,000,000 less than was predicted only a few weeks ago and $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 less than the present figures. It is shown that the pension payments during June will be at least $2,500,000 less than for May and that the payments on account of interest will also be reduced $150,000 with an increase from the internal revenue of $8,000,000 on account of receipts from special liquor, tobacco and oleomargarine licenses which must be paid before July 1 and very material reductions in pension and interest payments, it is confidently expected that next month will show a small surplus with the deficit further reduced to at least $44,000,000. The month of July, however, is likely to see the deficit increased by at least $10,000,000 as the month's interest payments will aggregate about $7,000,000.

Disbursements in every branch of the government are usually much heavier in July than in any other month, so that without the receipts are greatly increased the deficit on Aug. 1 next will not likely fall much short of $55,000,000 for the 13 months.

Professional Firebug Confesses.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Morris Schoenhols, who is under arrest charged with arson, has made a confession to the police which shows that the prisoner was one of an organized band of "firebugs." Schoenhols, it is said, confessed that he had fired at least half a dozen houses in this city and Brooklyn for the insurance. He said he was employed to do the work by fire adjusters, and he is reported to have given the names of the latter to the police. Many arrests are expected to follow Schoenhols's disclosure.

Water Famine at Atlanta.

ATLANTA, June 3.—This city is suffering from the worst water famine in its history. Yesterday morning the big water main, carrying the city's entire supply, broke and since then the pipes have been dry. Hotels and other large consumers hauled water in improvised carts, while private families resorted to the long unused wells. The city is left completely without fire protection and there is great apprehension lest a serious conflagration ensue.

Suspected of Culver's Murder.

ALBION, N. Y., June 1.—A man giving the name of Peter Oneth has been placed in jail here. The officials suspect him of being the murderer of Roy Culver of Clyde, whose poisoned body was found in the river recently.

Celebrated Inventor Expires.

GALESBURG, Ill., June 3.—George W. Brown, inventor of the corn planter, died here, aged 79 years. He invented the planter in 1858.

FLAME SWEPT FORESTS

Entire North Pennsylvania Oil Fields Ablaze.

WHOLE VILLAGES WIPED OUT.

Oil Property and Timber Lands Damaged to the Extent of Millions—Several Men Missing and May Have Perished—Fire Still Spreading.

BRADFORD, Pa., June 4.—The woods about Ormsby are on fire and a number of oil rigs have been destroyed. All communication has been cut off. Fires are reported along the New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad as far as Allegheny, N. Y.

On the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg road at Dent, the property of the Emery Oil company is threatened. Oil rigs all through that section have been burned as well as millions of feet of standing timber. The most fear is felt at Rutherford Run, where 1,000 pounds of nitroglycerine is stored. Coon Run, a small settlement 10 miles south of here in the heart of the oil fields, has been wiped off the face of the earth. People had to flee for their lives and great excitement prevailed. The flames came so suddenly that many women and children were panic-stricken and became unable to move and had to be carried to places of safety in the clearings.

Passengers who arrived here over the Pittsburg and Western road say the woods for 10 miles in the oil field is a roaring mass of flames.

Conductor Tanks says the people on the oil leases are fleeing for safety, but the fire spread so quickly that he cannot see how all of them could have been saved. So far as reported only several oil pumpers are reported missing.

A telephone message via Olean, N. Y., from Knapp's Creek, says the leases of Messrs. Burns, Russell and Curtis have been fire swept and that the rigs are destroyed.

Several dwelling houses have burned and should any wind arise it will likely carry the flames to Knapp's Creek and destroy the town. Knapp's Creek is located midway in the mountains, between Bradford and Olean, on the Western, New York and Pennsylvania railroad, and has a population of 1,000.

Telephone messages state that fire is raging in the oil field near here, and great damage has been done.

At the state line on the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad seven dwellings, together with their contents and a large amount of lumber, have been consumed.

A lumber camp composed of seven dwellings at Oil Valley junction was destroyed, together with thousands of dollars' worth of lumber.

The fire may now be said to extend over the entire northern oil field of Pennsylvania. It is impossible to give the loss, but it will run into the millions, nor can the number of deaths be given on account of the great scope of country which the fire covers.

RAIN TO THE RESCUE.

