As it was only James Hamilton, the motorman, was killed, and he met death at his post after doing all he could to stop the car.

Passengers were crushed and jammed in the wreck on the car, and had not rescue quickly arrived some of them would have been drowned, as the run was jammed and the water rose rapidly about the wreckage.

After seriously wounding McGloin the thief escaped and made the most remarkable race for liberty ever seen in the streets of Chicago.

Terrible Drought in Ontario.

TORONTO, July 9 — Alarming reports of the drought and loss occasioned thereby come from all parts of Ontario. Creeks, wells and water holes have dried up and in many cases farmers have to go miles for water. There is no food for stock and farmers are cutting down trees for their beasts to browse on. At Chesley a farmer went insane through his losses and ruin stares thousands in the face. Merchants in the various towns refuse to buy goods from commercial travelers until rain comes. To add to the farmers' misery, grasshoppers have appeared and threaten the remains of those crops which the drought has spared.

Light Persons Poisoned by Ivy.

Mr. I. Ten Bosch writes from Rochelle Park, N. J., to Garden and Forest, saying:

"Whenever I see a tree in the embrace of a poison ivy, I take my knife and cut the vine. On the grounds of a few friends and on my own I have cut vines from 1½ to 2½ inches thick, sometimes at the root and sometimes as far up as I could reach, and then tearing down the stems have uprooted them with my hands. I have done this at all seasons, and when my hands were torn by blackberry thorns, but I never had a trace of poisoning. A friend to whom I mentioned my immunity said, 'Of course you are not poisoned, because you are dark.' Since then I have been thinking that in the cases of poisoning which had come to my knowledge the victims had been light haired. A younger brother of mine, who is very fair, has been severely poisoned."

Population of the World.

German geographers have made a careful estimate of the population of Africa, and place the total at 163,953,000, which is 42,240,000 more than the aggregated population of North and South America. Europe and Africa combined have a population of 521,332,000, though their area is not greater than that of all America. The new world has plenty of room for many times its present population of 121,713,000. The German estimate of the population of the world now is 1,480,000,000, and one of the best authorities of the Royal Statistical society says it will be increased by the year 2517 to 33,586,000,000.

Lucky.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

Family of Five Drowned in Lake Keuka While Boating.

ROCHESTER, July 10. A special from Penn Yan says:

One of the saddest accidents ever known on Lake Keuka has happened. Perry Tufft, his wife and their three children lost their lives by the capsizing of a sailboat near Sanderson's dock. Their bodies were recovered.

Mr Tufft and family started to go to Bluff point to pick currants, but were advised not to go, as the lake was very rough at the time. Not heeding the advice, they started out in a small boat with a "mutton leg" sail, and the steamer Holmes coming this way had to stop and back water to keep from sinking their boat.

The next known was when a man saw a boat floating with a string attached to it and after going out to investigate, discovered that it was Tufft's boat with a string dragging behind to which was attached a toy boat that one of the children had with it.

The string was tangled up around the bodies of all three children.

The bodies of the father and mother were recovered shortly after, the mother having one of the children clasped in her arms.

Tufft was a vineyardist, who recently moved here from Canandaigua.

The children were all under 12 years of age.

Narrow Escape From Drowning.

CHICAGO, July 10. Allen Fowler, a prominent young attorney, started for a sail in his yacht Bowery, taking with him Miss Emma Gibson, James Dalton and a man servant. As the yacht was nearing Lincoln park a sudden gust of wind capsized the boat. Miss Gibson, who was swept clear off the wreck, was rescued by Mr Fowler, and the four by the aid of ropes and spars succeeded in clinging to the overturned hull. Chilled and almost helpless, they drifted about within sight of the park until returning daylight revealed their plight to some early fishermen on the beach. Boats were sent out, and the four were taken off the wreck, all of them in an exhausted condition.

Correspondent Woodward Safe.

HAVANA, July 10 — P F Hyatt, the United States consul at Sanciago de Cuba, telegraphs from that city that F R Woodward, the Cuban correspondent of a United States newspaper, who was reported to have been killed during the battle at Boca de Dos Rios in the latter end of May last, is safe.

Hot Fighting In Cuba.

HAVANA, July 9. A severe engagement has taken place between the Spanish troops, under the command of Colonel Aguar, and General Antonio Maceo, the insurgent commander, at the head of a large force of revolutionists. Two hundred and eighty of the revolutionists were killed.

FEAR AS A CAUSE OF DEATH.

The Imagination a Potent Factor In Acquiring a Fatal Disease.

"Of the whole number of persons supposed to die of disease," said a prominent physician the other day, "I should say that at least 50 per cent are really carried away by fear. Were it not for this element mortality would be far less than it is."

In support of his statement he cited various cases where the element of fear had entered largely in as a potent factor to persuade people that their time had come. Presentiments, prophecies, premonitions and general nervousness all played their part. Some years ago four criminals, condemned in Russia to die, were taken to a house and shown several beds, in which, they were told, a number of cholera patients had died. In fact, the beds were new, never having been slept in. The criminals were informed that they would be set at liberty if they would undergo the ordeal of sleeping several nights in the beds. From the prisoners' point of view it was a possible though desperate chance of escape. They one and all decided to take the chances. At the end of the time prescribed two were uninjured and went free, but the others developed all the symptoms and died of Asiatic cholera.

Two physicians determined to take advantage of the impressionable mind of a female patient and prove a theory for the benefit of science. The lady had complained of an itching on her back. She was told that a blister would be applied. Instead a common postage stamp was applied, and, so runs the chronicle, performed all the offices of the plaster which was not there.

A college professor was once the subject of a practical joke at the hands of the students. They met him one after another, and each successively inquired after his health, saying that he looked ill. He took to his bed, a physician was called, and for days the professor imagined he was ill.—New York World.

A Fair Inference.

It is undeniable that actions often speak louder than words. A usurious money lender, who had for some time collected an extortionate interest from a debtor, sent his collector to the man, as usual, one day. The collector returned and reported to his employer that he could not collect the money.

"Do you mean to say that the man declared to you that he wouldn't pay the interest?" the usurer demanded furiously.

"He didn't declare so in so many words, but he gave me to understand so."

"How did he give you to understand so?"

"He kicked me down three flights of stairs!"—Youth's Companion.

In the Past Tense.

"Say, mister," he called, with his head in the door of a Michigan avenue grocery, "do you own a hoss?"

"Yes; I own a horse," replied the grocer as he looked up from his paper.

"And a wagon?"

"Yes; what of it?"

"Nuthin, 'cept you are mistaken about the wagon," drawled the boy. "Your hess took a skate down the street about five minits ago, and there hain't 'nuff of that there wagon left to make a club of."—Detroit Free Press.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Everything Ready For the Big Meeting at Boston.

BOSTON, July 8. The committee having in charge the extensive arrangements for the great Christian Endeavor convention of 1895 which opens here Wednesday, have now practically completed their work and are ready to receive the delegates as they arrive.

These arrangements have been most thorough, combining all the lessons taught by previous conventions, and neither time nor pains has been spared in perfecting them, and the committee announces that 65,000 persons can be provided for without confusion or discomfort.

A few scattering visitors have begun to arrive and more are expected today. The streets are beginning to assume a unique appearance, with appropriately decorated stores, displaying mottoes of welcome and Christian Endeavor emblems. Some of the decorations are on an elaborate scale, and especially upon the church buildings which are to be headquarters during the convention.

Two large tents 264 by 180 feet with a seating capacity of 8,000 each have been pitched on Boston Common and will be ready for occupancy by tonight.