Forest Fires In Northern Pennsylvania Quenched.

BRADFORD, Pa., June 5.—A downpour of rain has quenched the forest fires in this vicinity and everything is quiet.

Knapp's Creek, N. Y., the town that was threatened with destruction last night, escaped with a loss of three dwellings and 150 oil well rigs and two tanks of oil.

Between Duke Center and Knapp Creek 200 rigs were destroyed, together with a large amount of timber.

The oil fire at West Branch, two miles from here, was extinguished by rain and all fires in that direction are under control.

The total loss throughout the field will not fall far short of $1,000,000.

Clean Out of Danger.

OLEAN, N. Y., June 5.—The forest fires in this section are now under control and unless the wind rises there is no further danger of damage to oil property. The loss north of the Pennsylvania line is small, only a few rigs having been burned in the vicinity of Knapp's Creek.

Martin Road Race.

BUFFALO, May 31.—The annual Martin 25-mile bicycle road race was run here. The weather was fine and the road in magnificent condition. The start was made at 8 o'clock. There were 228 entries. The first man to cross the tape was William Peckham of the Press C. C., Buffalo, with a handicap of 8½ minutes; D. Horton of the Oswego C. C. (9 min.), second, and H. F. Huehne of the Press C. C., Buffalo (6 min.), third. The time prize was won by E. F. Leonert of the Press C. C., who covered the distance in 1:10:30. Peckham's actual riding time was 1:16:27.

Suicide's Body Identified.

ROCHESTER, June 5.—The man who shot himself while on the Southwestern express at Lyons and afterwards died in Syracuse has been identified as Thomas Fagan, a shoe cutter employed for the past three months in Lynn, Mass. Before leaving Rochester he resided with his brother, William Fagan, at 150 Orchard street. He was known to have a revolver in his possession, which he said he carried to protect himself. His relatives here can assign no cause for the suicide.

Johnstown Flood Anniversary.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—Yesterday was the sixth anniversary of the Johnstown flood and last night a large delegation of newspaper men from here left on a special train for Harrisburg, where the Johnstown Flood Correspondents' association will be banquetted by Governor Hastings. At Johnstown there was no demonstration except the decoration of the graves of a number of victims of the flood.

Charles Giblin Pardoned.

ALBANY, June 5.—Charles Giblin of New York city has been pardoned by Governor Morton. Giblin entered a bake shop in New York and tendered a $5 bill in payment for some purchases. A cry was raised by the baker's wife that it was counterfeit and during a general row, in which several persons took part, the woman was shot. Giblin was convicted of the crime.

Drowned While Bathing.

BATH, N. Y., June 1.—E. L. Foster, 46 years old, of Wheeler, went in a creek to bathe and at once showed signs of distress and sunk. The body was afterward recovered.

SHERMAN TO HILL.

Reply to the Latter's Criticism of His Recent Speech.

CINCINNATI, June 3.—A special from Mansfield says:

Senator Sherman, in reply to a query as to whether he had read Senator Hill's criticism of his Zanesville speech, said he had, but that Senator Hill's remarks would indicate that he (Hill) had not read the speech.

"At all the conventions in Ohio," said the senator, "we have declared that we are in favor of the use of both gold and silver maintained at a parity. To the extent that we can maintain the silver at par with gold we coin it at the present rate. We buy the silver at its market value and coin it at the legal ratio, but we maintain it by receiving it and paying it out as the equivalent of gold."

"Is there anything in this to degrade our dollar standards, as Senator Hill says?"

"It does not degrade it. The whole of our policy is to maintain the two metals at par with each other."

"What about Senator Hill's sarcastic reference to our silver dollars and greenback dollars being exportable?"

"Mr. Hill only displays his ignorance when he says that our silver money and all other forms of money are not receivable in England at the value we put upon it, because we receive it and they can send it back on the steamer at a trifling cost and can use it in payment instead of gold. They can present silver certificates and we receive them the same as gold in payment of duties and otherwise. If we refuse to receive them on the parity with all other money, we would at once be on the standard of silver."

Murderer Chatelle Hanged.

STRATFORD, Ont., June 1.—Almede Chatelle, the murderer of Little Jessie Keith last October, was hanged here. He went to the scaffold bravely. The murdered girl's father attended the execution.
